THE LATEST.

The Tennessee Democratic convention was more harmonious yesterday. There is justification for the fear that the storm may break again when the Committee on Credentials is heard from, which may be late to-day. The convention effected its temporary organization without a hitch yesterday, James C. Bradford, of Nashville, having been selected as presiding officer by the Conference Committee named by the three gubernatorial candidates.

Members of the House Committee on Appropriations have been surprised to learn that the appropriation of $1,500,000 for the new building for the Department of Agriculture has been exhausted and only two wings of the structure have been completed. It was stated in committee yesterday that the law had been plainly disregarded. Secretary Wilson is said to be responsible for the existing situation.

President Delivers Address In Virginia.

THOUSANDS AT PORTSMOUTH.

Old Point Comfort, Va., May 30.—This has been a notable Memorial day in the Commonwealth of Virginia. President Roosevelt joined with the members of the blue and gray in paying tribute to the nation's dead. In the morning he delivered an oration in the beautiful grounds of the Naval Hospital at Portsmouth, and directly afterwards unveiled a handsome marble shaft erected by the Army and Navy Union, in the cemetery adjoining, to the memory of fallen comrades.

The ceremonies at Portsmouth were under the auspices of the Army and Navy Union. The memorial exercises were preceded by a parade, in which nearly 4,000 sailors and marines of the North Atlantic fleet, the Army and Navy Union, the Grand Army of the Republic, the United Confederate Veterans and many civic and patriotic societies took part.

The President's audience numbered many thousands, and the naval contingent, in white uniforms, formed under the giant pine trees in a hollow square, rendered the scene picturesque.

In the afternoon the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, after an informal luncheon and reception to the officers of the Norfolk navy yard at the residence of Rear Admiral P. F. Harrington, commandant of the yard, visited Hampton Institute. The President delivered an address to the Negro and Indian students, afterward making a tour of the school.

He went aboard the Mayflower, anchored just off this point, at 6:35 o'clock. The vessel sailed at 7 o'clock for Washington. The President and his party are expected to arrive in Washington navy yard to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

THOUSANDS AT PORTSMOUTH.

Parade Followed By Address By President Roosevelt.

Portsmouth, Va., May 30.—President Roosevelt joined the people of Virginia to-day in a beautiful and impressive tribute to the nation's dead. Under the auspices of the Army and Navy Union, the organization of the officers and enlisted men of the United States Army and Navy, the President delivered the Memorial Day address here to an audience numbering thousands. Immediately after delivering the oration of the day President Roosevelt unveiled a monument erected on the naval cemetery by the Army and Navy Union to the memory of its dead comrades.

President Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, his sister-in-law, Mrs. Carew, and two of his children, Miss Ethel and Master Quentin, made the trip from Washington to Portsmouth on the cruiser Mayflower. As the ship with the President's ensign flying at her peak, swept past Old Point Comfort a salute of twenty-one guns was fired from the battery at Fort Monroe. When the Mayflower entered the Portsmouth harbor the vessels of the North Atlantic fleet saluted in turn. Precisely at 9:30 o'clock President Roosevelt landed from the Mayflower at the navy yard.

Procession To Grounds.

He was received by Rear Admiral Harrington, commandant of the station, and escorted to a carriage in waiting to convey him to the naval cemetery. Both sailor men and marines from the war ships were on parade in the yard to assist in the reception. The procession was formed immediately and proceeded to the grounds of the Naval Hospital, where the exercises of the day were held. The procession consisted of several thousand men from the North Atlantic fleet, Army and Navy Union organizations, Grand Army veterans, camps of Confederate veterans and many other societies.

Portsmouth was beautifully and patriotically decorated. Business houses and residences were ablaze with red, white and blue and the quaint old city gave such a reception to the President as even Mr. Roosevelt seldom has received. The procession moved from the navy yard to the Naval Hospital grounds through solid lines of people.

Children Greet President.

Thousands were banked on both sides of the street covered by the line of march and everywhere the President was received with marked enthusiasm. A notable feature of the demonstration was the part taken by the school children, who at various places along the line of march greeted the President with the strains of the Star Spangled Banner and the waving of tiny American flags. A pretty incident occurred as the head of the parade passed the Confederate monument in Court street. The members of Stonewall Camp of Confederate Veterans were passed in review by the President. Recognizing Col. W. H. Stewart, the commandent of the camp, President Roosevelt stopped his carriage, shook hands with Col. Stewart and chatted with him for a minute or two. The great throng on the street enthusiastically shouted its approval.

The exercises of the day took place in the great woods of the Naval Hospital grounds. A temporary stand had been erected for the President and distinguished guests. Around this the various organizations which participated in the parade formed a hollow square.

Citizens and invited guests to the number of several thousand attended the ceremonies.

At 11 o'clock the exercises were opened with prayer by Bishop Van Devyver, of the Catholic diocese of Richmond. After music by a military band President Roosevelt was introduced by Col. J. Edwin Brown, National Commander of the Army and Navy Union.

The President's Address.

The President's address was as follows:

This day is hallowed and sacred in our history, for on this day throughout the land we meet to pay homage to the memory of the valiant dead who fell in the great Civil War. No other men deserve so well of this country as those to whom we owe it that we now have a country. Moreover, the men to whose valor we owe it that the Union was preserved have left us a country reunited in fact as well as in name. They have left us the memory of the great deeds and the self-devotion alike of the men who wore the blue and of the men who wore the gray in the contest where brother fought brother with equal courage, with equal sincerity of conviction, with equal fidelity to a high ideal, as it was given to each to see that ideal.

Moreover, it is a peculiar pleasure to speak to-day under the auspices of the Army and Navy Union of the Union which is meant to include the officers and enlisted men of the regular forces of the United States.

Exactly as there is no other body of men to whom in the past we have owed so much as to the veterans of the Civil War, so there is no other body of men among all of our citizens of to-day who as a whole deserve quite as well of the country as the officers and enlisted men of the army and navy of the United States. Every man who has served well and faithfully, afloat or ashore, in the service of the United States, has shown that he possesses certain qualities which entitle him in a peculiar degree to the respect of all his fellow-citizens, while every man who is now in the service cannot but feel himself uplifted by the thought that in any time of future crisis it may be that the honor of the whole nation will depend upon his bearing. There rests upon each of you a tremendous burden of responsibility, and therefore to you belongs the proud privilege of bearing that load of responsibility well.

* * *

The Every Day Duties.

This audience is composed largely of veterans of the Civil War, largely of men who have served in or are serving in the army and the navy of the United States. They are concerned not only with the duties of the soldier and the sailor, but with the duties of the civilian, with all matters affecting the plain, everyday citizen as he does his everyday duties.

For we must always remember that in our country our army and navy are an army and navy made up of volunteers; our regulars, afloat and ashore, are merely our fellow-citizens who of their own free will have taken up this particular task. The task once through they return to the body of our citizenship; and exactly as the efficiency of our military service depends chiefly upon the efficiency of the average enlisted man, so the efficiency of the nation as a whole depends chiefly upon the way in which the average man performs his plain, everyday duties.

This does not mean that the leader, whether in military or civil life, can escape bearing a peculiar burden of responsibility. To him has been given much and from him much will be demanded. It is right and proper that the man in a high position, whether his position be that of a high civilian official in time of peace or of a high military or naval officer in time of war, should receive a marked degree of credit if he performs his difficult, delicate and responsible task well, and should on the other hand, be held to an especially sharp accountability for any shortcomings.

* * *

First Duty of a Leader.

In any time of crisis the man in high office in civil life, the man in high command in military or naval life, can, if he be weak or incompetent, paralyze the actions of a multitude of brave and able men who are under him. On the other hand, if in intellect, and above all, in character, he is able to rise level to the need of the moment, he may so combine and direct the actions of the many under him as to make their joint effort irresistible. The first duty of a leader, civil or military, is to lead; and he must lead well. Exactly as the people must demand the highest grade of integrity and efficiency from their leaders in civil affairs, so in military affairs they must insist upon every officer devoting all the best that there is in him to fitting himself in the duties of his profession, to caring for and drilling and training those under him, so that alike in point of personnel and in point of material the army and navy of the United States may reach as high a point of perfection as is humanly possible. This is the work that only the leaders can do; and if they shirk it their shame is unspeakable.

Nevertheless it remains true that no leader can accomplish very much unless he has the right kind of men to lead. Unless the enlisted man has the right stuff in him it stands to reason that no officer can get it out of him, because it is not there to get out. So in civil life, if all our leaders were Washingtons and Lincolns they could, nevertheless, make no permanent improvement in our citizenship unless the average citizen had in him the capacity for such improvement. In the last analysis it is the man behind the ballot who counts most in civil life, just as it is the man behind the gun who counts most in military life.

We cannot too highly honor the memory of the leaders in the Civil War—of Grant and Lee, of Sherman and Johnston, of Stonewall Jackson and Sheridan, of Farragut and of the Captains who fought under and against him.

* * *

The Man In Ranks.

But after all the man upon whom the chief credit must rest was the plain man in the ranks, the man in blue or in gray who went in to see the war through, and who did see it through. He had the courage to stand without flinching the bickering of the skirmishes and the hammering of the great fights; he had the steadfast endurance to bear with uncomplaining resolution the hunger and the heat and the cold, the scorching days and the freezing nights, the grinding, heartbreaking fatigue of the marches, the wearisome monotony of the camps, and the slow suffering of the field hospitals. So in the army and the navy to-day. In the last analysis we must depend upon having the right stuff in the enlisted man and then upon having that stuff put into proper shape. So again in our republic as a whole it is just as true in peace now as it was forty-five years ago in war that it is the character of the average man that must be the determining factor in achieving national success or going down to national disaster. Leadership is necessary in order that we may get really good results out of a high average of individual character; but without the high character in the average individual the leadership by itself can avail but little.

Now, it is easy to say this in words which shall imply merely flattery of the average voter or of the average enlisted man. I certainly do not intend my words to be so taken. It is a sure sign of weakness in any man if he is always wanting to be flattered, and especially if he lets his head be turned by flattery. The average voter needs to learn and to keep steadily in mind the fact that if in the last resort the real power is his, so in the last resort the real responsibility is his. He can not cast off on anyone else the responsibility for our governmental shortcomings. Nothing is cheaper than to say that the people are all right, but that the poli-

DAY OF CALM IN NASHVILLE

Credentials Committee Now Storm Center.

James C. Bradford Elected Temporary Chairman.

Bob Taylor Speaks At Big Ryan Auditorium.

AROUSES GREAT ENTHUSIASM.

Nashville, Tenn., May 30.—[Special.]—The riotous scenes which marked yesterday's session of the State Democratic convention gave way to-day to the utmost calm, due to the agreement of the Conference Committee of Twelve, representing Patterson, Cox and Bond, agreeing on James C. Bradford, of Davidson county, for temporary chairman. But there are many predictions to-night that when the report or reports of the Credentials Committee are filed the storm will break with increased violence. Many of the delegates, especially those from the country districts worn out with the turmoil, have gone home, but all the leaders are still here and say they intend to stay if it takes a month.

Both sides are just as determined as ever and Judge Bond is holding on in the hope of coming as a compromise candidate. The conferees on chairman spent several hours last night in a fruitless effort to agree on a man and adjourned until this morning when an agreement was finally reached on Bradford.

Bradford Elected.

When the convention met it was called to order by W. T. Murray, of Hamilton, a member of the State Committee, when A. W. Chambliss, the selection of the State Committee for temporary chairman and W. M. Brandon, put up in opposition by the Patterson forces made speeches advocating harmony and eulogizing Mr. Bradford. The latter's name was placed before the convention by R. E. L. Mountcastle, the floor leader; Cox and Horace Palmer, one of the Patterson leaders, seconded the nomination. Mr. Bradford was elected by acclamation and after the Congressional districts had each reported its member for the Credentials Committee and received notice of the contested counties, the convention adjourned until 3 p. m.

A motion to adjourn until 8 o'clock to-night brought such a storm of noes that an earlier hour was decided on. At 3 the Credentials Committee being still out the convention adjourned until 8 o'clock and sent an invitation to Senatorial Nominee Robert L. Taylor to make an address at that hour.

* * *

Contests Taken Up.

The Credentials Committee met at 11:30 o'clock and organized, and at 2 o'clock began the hearing of the contests. Davidson county was first taken up, each side presenting arguments and briefs. Dickson county's contest was practically thrown out on the ground there was only one delegation and the committee had no jurisdiction of differences therein. The trouble in the delegation grows out of the effort of the majority to vote the delegation as a unit for Patterson. Giles county was taken up and threshed over at length. Decision as to Davidson and Giles was reserved. The committee received notice of the withdrawal of the contest in Hickman county, and then adjourned for supper.

The committee continued the hearing of contests by counties to-night, but reached no decisions except as to Marion and Polk. The former was contested by Patterson and the latter by Cox partisans. Both contests were dismissed. The committee wil hardly complete its task before some time to-morrow, and it is freely predicted there will be majority and minority reports and the old fight wil be renewed on the floor of the convention.

There came near being a fight to-night during the hearing of the Maury county contest, but the sergeant-at-arms seized one of the belligerents.

The vast hall of the Ryman Auditorium was packed almost to suffocation to-night to hear "Bob" Taylor, the "apostle of 'sunshine'." As is his custom, Mr. Taylor aroused his hearers to a high pitch of enthusiasm, which reached its climax when he declared he stood ready to stump the State for the gubernatorial nominee, whoever he may be. At the conclusion of Gov. Taylor's speech the convention adjourned to 10 a. m. to-morrow.

Liberty College Commencement.

Glasgow, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—The commencement exercises of Liberty College came to a close to-day with an address to the graduates by the Rev. Dr. T. T. Eaton, of Louisville. The banquet of the alumni last night was a handsome affair, and covers were laid for 100. The year just closed was the most prosperous in the history of the college and over 200 pupils were enrolled. At a meeting of the Board of Trustees Tuesday afternoon the expenditure of $20,000 for new buildings for the school was authorized.

PULL FOR KIMBALL.

Big Delegation Going From Lexington To Frankfort.

Lexington, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—A big delegation will go to Frankfort from Lexington to-morrow morning to attend the meeting of the Democratic committee for this district, to represent the claims of County Attorney W. P. Kimball, who will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress. This delegation will embrace Mayor Combs, County Judge Bullock, John Skain, president of the City Council; Louis Des Cognets, member of the State Racing Commission and president of the Bluegrass Traction Company; Police Judge Riley, Magistrate John Payne, Ernest B. Ellis, secretary of the Home Construction Company; John B. Masner, city jailer, and a number of other influential business men and politicians who take an active part in Mr. Kimball's race. Mr. Kimball is himself confined to his home by illness, and will be unable to personaly attend the meeting. It is expected here that the nomination will be made by a convention to be held on some date in July.

BLOOD POISONING PROVES FATAL

MICHAEL DAVITT, IRISH LEADER, DIES IN DUBLIN.

ILLNESS BEGAN WITH ATTACK OF TOOTHACHE.

A NOTABLE CAREER CLOSED.

Dublin, May 30.—A notable career closed to-night when, after a long and painful illness, Michael Davitt died peacefully and painlessly at 12 o'clock in the presence of his oldest son, Michael, and his two daughters who had devotedly attended him throughout his illness, and many of his most intimate friends, including John Dillon. Shortly before his death, Father Hatton had been with him. Mrs. Davitt, who had been in constant attendance on her husband until a few days ago, when she herself was taken ill, lies prostrate in the same hospital, too weak to leave her room. She has not yet been informed of her husband's death.

It is stated that Mr. Davitt left a written message, but if so, its purport has not transpired.

The greatest sympathy has been displayed by all classes during Mr. Davitt's illness. To-day the hospital was besieged by anxious inquirers. John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish party in Parliament, was a frequent inquirer by telephone from the House of Commons and gave up his proposed continental trip owing to the condition of his friend, the father of the Irish Land League. After a rally last night, Mr. Davitt was able to speak to those at his bedside, but soon showed that he was losing ground.

Among the last callers at the hospital to-night was Lord Hemphill, on behalf of the Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and the Countess of Aberdeen.

Mr. Davitt retired from the representation of South Mayo in Parliament in 1899, but to the last took a keen interest in the politics of his country.

Death was due to blood poisoning, which followed two operations for necrosis of the jaw bone and spread so rapidly that all efforts to stay its course were unavailing. Mr. Davitt's illness began with an attack of toothache, to which he paid no attention until John Dillon urged him to have recourse to medical advice.

For some time there were hopes for his recovery, but the state of his health which was undermined by exertions at the recent general elections greatly handicapped his progress.

Concepcion, Chile, May 30.—The British ship Lismore, Captain Cowell, from Melbourne April 21 for Coronel, has been wrecked at Santa Maria. Twenty-two of the crew were drowned, including all the officers except the first mate, who with three members of the crew landed at Ilico.

Fifteen Drowned At Riga.

Riga, May 30.—The excursion steamer Vima capsized off her pier here last evening in consequence of overloading. Fifteen persons are believed to have perished. Eleven bodies were recovered from below the decks of the steamer when she was raised to-day. The Vima had just started for Dubbeln, a neighboring watering place, when she keeled over and sank.

LAW PLAINLY DISREGARDED

Million and a Half Has Gone Glimmering

In Constructing Two Wings of Department Building.

Two Millions More Needed To Make It Adequate.

SECRETARY WILSON'S 'PLANS.'

Washington, May 30.—What members of the House Committee on Appropriations regard as an absolute disregard of the law authorizing the construction of the new building for the Department of Agriculture prevailed in the hearings on the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill.

In 1903, Congress appropriated $1,500,000 for this building. It was the general understanding that this amendment was for the erection of a complete building for the accommodation of the entire department. It was with some astonishment that the members learned last week that "somebody" has ordered the construction of two wings of what may be some day a completed building, and that the two wings have practically exhausted the million and a half dollars. Moreover, their astonishment was not lessened when they were informed that the two wings when completed will not begin to accommodate the department and that Congress will be called upon to appropriate another couple of million dollars to fill the space between them.

Irritation Develops.

Considerable irritation was developed during the hearings and Secretary Wilson and officials of the Agricultural Department, were questioned concerning what is said to be a direct violation of law.

F. S. Gardner, mechanical engineer of the department, was asked if he knew the limit of cost of the entire building, and replied that he did—that it was $1,500,000.

"You are constructing a building with two wings?" asked Chairman Tawney.

"Yes, sir," replied Mr. Gardner.

"Does your plan contemplate a central administration building?" inquired the chairman.

"It does," said Mr. Gardner.

"Is that also in the contract?"

"That has not been appropriated for. No, sir," replied Mr. Gardner.

Mr. Gardner, continuing his statement, said in reply to further questions by Mr. Tawney that the central administration building was not included in the limit of costs; that it was not even contemplated as yet and that it would have to be appropriated for at sume future time.

* * *

Absolutely Impossible.

"But," asked Mr. Tawney, "does not the act under which this building is being erected require a complete agricultural building to serve the requirements of all the different branches of the department and in which all the work of the department is to be carried on?"

"Well," replied Mr. Gardner, "if the act contemplated that, it is absolutely impossible from my knowledge of the requirements of the department."

"So that in order to rear an agricultural building that will actually accommodate the department Congress will have to appropriate a larger sum to carry out the general plan on which the two present buildings have been based."

"That is the idea exactly," said Mr. Gardner.

It developed further from Mr. Gardner's testimony that the administrative work of the department would continue to be carried on in the present buildings, although Congress provided that it should be torn down. Further than that Mr. Gardner said that two wings in question were being constructed "for laboratory purposes."

* * *

Mr. Wilson Responsible.

"Do you know," asked Mr. Tawney, "who is responsible for the plans of the building that is now being erected that was authorized accepted and approved?"

"The Secretary of Agriculture," replied Mr. Gardner.

Mr. Tawney read the authorization for the building, remarking that there was no question but that it was to accommodate the entire needs of the department, including the Administration building.

Mr. Gardner then testified that $37,000 worth of useless work had been done that the site of the building might be moved forty feet.

"On whose recommendation was the change made?" asked Mr. Tawney.

"There was a meeting at the White House and it was decided by the Secretary and the President that the building should be moved—and also a representative of the Park Commission," replied Mr. Gardner.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson was questioned by the committee and made a long prepared statement in defense of the present construction.

"How can you justify your position?" asked Chairman Tawney. "When you made your plan, if you became satisfied that $1,500,000 was not enough I should have thought you would have informed Congress before going on with the plan you adopted."

* * *

Plan To Exhaust the Money.

"You have a wrong idea in your mind there," said Mr. Wilson. "We made a plan to exhaust $1,500,000. We built in such a way that Congress might add to it, and we made no plans but for our buildings."

The Secretary then went on to detail the great growth of the department and to defend his course in erecting wings that might be added to. The secretary at several points asked Mr. Tawney to get out of his mind the idea that he had any completed plan; that he was going to make any demand for further buildings or that more money would be asked for.

Dr. Galloway and Mr. Wilson, contradicting the testimony of Mr. Gardner, who preceded them, insisted that the wings would accommodate the administrative force, but both admitted that they did not contemplate tearing down the present administrative building as directed by Congress.

Members of the committee assured Mr. Wilson that they did not suspect his integrity or take issue with his wisdom at this time, but that they did not think he had authority in law for what he had done. To a suggestion of this kind the secretary tartly replied: "You make a law without consulting a soul in the Agricultural Department. The man who drafted the law came pretty near the needs and I made the most of it."

SIMON CASTLEN NOW MODERN ENOCH ARDEN

WIFE THOUGHT HIM VICTIM OF RAILROAD WRECK.

SUIT PENDING TO COLLECT LIFE INSURANCE.

NOT HEARD OF FOR TWO YEARS

Owensboro, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—Simon Castlen, an Owensboro man, who was supposed to have been killed in August, 1904, when a Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis train crashed through the Green river bridge at Spottsville, Ky., is alive and well.

"I have been absent from Owensboro two years on account of family troubles," said Mr. Castlen to-night. He was asked if he had returned to have a reconciliation with his wife. He said: "No; it is no use. She has married a man in Evansville."

Castlen left Owensboro two and a half years ago. In August, 1904, he wrote his wife a letter from Texas, stating that he was preparing to return home. He changed his mind, but did not notify his wife, who anxiously awaited his home coming. When the wreck occurred at Green river Mrs. Castlen conceived the idea that one of the men killed was her husband. The bodies of the dead men were taken to Henderson and buried. The wife had one of the bodies exhumed and thought she partially identified the remains as those of her husband.

Castlen had a policy for $2,000 with the order of the Knights and Ladies of Honor. The order refused to pay the death claim and Mrs. Castlen brought suit for the amount. The suit is set for trial next week.

It is understood that Mrs. Castlen was recently married to Edward Kelly in Evansville, Ind. A few weeks ago Castlen's father, Lee Castlen, died in this county and left a large estate. Castlen is here for the purpose of obtaining a share of the estate, no provision having been made for him on account of his father thinking he was dead. Castlen says that he will not cause his wife any trouble; that he is satisfied. He has resided in Indiana for the past two years.

AUTO TANK BLOWS UP, INJURING SEVENTEEN

MACHINE CAUGHT BETWEEN TWO STREET CARS.

DR. J. C. ATKINS PROBABLY FATALLY BURNED.

FIERY OIL OVER PASSENGERS.

Cincinnati, O., May 30.—Seventeen persons were injured, one fatally, in a collision between an automobile owned by Dr. J. C. Atkins, of 124 Hosea street, and two street cars on Vine street hill near here to-day. The chauffeur tried to pass between a Mill Creek Valley car, south bound, and a Vine and Norwood car, north bound. Immediately after the collision the storage tank of the automobile exploded, throwing the burning oil over both cars as well as the automobile. Dr. J. C. Atkins, Bertha and Eugenia Nulson, sisters, and Chauffeur Walter Levall, colored, who were in the automobile, were seriously burned. Dr. Atkins was burned about the face and head, and probably will die. Thirteen of the passengers on the Mill Creek Valley car were slightly burned. Both cars and the automobile were completely destroyed.

Thought He Was a Burglar.

Decatur, Ala., May 30.—[Special.]—Crazed with whisky, Frank Britton wandered from home and was shot dead last night while attempting to crawl into the window of a farmhouse, the farmer mistaking him for a burglar. He formerly lived in Pennsylvania.

WITH ROSES AND HONEYSUCKLE

Graves of Veterans Bloom In Cave Hill Cemetery.

Impressive Services Held By G. A. R. of City.

Geo. A. Newman, Jr., Makes Eloquent Address.

BIG CROWD IN ATTENDANCE.

The first bright Decoration day in years smiled on the Federal veterans of the Civil War, the veterans of the Spanish-American War, and all patriots of high and low degree who assembled over 5,000 strong at Cave Hill cemetery yesterday afternoon to attend the memorial services of those who had fallen in the defense of their country and to decorate their graves. As in years before many umbrellas were to be seen. They were not in use as protection from the rain but rather to ward off the too hearty brightness of the sun. The feature of the day was the address of George A. Newman, Jr., who asked if it were not an anomaly that "we should stand beside the graves of but a portion of our heroic dead, and, having laid our wreaths upon them, go away with no single thought for those who, but a few yards distant in this same cemetery, lie the victims of equally heroic sacrifice? * * * * Shall we on the one day of the year which has been consecrated by the blood of our own people, return to their graves to draw a line of separation and to remember that we were ever other than one?"

Beautiful Cave Hill cemetery, its hedge rows of honeysuckle abloom and fragrant and many blossoming shrubs lending bright bits of color to the scene, was dotted from morning to night by persons who had gone there to place flowers on the graves of loved ones other than those who had worn the blue. In the early part of the afternoon people began flocking eastward in all manner of conveyances. For several hours before the services were due to begin, all the cars leading to the cemetery were crowded and by the time the members of the four posts had assembled at the gate, the line of march through the cemetery was lined with people, many of whom had become tired and were seated on the grass. One by one the four posts formed in line, two abreast, at the entrance and, headed by the band composed of some of the small boys of the Louisville Industrial School of Reform, with slow and measured step, marched around the drive to the hillside before the rostrum in the national cemetery.

Big Crowd About Stand.

Capt. Thomas Riley, with a detail of fifteen men, had drawn lines around the rostrum, reserving a place for the veterans to stand before the speakers. Up to the time that the band reached the inclosure the lines were kept, but later the rush of people was so great as to overpower the police. As the lines of people along the roadway watched the veterans pass they at first turned and fell in behind, but later fell in step side by side with the old soldiers who soon were almost lost to sight in the midst of a moving crowd. It was almost impossible for the police to distinguish between the old men who were soldiers and the old men who were not soldiers, for few of them except the marshal, Col. Americus Whedon, and his aides, C. L. Jones and Samuel Lord, were in uniform. So when the exercises began the lines were lost and the crowd was closely packed about the speaker's stand.

It was a very few minutes after 3 o'clock when Herman Kern sounded the assembly, immediately after which Col. Thomas Sheehan introduced the Rev. Dr. M. P. Hunt, pastor of the Twenty-second and Walnut street Baptist church, who offered the prayer. The thousands were standing or seated around on the sides of the slopes which formed a great natural amphitheater. Dr. Hunt prayed for the blessing of God on all similar assemblies, which he said were being held all over the country in cemeteries where sleep patriotic dead.

Col. Sheehan addressed the comrades, friends, fathers, mothers and little children, of which there were many, before him. He spoke of how they had assembled to strew flowers on the graves of those who had given up their lives to make the nation what it is to-day, the paradise of nations. He spoke of memorial ceremonies as teachers of the spirit of patriotism which, he said, is as necessary to the safety of the nation as is religion to the destiny of the soul. Decoration day he characterized as the nation's holy day. He closed by reciting Lincoln's address at Gettysburg.

Mr. Newman Speaks.

Mr. Newman followed immediately. He spoke clearly and feelingly and, although applause is not so much of a feature of the ceremonies of Decoration day as it is of other occasions, he was frequently interrupted by signs of approval. Mr. Newman drove home with fervor the force of his remarks, which were eloquent and patriotic. At the conclusion of the services many of the veterans pressed around him to thank him and to make their compliments on his address.

The veterans joined in the singing of "America" with the band, with a spirit that must have characterized their efforts on the battlefield. Dr. Hunt pronounced the benediction, after which the order to break ranks was given and the assembly dispersed to strew flowers on the graves of the soldier dead.

At the head of every tombstone, whether marked by name or number, a small American flag had been placed earlier in the day before the people assembled and each of the dead in the 5,000 graves slept again under the emblem for which he had fought. Great wagonloads of flowers had followed the people to the scene and the many little children who had been in the assembly around the rostrum were pressed into service. Each with a basket filled with sprigs of honeysukle, sprays of roses, or with armloads of flowers, passed between the rows of headstones, decorating the graves.

Those who laid the flowers on the graves at the top of the hill over which "Old Glory" flies could look down the other side of the slope to the graves of Confederate dead, which were covered with many withered flowers bearing mute testimony to the loving care of those who had assembled there last week. Before all left the scene every Union soldier's grave had its flowers, together with the flag flying at the head. Many of the woman lingered to bestow a last touch on some of the decorations and others contributed something of their own to the graves which had not fared as well as others.

Groups of veterans stood about on the lawns fighting over again for the hundredth time the battles of the past. The sight of a name on one of the headstones, which for the most part bore only numbers, recalled to one man, perhaps, the circumstances of the death of the hero and a discussion as to the victories of that day was immediately precipitated. At length all was over, the last flag was furled, the last music played by the band, the last flower strewn on the last grave, and with one impulse all turned to retrace their steps to the entrance, to which the police already had turned their attention. It was more than an hour before the last group had left the gateway, before the last special car had been filled and before the place resumed its normal appearance.

Services For Vincent T. Cox.

During the exercises held by the Union veterans of the Civil War the members of Frank T. McComb Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, were marching to the grave of Vincent T. Cox, a comrade who had given up his life as the result of the war. Strains of music from the Highland military band reached across the hills to the ears of those who listened to the address of Mr. Newman. The grave of Mr. Cox lies to the rear of the chapel in the cemetery. The members of the camp, or at least a part of them, under command of Comrade Henry Baass, assembled at the barracks in the Masonic building and, preceded by the band, marched to the cemetery.

The veterans formed around the grave, with the band at the edge of the circle. The exercises were opened by the invocation by the Rev. Dr. J. G. Minnigerode, rector of Calvary Episcopal church. Immediately following, "America" was sung by the audience to the accompaniment of the band. Major W. C. Owens made the address over the grave, all the others standing around with heads bared. He spoke briefly and feelingly of the life and death of Mr. Cox and touched on the place that he holds in the hearts of his countrymen. The band played "My Old Kentucky Home," which was followed by a cornet solo, "Nearer My God to Thee," in the chorus of which the audience joined.

Comrades of the dead then decorated the grave. Great boxes of flowers had been left nearby and the contents of these were banked high over the grave. Taps was impressively sounded by Herman Justi after which benediction was pronounced by the Rev. George H. Means, pastor of Lander Memorial church. The veterans formed in line at the roadway on the top of the slope and, at a brisk pace, moved rapidly toward the entrance, where they dressed ranks, saluted the flag and disbanded.

Yesterday morning was devoted by the veterans of the war with Spain to the decoration of the graves of their comrades in the different cemeteries in and near the city. Many of the members assembled yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the barracks in the Masonic building, where, under the direction of Capt. J. R. Clements, detachments were assigned to visit the different cemeteries and strew flowers on the graves.

The graves of the following men were decorated with the colors and with flowers:

Main Address In Full.

The address of George A. Newman, Jr., was as follows:

Friends and Fellow-countrymen: The day on which we meet is hallowed by the most sacred memories.

The receding vista of passing years, the grim events of strife and carnage that marked the crisis of our national life have lost their harsh appearance beneath the merciful gray of historic shadow, but the sweet fragrance from the crushed flowers of patriotism is still borne to us with the spell of perennial magic. Under its potent charm we review the army of our hero dead, and crown them again with the laurels of their country's undying love and pride.

These graves, upon which we cast today the blossoms of affectionate remembrance, are not the mere chambers of the nation's honored dust; they are the scars upon her bosom that tell with silent eloquence the story of her emergence from the welding fires of war into the splendid solidarity that has given her foremost place among the nations of the world.

We are here again reverently to pay our tribute to those who so willingly gave their lives to bridge the threatening chasm that would have destroyed the integrity of these United States. Their death brought bereavement to countless homes, but gave a heritage of unfading glory to their country.

In their physical presence they have passed from the stage of national activity, but in the spirit they are forever with us, the vanguard in our march toward that destiny for which the foundation was laid upon their dust.

The firesides of a nation have mourned their losses; every fiber of the Government itself has been shaken to its foundation, but having conquered by its heroism hitherto unknown in the annals of a world, a greater people arise and give praise to the magnificent sacrifice with whose birth has come a better and stronger individual and national life.

* * *

Significance of Flag.

We rejoice in the significance of that glorious flag under whose folds to-day we come together. In its color and design we read a symbolry rich in meaning for the true lover of his country. The red portrays that spirit of courage and sacrifice which is essential to the greatness of any people. The blue represents our national consistency to those principles of liberty and righteousness, which have been the pole star of our course from colonial infancy to the maturity of nationhood, while the white pictures the era of peace and prosperity, and attainment of ideals upon which of late years we have so promisingly entered.

In the stripes we see the disciplinary chastisement of war by which we have gained character and dignity; in the stars the fitting emblem of the splendid future of a united and enlightened people.

We are not here to accentuate sectional differences. It is with no invidious choice that we decorate to-day the graves of but a portion of our heroic dead. We pour out our oblation upon the green mounds of these defenders of the Union, but the last drop of lingering bitterness that mingled with the contents of the cup in bygone days forever vanished in that more recent conflict which brought us shoulder to shoulder for the cause of Cuba's freedom.

Before the efforts of an effete European monarchy to perpetuate its old world tyranny on free America summoned us to battle for an oppressed people, among the hills of Tennessee there lay a grave, on the simple headstone of which was carved this legend:

"To the memory of a Confederate soldier who gave his life for his country."

After the American squadron had annihilated Cervera at Santiago, after Dewey had planted the Stars and Stripes on the fortress overlooking Manila Bay, beside that grass-grown mound in Tennessee another grave was dug, and at its head a stone was put on which the pilgrim to the sanctuaries of his nation's life may read,

"To the memory of the son of a Confederate soldier
Who gave his life for his country."

It is with such amalgam as this that we have become one.

* * *

Mighty Transformation Wrought.

In the transition from the first inscription to the second so like it, there has been wrought a mighty transformation. Wounds have been healed, barriers have been broken down, chasms have been bridged, lines of demarcation have been obliterated. North and South are now merely geographical terms; they have lost political significance, and we are a united people facing the future with unbroken front, and with a hope that like the rising sun, gains glory with each passing hour.

The splendid unity which characterizes the life of our people to-day is the realization of the dream of that prophetic statesman, Abraham Lincoln. When others were despairing he maintained his magnificent optimism, and with the genius of an inspired patriot unfalteringly charted out the course by which his exalted ideal of a free and united America might be achieved.

He has had great successors, men who have worthily sought to further the cause he espoused with his life; men who have steadily refused to make political capital by reopening the country's wounds, and have by word and deed labored to cement the ties between the one-time alienated sections of this now happy land.

It would seem that it was in the purpose of Divine Providence that the disaster to the Maine precipitated the conflict in the furnace heat of which our people were indissolubly fused. We recall now with pride that it was young Bagley, of North Carolina, who was first to shed his blood in the battle of Cardenas following Old Glory with its message of freedom for the Pearl of the Antilles. It was Victor Blue, of South Carolina, who, scorning the fire of the enemy, pierced its cordon, and brought the first official tidings telling of the success of American arms in Cuba. It was Hobson, of Alabama, who won the plaudits of the world by his cool and ingenious plan of shutting the door in the face of the Spanish Admiral, and it was Brumby, of Georgia, who raised the flag over Manila, after Dewey had made a pyrotechnic exhibit of the enemy's fleet. I mention these facts of recent history because they are the true flowers of a new chivalry that have blossomed upon the graves of the buried past.

Ex-Confederates Honored.

We rejoice to-day that among others to whom were intrusted the honors of their country in that strife were Joe Wheeler, of Georgia, and Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, who received their commissions from William McKinley, of Ohio. But Georgia, Virginia and Ohio were forgotten then in the larger thought of the United States.

And the great work continues.

Providence has given to this nation a man who, following in the footsteps of McKinley, embodies in himself as perhaps no other has since Lincoln, the noblest ideals of the American people. With the Puritan iron of New England, with the manly independence of the West, and with the chivalrous spirit of the South, he has been a focal center for the sentiment and affection of all classes in all sections of the country. With the strength of a man big in mind and heart, he has ignored the associations of men during the days of division, and recognizing worth where worth exists, irrespective of all other considerations, has appointed to positions under the Federal Government those who at one time were prominent in the ranks of the Confederacy. It was he who made Joe Wheeler, the wounded veteran of the Army of the West, a General in the Federal army, and proclaimed to the world by so doing that the people of this country were one in heart and hand, and must be reckoned with as a unit in all issues of the future.

Roosevelt a Peacemaker.

No presidential tour has ever been so fruitful of good as that on which Roosevelt visited the South. He came to a community in which the seeds of prejudice had been sedulously sown, where his official acts had been maliciously misrepresented, and his very efforts to break down all barriers of race and creed had been turned to account as political capital against him. In the face of these conditions he set himself to do the work of a peacemaker; he brought a message of brotherhood; he rose above petty jealousies and the criticism of narrow minds, and held before the people a vision of a greater nationhood, in which the interests of a part should be subordinated to the good of the country as a whole.

The men of the South were not slow to grasp the significance of his appeal, nor to respond to its inspiration. The fires of enthusiasm were kindled. They recognized in him the herald of a brighter and better day. He returned to the people of the North with the assurance that there is no longer any dividing line; in spirit and in aim the people of the United States are forever one.

In the light of these magnificent facts it is not an anomaly that we should stand to-day beside the graves of but a portion of our heroic dead, and having laid our wreaths upon them, go away with no single thought for those who but a few yards distant in this same cemetery lie the victims of equally heroic sacrifice?

Why, when in all other spheres of our national existence we have gladly agreed to forget the heart-burnings of the past, should we, of all times in the solemnizing presence of our dead, revive the spectre of division?

* * *

Shoulder To Shoulder.

In the great warfare which our nation is waging for a better civilization; in our efforts to secure for every man, not only of our own race, but of all races, a square deal and an equal opportunity, we are battling shoulder to shoulder.

Shall we on the one day in the year which has been consecrated by the blood of our own people, return to their graves to draw a line of separation and to remember that we were ever other than one?

In the broader light of this new day that has dawned upon us the thought seems intolerable.

It is because of this that I urge another step in the consolidation of our race.

We are one in life, shall we not recognize that our heroes are one in death?

Shall we not catch up their memories in the spirit of our new nationhood, and clasp them without distinction to the proud heart of their country?

May it not be that when another year has passed, and our thought revert again to these sleeping guardians of our nation's honor, that we who cherish the names of the soldiers of the Union, and they to whom the traditions of the Confederacy are precious will come together and on the same day and at the same hour scatter our blossoms upon the graves of all who fell at that dark time of crisis, and in common speech give glory to our noble dead!

This would indeed be the apotheosis of our union.

Then would the wounds and woes of former days be gloriously transfigured, and become a halo for that higher national life to which every true American aspires. Then on that ground, which to all of us is holy ground, we could stand together and say in the words of Richard Watson Gilder:

Dear country mine! far in that viewless West,
And ocean-warded, strife thou, too, hast known;
But may thy sun hereafter bloodless shine,
And may thy way be onward without wrath,
And upward on no carcass of the slain;
And if thou smitest, let it be for peace
And justice—not in hate, or pride, or lust
Of empire. Mayst thou ever be, O Land,
Noble and pure as thou art free and strong;
So shalt thou lift a light for all the world,
And for all time, and bring the Age of Peace.

LEADER'S DUTY IS TO LEAD

ticians are all wrong. As a matter of fact, politics, and therefore politicians, will in the long run represent faithfully either the wishes or the indifference of the people; and if the people are indifferent the results are just about as bad as if they deliberately choose to go wrong. So it is with the enlisted man. When I call attention to the high place he holds and must ever hold in the esteem of every sensible man I do it less with the intention of emphasizing the respect due him by outsiders than with the intention of making him realize the burden of honorable obligation resting upon his shoulders. By unwearied effort he must learn to do his duty, whether that duty lies afloat or ashore, whether it lies in the cavalry or the infantry, in the gun turret or in the engine room. He must be able to handle himself and to handle the formidable and delicate mechanism intrusted to his care in such manner that if ever it becomes his fortune to take part in battle for the flag another page shall be added to the many which go to make up the long honor roll of American history.

San Francisco Disaster.

In closing I ask your attention to the fact that our soldiers and sailors are able to do their duty in great emergencies even other than those of war. Recently the most appalling disaster that has ever befallen any city in our country, the most appalling disaster that has befallen any city of the same size for a century past, befell the great and beautiful city of San Francisco. In the midst of their horror and pity and sympathy the rest of our people were rendered proud and glad by the courage, the self-reliance, the self-command shown by the men and women of San Francisco themselves under the sudden and awful calamity which had befallen them. We had yet another source of pride in the fact that the first Americans outside the city who were able to extend relief and help were the officers and enlisted men of the garrison and the ships in the immediate neighborhood of San Francisco. The alertness, the instant response to the demand made upon them, the mixture of self-reliant initiative with orderly obedience and coherence of action, the high personal valor and the steady endurance and strength shown by the soldiers and sailors of the regular army and navy in coping with this disaster, were as great as if shown in time of battle. Such a record should make every true American proud of the army and the navy, and should make every true American resolute to see that through our national authorities at Washington we make such provision by law for the maintenance, the support and the training of the army and the navy that they shall ever stand in the forefront of their respective professions.

NOTABLE ADDRESS

By President To Students of Hampton Institute.

Hampton, Va., May 30.—A notable address was delivered to the students of Hampton Institute this evening by President Roosevelt. He dwelt particularly on the necessity for the development of character, maintaining that education will fit none for citizenship unless accompanying it there is the right type of family life in the home. President Roosevelt spoke extemporaneously and with deep earnestness. Speaking directly to the negro students, he said:

Now, the first thing upon which I wish to lay emphasis is that a school such as this, which strives to raise the colored man and colored woman, to make them better citizens, is pre-eminently in the interest of the white man. There is nothing that can be done better for the white man, who is to live side by side with the colored man, than to train that colored man to be a good citizen. The good man, who is a white man, by his presence, is a benefit to every colored man in the community, and the safety of the white man is in having the colored man grow to be a good and decent man.

* * *

Homemakers and Homekeepers.

From the standpoint of the white man, the safest and best thing that can happen is to have the colored people around him become thrifty, industrious homemakers and homekeepers, for you never yet had any formidable quantity of criminals from a people or a locality where the average type was the homemaker and the homekeeper. So, from the standpoint of the white man, nothing better can be done than to give to the colored man that real education, that real training, which he gets here at Hampton and in similar institutions.

From the standpoint of the colored man, the only real way to help him is to help him help himself. In the long run in this world, no human being can be carried. The colored man who helps his race most is he who helps teach the members of his race how to conduct themselves with self-respect—hard-working, intelligent, law-abiding citizens. It's the honest virtues that count in the long run. No race, no nationality ever raises itself by the exhibition of genius in a few men; what counts is character. If we can develop in the average colored citizen those qualities of character, of courage, of truthfulness, of sense of obligation, of willingness to work, of desire to behave decently toward those round about you, you have taken the longest and most effective step toward securing for the people of your own race their own self-respect and the respect of others, which will follow inevitably in the training of that self-respect.

Advantages of Rural Life.

It is often said that the true place for the negro is in industrial work, and it is the true place for the average man, and we will not get our civilization upon a proper basis until we root out of the mind of the average man and the average girl of whatever color the belief that to become a poor clerk is a better thing than being a first-class handworker, a first-class mechanic or a first-class agricultural laborer. The wrong twist that has been given to our education in the past has been largely responsible for the very healthy development of the city at the expense of the country. Never in the past has any nation been permanently great when the city population has been enormous in size as compared with the country population.

If there is one thing I would like especially to impress upon you, it is to advise you to take up the work on the farms with the intention of owning them. In doing that you will be doing only what the best, the most intelligent and most advanced white people are more and more growing to do. The growth of agricultural colleges and their development has been one of the significant features of education for the white race because more and more have people grown to realize that the child of the farmer must be developed scientifically, his abilities be given full play as they can only be given through the aid of education and science.

WHO WAS MOREY?

Convict Killed At Greensboro Unidentified.

FRIEND IN NORTH CAROLINA WRITES OF HIS DEATH.

NOT KNOWN IN LEXINGTON BY ANY NAME GIVEN.

WILL REMAIN A MYSTERY.

Lexington, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—Former Sheriff J. Wilkerson received to-day a letter from Max T. Payne, a friend of Brent A. Morey or Morey A. Brent, the young convict who was killed while attempting to escape from the guards at Greensboro, N. C., a few days ago, and who was alleged to have been a native of Fayette county. The letter gives the first authentic personal description of the dead man. The letter in full is as follows:

Greensboro, N. C., May 26, 1906.—Mr. G. T. Wilkerson, Sheriff Fayette County, Lexington, Ky.: My Dear Sir—Last November there came to this city a young man calling himself John B. McMillen, and representing himself as a wealthy young man wishing to invest in the lumber business. He succeeded in interesting a firm here, and after being with them about a month forged some checks amounting to about $400. He was arrested, placed in jail here and at last January term of court was convicted of forgery and sent to the county roads for two years.

Last Wednesday he and four negroes tried to escape from the guards and he and one negro were killed.

I knew him quite well during his first appearance here; in fact, roomed next room to him in the hotel and naturally knew him better than others. So when I heard he was shot some friends and myself got in an automobile and went to where he was shot, about twenty miles from here. As we thought all the time he was under a fictitious name, we might be able to get him to confess his room when he told his name, but nothing more. They understood him to say Butt A. Morey, living four miles from Lexington, Ky., on Piers pike; and this was given to newspapers by his nurse as his real name. But to me it sounded as if his name was Brent A. Emory, living about three miles from Lexington, on Spyers pike. In fact, he spelled his name, but they in some way did not catch it. He said his father was living and mother was dead. More than this I could not get him to confess, as he seemed to want to keep his family's name in good honor and not be disgraced by him.

He told me he had left home on account of money matters similar to this, but more serious; further he would not tell.

Now, getting to the point I want. Can you give me any information of any of his family or himself? It is a purely personal matter with me, as I want to inform his family of his death, etc. He was a handsome young man, about twenty-five years old, brown hair, gray eyes, weighing about 185 pounds, smooth shaven and possessing a fine education. In fact, at times he told me he had attended school at Columbia University, New York.

MAX T. PAYNE.

P. O. Box 55.

There has not yet been found the slightest really authentic clue to the dead convict ever having lived in Fayette county, and the probabilities are there will not be. The authorities do not believe he ever lived here.

REJECT SMOKER

NOT PROPER MAN FOR HEAD OF RELIGIOUS SOCIETY.

Assembly of United Presbyterian Church Refuses Application of the Rev. J. A. Burnett.

Richmond, Ind., May 30.—The first sensational proceedure of the entire session of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church came today when it was announced that the assembly, by a decisive vote, emphatically turned down the recommendation of the Committee on Nominations, that the Rev. John A. Burnett, of Monmouth, Ill., should be made general secretary of the Young People's Society, on the ground that the Rev. Mr. Burnett is a user of tobacco. The assembly took the view that he was not a proper man to be at the head of this organization of young people, and substituted the name of the Rev. W. W. Lawrence, of Bellevue, Ill. It was asserted after the session that the Rev. Mr. Burnett is a minister held in high esteem, and the fact that he smokes was the only objection that could be raised to his selection as general secretary of the Young People's Society. The action was regarded as a most emphatic declaration of the belief of the church in general that the tobacco habit shall not be tolerated, especially in the ministry.

SHONTS DELIVERS TWO ADDRESSES IN ATLANTA.

Takes Strong Ground In Advocacy of Lock Canal System For Panama.

Atlanta, Ga., May 30.—Theodore P. Shonts, chairman of the Panama Canal Commission, was the guest to-day of Atlanta friends, and his presence in Atlanta was made the occasion for several entertainments and public functions, at which he met a large number of business and professional men, and delivered two addresses. The first was at the dedication of a new building at Agnes Scott Institute, a college for women in Decatur, a suburb of Atlanta. The second was delivered this evening before the Chamber of Commerce, in which he spoke of the relations of the South to the Panama canal. He took strong grounds in advocacy of the lock canal system. Later in the evening Mr. Shonts was entertained at a banquet tendered by fifty citizens and attended by Gov. Terrell and many others of prominence, politically and financially.

MAN SHOT BY MISTAKE NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE.

The condition of George D. Copher, the Illinois Central railroad conductor, who was shot about a month ago by C. L. Wilson, with whom he boarded, and who mistook him for a burglar, remains unchanged at St. Joseph's Infirmary, where he is in a critical condition. His death is expected at any time by the physicians. Blood poisoning has developed. Mr. Wilson, as well as the relatives of the injured man, is at the bedside most of the time. His father, W. H. Copher, who was summoned Tuesday, arrived yesterday and is with his son.

Copher was shot by Wilson as he was entering the Wilson home early one morning. He left the house in the evening intending to go out of the city on a train, but returned to the home without doing so. Wilson, who heard him enter, concluded that a burglar was in the house and fired a shot, the bullet striking Copher.

WORK STOPS BECAUSE OF LACK OF FUNDS.

San Francisco, May 30.—Building operations in the ruined portions of the city have received a decided setback owing to the dilatory tactics of the underwriters. To-day the men engaged on the Crocker, Shreve, Mutual Savings Bank and St. Francis Hotel were given notice that all work must cease because of lack of funds. Owners and builders assert that they have used every effort to persuade the underwriters to advance insurance moneys, but without avail.

Hagan's Plan For Sunday Closing Cases.

Charges Against Goss Dismissed In Police Court.

Penal Action To Be Filed Against Ball Players.

ATTORNEYS IN ARGUMENT.

After a spirited contest between opposing attorneys in the Police Court yesterday, the six cases against Frank Goss, and the one case against Thomas King, charged with keeping open their saloons on Sunday, were dismissed on motion of Robert J. Hagan, city prosecuting attorney. The cases against the ball players arrested Sunday, charged with working at their trade or calling, were filed away for a future hearing. A decision in the cases of the remaining saloonkeepers arrested Sunday on the charge of keeping open their places of business for the sale of spirituous, malt and vinous liquors will be given by Judge McCann Friday morning.

Standing room in Police Court was at a premium yesterday. Long before 9 o'clock, the time for convening court, almost every available bit of floor space had been taken. Ministers, representing almost every religious denomination in Louisville, stood side by side with saloonkeepers, brewers' agents and liquor dealers. All appeared anxious for the wheels of the law to get into action, and a murmur of approval was heard when Judge McCann finally took his seat and rapped for order.

In the saloon cases Aaron Kohn appeared for the defendants, all of whom, with the exception of Patrick Cain, were present. Robert J. Hagan, city prosecuting attorney, appeared for the State, and Judge A. E. Richards, city attorney, was there in the interest of the Board of Public Safety.

As soon as the cases had been called, Aaron Kohn, for the defendants, offered in writing the following motion:

First—To dismiss all the warrants and charges made against the defendant, Goss, except the first, there having been six arrests made and six charges preferred for violating the statute of Sabbath-breaking and selling liquor on the Sabbath day, based upon acts charged to have been done in one and the same day, to-wit: Sunday, May 27, 1906, and upon the ground that all of said acts charged, even if true, constituted a single offense, and that there can be but one prosecution and one penalty for a violation of the Sunday law upon a single day, even if the defendant be guilty under the law.

Second—The defendant moves to dismiss all the warrants upon the ground that they are warrants of arrest, that said arrests were made without warrant, and without authority of law, and that said arrests were never ordered by any court of competent jurisdiction; that the proceedings herein should be by summons and not by order of arrest, unless differently ordered by the court having jurisdiction thereof.

Third—The defendant demurs to the warrants charging the keeping open of a bar, etc., based upon Section 1303 of the Kentucky Statutes upon the grounds (first) that the acts do not constitute a public offense within the jurisdiction of this court; (second), that said section of the statute has been repealed and is not the law of Kentucky; (third), that it is void.

Fourth—The defendant demurs to the warrants charging a violation of the Sabbath day by performing work and labor on said day under Section 1321 of the Kentucky Statutes upon the following grounds: First, that said section is void, being a religious statute and not for the enforcement of the secular Sunday; second, that it is special legislation; third, that under its provisions those observing any other day than the seventh day as a Sabbath day are exempted and cannot be held responsible for a violation thereof; fourth, that the acts charged came within the exceptions of said statute as works of necessity; that the warrants herein are the exercise of arbitrary power discriminating against the defendants and not the general enforcement of a law.

It is agreed that the foregoing propositions be argued, and that this motion may be considered as filed in each case, and be applicable to each and all of them, and the decisions therein applicable alike to all cases coming within the purview of the court.

Attorneys In Clash.

Following the reading of Mr. Kohn's motion, Mr. Hagan, Prosecuting Attorney, moved first to file away the cases against the ball players. He then moved to file away the six cases against Frank Goss, stating that the easiest way to get a test of the case was to file it away and bring a penal action. Mr. Kohn objected, asserting that the defendant had some rights that should be respected. He said that he was charged with an offense, and that he was either guilty or not guilty. In either event he was entitled to an immediate trial, and there was no law by which the case against Goss could be filed away, he said.

When Mr. Hagan stated that the Court of Appeals was the best place to settle a test case, Mr. Kohn replied at length. He denounced the authorities for having arrested Goss six times and then refusing to try him. He said the case against Goss should be tried or dismissed; that the defendant had been brought into court against his will and that his case should be disposed of.

The first blood for the defendants was drawn when Judge McCann said there was no reason why the Goss case should not be tried. He overruled the motion of Mr. Hagan to file the six cases against Goss away, whereupon Mr. Hagan said that in view of this decision he would ask that the cases against Goss be dismissed. He said that all the points raised on demurrer could best be tried in the other cases at issue.

Mr. Hagan then took up his argument, tending to show the constitutionality of the statute providing for Sunday closing. He also argued that when a man is arrested and after his release he again proceeds to violate the law, he can be rearrested on the same charge as the first, he having committed a separate offense. He contended that the defense was wrong in holding that offenders could not be arrested without a warrant. It was lawful to arrest in every case where the man was caught in the act, he said. He said that the courts had decided such cases repeatedly. In some cases the courts had recommended that a warrant be taken, he said, but it was not always necessary. He cited numerous authorities which went to prove his assertion that warrants were not necessary where the man arrested was caught "red-handed."

Kohn Argues For Defendants.

It was 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Mr. Kohn began his argument. He said the character of cases he then was defending was not new to him, the courts having decided the questions at issue four times in favor of his clients. He said that the arrest of Goss six times was trespass, and he contended that if a saloonkeeper sold 5,000 glasses of beer on Sunday he could not be fined any more than if he had sold but one glass of beer.

Referring to the arrests without warrants, Mr. Kohn said no man could read the law and say warrants were not necessary. He read from the statutes covering the subject.

Continuing, Mr. Kohn said that men were sometimes kidnaped and taken into court. He intimated that such was the predicament of his clients. He said they were in court, despite the fact that they had been arrested without warrants, that they wanted to be tried, and were willing to abide by the law.

The third contention of Mr. Kohn that Sec. 1303, making it unlawful for liquor to be sold on Sunday, had been repealed by the enactment of Sec. 1321, was next taken up by him. He contended that there was no appeal to the Court of Appeals in such cases. He said the court of last resort was the Jefferson Circuit court, criminal division. He said this same matter came up about thirty years ago, at which time the Hon. William L. Jackson, Sr., Judge of the criminal division, held that the Sunday closing act was invalid. Many decisions were read by Mr. Kohn, tending to bear out his argument.

"It is within the power of the Legislature to pass a general Sunday law," said Mr. Kohn, "but it has not done so yet." He said that the statute forbidding work on the Sabbath was a religious act, and in violation of the Constitution of Kentucky. To bear out his contention, he read from the Constitution. It was 2:15 o'clock when he concluded his argument.

Judge A. E. Richards, who followed Mr. Kohn, spoke in part as follows:

* * *

Judge Richards' Argument.

"When these cases were called on last Monday, Mr. Kohn in his request for immediate trial announced in the most positive terms that he felt confident of being able to secure a dismissal of all the prosecutions. His clients have not denied for themselves, nor has he for them denied that they committed the acts for which they were arrested, but he denounces the statutes as being class legislation, claiming that they are unconstitutional, and should not be enforced.

"In the case of McGowan vs. Commonwealth, reported in 2 Metcalfe, the Court of Appeals, speaking through Chief Justice Simpson, said: 'It cannot be doubted that the Legislature of a State has the power to prohibit tavern keepers who may be licensed, after the passage of the law, from selling spirituous liquors on Sunday.'

"In that case the court even went so far as to hold that this power could be delegated to a municipality, and affirmed a judgment fining a party under an ordinance of the city of Lexington prohibiting the sale of liquors on Sunday.

"In the case of Connor vs. the Commonwealth, reported in 13 Ky. Law Rep., the Court of Appeals not only held that the statutes against selling liquor on Sunday were valid, but decided that a conviction for this offense was sufficient ground for the cancellation of the defendant's liquor license, and affirmed a judgment to that effect.

"The opinion in the case of Commonwealth vs. L. and N. railroad, reported in 80 Ky., was written by Judge William S. Pryor, the father of Judge Joseph Pryor, of the criminal division of our Circuit Court. Probably no man ever retired from the bench in Kentucky who had achieved a higher reputation for learning, ability and integrity than former Chief Justice Pryor. In the opinion to which I have alluded, he said: The common sense as well as the moral sentiment of the country will suggest that the merchant who sells his goods, or the farmer who follows his plow, or the carpenter who labors upon the building, or the saloonkeeper who sells his liquor on Sunday, are each and all violating the law by which it is made penal to follow the ordinary avocations of life on Sunday * * * The constitutionality of similar enactments has been passed on and sustained by courts of last resort in nearly every State of the Union; and this concurrence of opinion, together with a reference to former decisions of this court on kindred subjects, conclude, in our opinion, the constitutional question raised, and we will discuss the application of the statute alone to the acts of this company, entertaining no doubt as to the constitutionality of the law.

"All this was said in reply to an attack upon the validity of the statute prohibiting ordinary work on Sunday—an attack upon its constitutionality similar to that now being made by Mr. Kohn.

"In the case of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company vs. Commonwealth, reported in 92 Ky., this statute was again before the Court of Appeals and it affirmed a judgment fining the defendant for a violation of its provisions. The fact that the Legislature in re-enacting this statute added to the exceptions those things which the Court of Appeals had in the meantime decided were works of necessity cannot in any way affect the validity of the statute.

Validity of Statute.

"There is not a case in which the Court of Appeals has ever intimated the least doubt as to the validity of either of these statutes. Neither the Police Court nor any Circuit Court would have the power, even if it had the inclination, to overrule these decisions. If the counsel for the defendants really believes that upon a reargument the Court of Appeals would decide these statutes unconstitutional there is a speedy way in which he can have them so tested. It is this: The Board of Public Safety closed the saloons on last Sunday where the owners openly defied the authorities. If Mr. Kohn will file a suit to enjoin the board from taking similar action next Sunday, his motion for a restraining order could be heard and the case docketed in the Court of Appeals inside of a fortnight.

"But if Mr. Kohn's effort, as indicated here to-day, is to be directed toward keeping out of the Court of Appeals, then undoubtedly it is the duty of your honor to follow the decisions already rendered by that court holding these statutes to be constitutional."

Following the adjournment of court yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hagan, Prosecuting Attorney, said he would file a penal action against the ball players in court to-morrow, and immediately would take the case up to the Court of Appeals. He explained that this was why the cases were filed away on his motion. He hopes to reach the higher court within two weeks, and to get an immediate decision.

LONE GRAVE DECORATED

Sailors Launch Floral Boat In Potomac.

MEMORIAL DAY ELSEWHERE.

Washington, May 30.—[Special.]—The Confederate veterans of the District of Columbia will celebrate Decoration day on Sunday next, when the organization will go to Arlington National cemetery and decorate the Confederate section. Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, will address the veterans. While to-day in Washington was given up to the decoration of the graves of the Union soldiers, there was one spot in the District which several hundred Confederate veterans, with their wives and daughters, visited. It was the grave of a Confederate soldier buried on the old Blair place. The grave is that of the last sharpshooter to fall during Gen. Jubal Early's advance upon Washington. A Mississippi private was the last to start to leave the field and his body was found by members of the Blair family and buried beneath a big tree. No trace of the soldier's identity could be found. For twenty years past, Confederate veterans have met at the Blair place and placed flowers upon the grave. The special Memorial day exercises given by the Indiana Society in honor of Indiana's soldier dead who are buried at Arlington took place this afternoon. The exercises were held at the tomb of Gen. Dan McCauley. Col. William H. Smith, who was a member of Gen. McCauley's regiment, presided. The principal address was delivered by Representative John C. Chaney, of Indiana. The quartette rendered several selections. Wreaths were placed at the tombs of Gresham, Lawton and McCauley. The Hon. Isaac P. Watts, of Indiana, offered prayer.

Early in the day the Floral Committees of the Grand Army of the Republic proceeded to the several cemeteries, and before noon the women of the relief corps had completed the work of strewing the graves. Twenty thousand graves in Arlington were thus decorated. The ceremonies of the day began with a procession, participated in by various G. A. R. Posts, the Old Guard, the District Militia and the Spanish War Veterans.

Upon arriving at Arlington the exercises first centered around the tomb of the unknown, where 2,000 Federal soldiers are buriad, after which the principal ceremonies were conducted in the amphitheater, where addresses, recitations and music were heard. Representative Birdsall, of Iowa, delivered an address. The orator of the day was the Rev. D. J. Stafford, of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church.

Following a custom begun several years ago of honoring the memory of dead sailors, whose bodies were never recovered, the Grand Army of the Republic this morning launched a floral boat in the Potomac.

Every department of the Government was closed and business of all kinds was practically suspended for the day.

GRAND ARMY VETERANS

Ride In Carriages In Decoration Day Parade.

Chicago, May 30.—For the first time in this city many of the Grand Army veterans, feeling themselves unequal to a march of several miles through the streets, rode in carriages in the Decoration Day parade to-day. The parade, in which the regular troops from Fort Sheridan, militia, Grand Army posts and naval reserves participated, was witnessed by thousands of people.

The usual services were held in all the cemeteries of the city, under the direction of the different Grand Army posts, and the grave of every man known to have taken part in the Civil War or the war with Spain was appropriately remembered.

The day in Chicago was generally observed as a holiday, the majority of the business houses being closed.

SERVICES AT KNOXVILLE.

Former Congressman Pettibone Delivers Decoration Day Address.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 30.—Graves of the Federal dead were decorated at the National cemetery in this city this afternoon, following an address by ex-Congressman A. H. Pettibone, of Bristol, Tenn. This morning ceremonies were held upon the Tennessee-river bridge, and flowers were cast upon the waters below, in memory of the Federal naval dead. Gen. John T. Wilder, of this city, Department Commander of the G. A. R. of Tennessee, delivered the address at the morning exercises. Confederate veterans in this city united with the Federal veterans in the ceremonies of the day.

Decoration Day In Mexico.

Mexico City, May 30.—Decoration day was observed here by the local post of the Grand Army of the Republic, which decorated the graves of American soldiers in the United National cemetery. The Grand Army post then escorted American Ambassador Thompson to Chapultepec Park, where he laid a handsome wreath on the monument of the Mexican cadets who were killed in resisting the storming of that castle during the Mexican War.

At Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 30.—Decoration day was observed at the National cemetery here, where are nearly 14,000 graves, several hundred of them filled by soldiers of the Spanish-American war, who died in camp near here in 1898. The oration was delivered by Dean Bovard, of Grant University, and the music was by the band of the Twelfth cavalry, which furnished the firing party.

Blue and Gray Commingle.

Little Rock, Ark., May 30.—Members of the local Confederate Veterans' camp to-day, with those of the Grand Army of the Republic post, united in forming an escort in the parade marking the observance of national Memorial day. The former Confederate soldiers appeared in their old uniforms of gray and the G. A. R. members were clad in blue.

New State Law In Effect.

Lincoln, Neb., May 30.—Memorial Day in Nebraska was to-day more quiet than Sunday. The new State law forbidding outdoor games or races of any sort on the Soldiers' Day was in effect to-day for the first time, and there was a strict observance over the State. In cities and towns the officers were on the alert and sport of any kind was not permitted.

Memorial Day In 'Frisco.

San Francisco, May 30.—Memorial day was observed in San Francisco by a military and civic procession through the Presidio grounds to the National cemetery, where appropriate exercises were held. Later there was a sacred concert in the park attended by thousands from the various tent cities and burned portions of the city.

Observed In Texas.

Houston, Tex., May 30.—Decoration day was observed in all of the larger cities of Texas to-day by the Grand Army of the Republican and the Woman's Relief Corps. Many Confederate veterans attended the services and assisted in the decoration of the graves.

At Nashville.

Nashville, May 30.—The graves of the Federal dead in the Federal cemeteries near Nashville and Murfreesboro were decorated with flowers and flags to-day. The weather was ideal and large crowds attended the services.

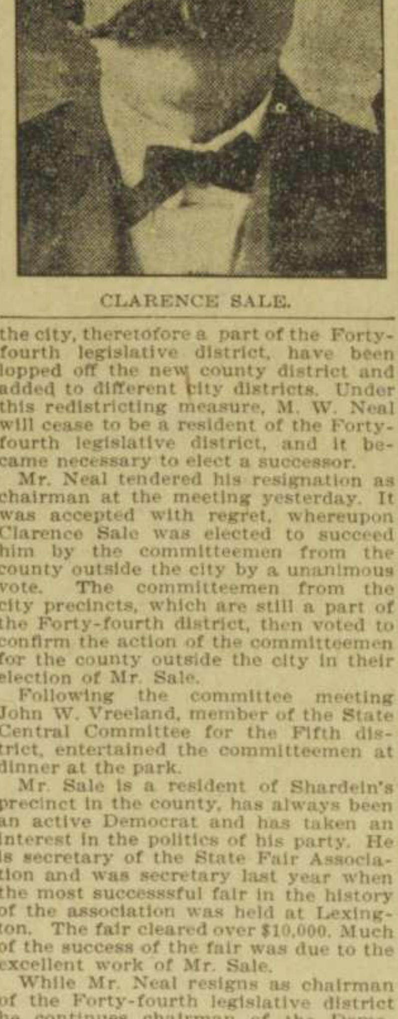
CLARENCE SALE SUCCEEDS NEAL

BECOMES CHAIRMAN OF FORTY-FOURTH LEGISLATIVE DISTRICT.

MR. NEAL RESIGNS ON ACCOUNT OF NEW REDISTRICTING LAW.

STILL EXECUTIVE CHAIRMAN.

At a meeting of the Democratic Committee of the Forty-fourth Legislative district held at Fontaine Ferry Park yesterday, Clarence Sale was unanimously elected chairman of the committee to succeed M. W. Neal, who has been chairman for the past eight or ten years. This action was taken in anticipation of the new order of things which will become effective June 11, when the new Redistricting Bill passed by the last Legislature becomes a law. Under that bill all the precincts in the county outside the city will constitute one legislative district. Certain precincts in the city, theretofore a part of the Forty-fourth legislative district, have been lopped off the new county district and added to different city districts. Under this redistricting measure, M. W. Neal will cease to be a resident of the Forty-fourth legislative district, and it became necessary to elect a successor.



CLARENCE SALE.

Mr. Neal tendered his resignation as chairman at the meeting yesterday. It was accepted with regret, whereupon Clarence Sale was elected to succeed him by the committeemen from the county outside the city by a unanimous vote. The committeemen from the city precincts, which are still a part of the Forty-fourth district, then voted to confirm the action of the committeemen for the county outside the city in their election of Mr. Sale.

Following the committee meeting John W. Vreeland, member of the State Central Committee for the Fifth district, entertained the committeemen at dinner at the park.

Mr. Sale is a resident of Shardein's precinct in the county, has always been an active Democrat and has taken an interest in the politics of his party. He is secretary of the State Fair Association and was secretary last year when the most successsful fair in the history of the association was held at Lexington. The fair cleared over $10,000. Much of the success of the fair was due to the excellent work of Mr. Sale.

While Mr. Neal resigns as chairman of the Forty-fourth legislative district he continues chairman of the Democratic City and County Executive Committee.

GEN. BUCHANAN TO GO ON RETIRED LIST.

Washington, May 30.—Brig. Gen. James A. Buchanan, lately in command of the Department of Visayas, Philippines, will be placed on the retired list of the army to-morrow on his own application. There is a lively struggle in army circles over the succession to the place, but it appears that the vacancy will not be filled immediately because Secretary Taft has not had an opportunity to canvass the applications with the President.

For Home-Coming Week.

Greenup, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—Frank M. Griffin, County Commissioner for Greenup county Home-coming Week has appointed the following assistants: Deputy Commissioner, Prof. L. R. McCarty; hostess, Mrs. Florence H. Leslie; maid of honor, Miss Lucy H. Lacock. All are residents of Greenup.

Killed By a Fall.

SHAME OF ARREST

Believed to Have Hastened Death of Patrick Cain.

CHARGED WITH KEEPING SALOON OPEN SUNDAY.

WORRIED OVER CHAGRIN AND BECAME ILL.

DIES WHEN DUE AT COURT.

Death intervened in the case of Patrick Cain, who was to have been presented in Police Court yesterday morning to answer to the charge of having kept his saloon open on Sunday. Judge John H. McCann was preparing to declare Cain's bond forfeited when news of the saloonkeeper's demise was received. Cain died at 10 o'clock, and his wife announced that it was due to worry over his arrest Sunday. Dr. Harris Kelly, Coroner, gave a verdict of death due to uraemic poisoning. He said it might have been brought about by excitement or deep chagrin.

Mr. Cain had conducted a saloon at Eleventh and Rowan streets for the past ten years. Sunday night he opened his place for business and five men were drinking at the bar when Patrolmen Gagan and Sage entered. Cain was placed under arrest and taken to Central police station, where he remained in a cell for several hours before he was released on bond. At the time of his arrest he explained that he was under the impression that he had to keep his saloon closed during the day on Sundays, but that he could open for business Sunday night.

* * *

Worried Over Disgrace.

"My husband worried almost constantly following his arrest," said Mrs. Cain yesterday. "He had never before been arrested, and he looked upon it as a disgrace. His friends tried to laugh him out of the idea, but he would not listen to them."

Cain was presented in Police Court Monday morning, and his case was continued until yesterday. Upon his return home he was compelled to go to bed. He awoke early yesterday morning in order that he might reach the court room in time. When he attempted to dress himself he found that he was too weak and sank back on his bed. Arrangements were being made to secure a physician's certificate, excusing him from appearing in court on account of illness. It was not thought that Cain's condition was critical and his wife was out of the room when he died. Martin O'Brien, a friend, was seated by his bed, and was attempting to cheer him up just before he died.

Mr. Cain was thirty-eight years of age. He bore a good reputation, and had many friends. His body was removed to the home of his brother-in-law, 2143 Duncan street, where the funeral service will be conducted.

TICKETS AND BADGES IN DEMAND

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN GATHER IN ST. PAUL.

BIENNIAL FEDERATION OF CLUBS MEETING.

FORMAL WELCOME ADDRESSES

St. Paul, Minn., May 30.—Women from all parts of the United States are gathered in St. Paul to-night attending the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will last a week. Judging from the initial day the convention will be exceedingly busy and perhaps tempestuous. The meetings will be held in the National Guard armory with section meetings and exhibits in the old capitol building.

To-day was spent principally in preparing for the business sessions which begin to-morrow. The storm center was about the Committee on Credentials and some queer scenes were witnessed. Women jostled each other and strove for badges and tickets, and many who had come without credentials insisted on having tickets of admission. The supreme idea of some appeared to be to get as many badges for personal adornment as possible.

A meeting of the council was held this afternoon with Mrs. Sarah Platt-Decker in the chair, and from the decisions which followed the introduction of several amendments to the constitution it is evident that some very animated discussions will take place in the convention hall.

There was an amicable agreement to appoint a committee to collect funds to help out the federation clubs in San Francisco. When an amendment to increase the number of vice presidents of the General Federation from two to five was reached, objections came up at once. The proposition also carried with it the plan of selecting them from three sections of the country.

Mrs. Decker seemed to favor the idea.

The objections came from Miss Helen M. Winslow, of Boston; Mrs. Pennypacker of Texas; Mrs. Fox, of Michigan; Mrs. Buckwalter, of Ohio, and Mrs. Blount, of the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Morrison, of West Virginia, said it "was sectional inequality which is likely to make bitterness."

When the matter of placing a representative from each State on the Executive Board was reached there was much discussion.

An attempt to sidetrack the proposition by a motion to adjourn was lost, and the council went on record against it.

Mrs. Wiles, of Chicago, presented an amendment to reduce the per capita tax from ten cents to nine. This was voted down.

To-night the opening meeting of the convention was held in the armory. Gov. Johnson, Mayor Smith and others welcomed the delegates and Mrs. Decker responded for the General Federation.

L. AND N. ACCOUNTANTS ELECT OFFICERS.

The Association of Accounting Officers and Agents of the Louisville and Nashville railroad concluded its sessions yesterday at The Seelbach. The deliberations were confined to the consideration of about fifteen topics of a technical nature, having principally to do with the handling of business at junction points and between general and local offices.

The time and place of the next meeting was left to the Executive Committee, the only restriction being that the meeting is to be held in June.

The following officers were elected: President, C. W. Toliver, freight agent at Nashville; vice president, W. M. Lutz, freight agent at Evansville; secretary, H. B. Cutler, freight accountant at Louisville. Two new members of the Executive Committee appointed were W. W. Alexander, freight agent at Cincinnati, and J. R. Windstandley, freight agent at Knoxville. The two other members of the committee are P. B. Clark, freight agent at Memphis, and C. C. Johnson, freight and passenger agent at Belleville, O.

MAY SUE TO SECURE DIPLOMA

MISS M'GINNIS VIOLATED RULE OF COLLEGE.

ATTENDED DANCE WITHOUT FACULTY'S PERMISSION.

FATHER EMPLOYS LAWYERS.

Lexington, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—A unique proceeding in a Kentucky court may be instituted here to-morrow before Circuit Judge Parker, in which a mandamus will be asked against Prof. C. B. Hagerman, president of the Campbell-Hagerman College, requiring him to grant a diploma to Miss Sadie Margaret McGinnis, one of the graduating class of this year. Miss McGinnis is the daughter of J. W. McGinnis, of Danville, and it is admitted by the faculty of the college that on standing in her studies she is entitled to her diploma and would have received it at the commencement exercises yesterday except for the sole reason that they alleged she had violated one of the rules of the institution. This rule is that no pupil shall leave the college except on a written request from a parent or guardian.

The faculty says that Miss McGinnis last Wednesday night went to a dance of the Kappa Sepha Society at Merrick Hall in violation of this rule, and as an exaggeration of her offense spent the night with a girl friend, not returning to the college.

Miss McGinnis' father arrived here from Danville this evening and at once engaged Attorneys Allen & Duncan to prosecute a legal fight for his daughter's rights. He admits that his daughter went to the dance, but claims that she understood she had a right to go and that in any event a trival violation of the rules should not rob her of the diploma which she has earned by her work of three years. Miss McGinnis' attorneys will consult with Prof. Hagerman to-morrow and unless he issues the diploma, a mandamus suit will be filed at once. Miss McGinnis is sixteen years old, and was a popular member of her class.

MISS HAZEL R. HELMS DIES OF TYPHOID FEVER.

Miss Hazel R. Helms, nineteen years of age and the only daughter of Dr. J. E. Helms, died of typhoid fever at 8 o'clock last night at her father's home, 1900 West Chestnut street. The funeral service will be conducted at the residence to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The burial will be in Cave Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Nancy Casselberry Dead.

Evansville, Ind., May 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Nancy Casselberry, a well-known woman in social circles, died here to-night at the advanced age of eighty. She was well known in Louisville where she had relatives.

S.S.S. FOR THE BLOOD

The purifying action and curative properties of this great remedy have made "S. S. S. For The Blood" a household saying, and thousands who are today enjoying perfect health owe their recovery from blood or skin diseases to this universally used blood medicine. S. S. S. is made entirely from roots, herbs and barks which possess not only cleansing and healing ingredients, but building-up and strengthening properties to keep the blood in perfect order. No one can be well when the blood is impure; they lack the energy and strength that is natural with health, the complexion becomes pale and sallow, the vitality is weakened and they suffer from a general broken down condition. When the waste or refuse matter, which nature intends shall be thrown off, is left in the system because of a sluggish, torpid condition of the expelling members, it is absorbed into the blood, making this vital stream weak, sour and acrid, and its condition is manifested by boils, pimples, rashes, blotches and other eruptions of the skin. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and removes every particle of blood taint or poison of every character, makes the blood fresh and strong and gives energy to the entire body. When the blood has been cleansed by S. S. S. all skin diseases and eruptions pass away and the smooth, clear skin, glowing with health, shows that the body is being nourished by rich, pure blood. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, etc., are all deep-seated blood disorders, and for their cure nothing equals S. S. S. It does not injuriously affect the most delicate parts of the body and can be taken with perfect safety by old or young. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired without charge.

WANTS MUCK RAKER SO LONG AS MUCK BED EXISTS

Gov. Hanly Calls People To Arms To Fight Battle Against Thrift By Theft.

Lafayette, Ind., May 30.—In a Memorial day address to-day Gov. Hanly, addressing a large crowd at Purdue University, dealt at length with public grafting. He said:

"The American people are at the beginning of a great revolution. As yet, there is in a literal sense, no call to arms. There are no drum beats, no bugle blasts, no serried ranks, no marching columns, no battlefields strewn with the wounded and the dead, but the revolution is upon us and about us as certainly as though all these were present. Stupendous social, economic and political changes are involved. Deeply imbedded in the very core and center of this revolution, running like a thread of gold through all its shifting scenes and changing forms, are certain fundamental principles of human right and of human liberty, and unless we, in our day, and especially you, in your day, possess a willingness to seek for these, and the wisdom to find them, and the patriotism and the courage to proclaim them, to stand by them and save them when found, the call to arms, the drum beats, the bugle blast, the serried ranks, the marching columns and the battlefields will come to us and to you as certainly as in the past they came to our fathers.

"The criminal aggressions of incorporated and aggregated wealth against the individual must be stayed by legal regulations and wholesome laws courageously enforced, or history will repeat itself in your day as it has in the past. You will no more be exempt than other generations have been. Progress must and will be made.

"Human rights—the right of the individual citizen—or the rights of the body of the people—are not safe where Government is administered by special interests, or through the corrupt or demoralizing influence of organized wealth and greed. No despotism can be more absolute than the despotism of money.

"Thrift, wealth and aggregated capital are essential to the prosperity of the people and the development of the country. I wage no war against these or any of these, but I do wage war against the thrift that grows by theft and peculation, against the abuse of wealth—against the corrupt practices of incorporated capital, and the undue and unholy influence it exercises in the administration of Government. I do not look with pleasure either upon the 'muck rake' or the 'muck raker,' but either is better than the 'muck bed.' And as long as the 'muck bed' remains, I hope the 'muck raker' will continue to expose it and to lay it bare, that the people may come to hate it, to despise the greed that feeds it, and to forsake every man whose hands are soiled with its pollution."

GARDNER IN REVOLT AGAINST UNCLE JOE

WANTS IMMIGRATION BILL GIVEN SHOW.

TRIES TO GET FOLLOWING FROM REPUBLICAN SIDE.

SPEAKER TO THROTTLE BILL.

Washington, May 30.—[Special.]—A revolt against the House leadership has been inaugurated by Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts. Mr. Gardner is circulating a petition among the Republican members in the hope of obtaining a sufficient number of signatures to call a conference for the consideration of the Immigration Bill. The Republican leaders in both houses are exercised over the prospects that the Speaker will not permit the bill to come before the House at this session. Labor, both organized and unorganized, is heartily in favor of the bill, including the education restriction, believing that it would not only serve to shut out a large class of undesirable labor, but would tend to increase wages by maintaining the high character and intelligent standard of American workingmen.

Republican members are greatly worried by the hostility of the Speaker, for it is rather embarrassing for them to appeal to their constituents to re-elect them in order to vote for Cannon for Speaker when Mr. Cannon has killed a measure which the voters regard as essential to their interests. There is nothing pending before Congress, not even the Smoot case, which has caused such a flood of petitions as the Immigration Bill.

Morgan and Art Tax.

Doesn't it jar one to hear of John P. Morgan being indignant over the high tariff on works of art? And yet works of art are only in command of the rich. Where would Morgan and his millionaire friends be if it were not for the high tariff? There has been, and is, millions in it for them and not anything but taxes for the poor people, for a high protective tariff is an outrageous tax upon the consumer.

UTAH CHOSEN

BY LUTHERAN MINISTERS AS NEXT PLACE OF MEETING.

Two-Day Session Closes With Addresses At Oakdale Church.

The fifth annual meeting of the Olive Branch Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran churches concluded its two-day session at Bethany Lutheran church, in Oakdale, last night. The conference will be held next summer at Utan, Ind., in St. Peter's Lutheran church, of which the Rev. L. W. Nordsick is pastor. The exact date of the meeting next summen will be fixed by the officers of the conference who were re-elected Tuesday. The conference is made up of Evangelical Lutheran churches in Kentucky, Tennessee and Southern Indiana.

The services at the opening of the session yesterday morning were conducted by the Rev. S. S. Waltz, of Louisville. The Rev. J. F. F. Kayhoe, pastor of Grace Lutheran church, Louisville, led the discussion on original sin as it is set forth in the Augsburg confession. Papers read by Dr. Waltz on "Liturgy and Church Loyalty," and by the Rev. H. K. Fenner, pastor of the Second Lutheran church, Louisville, on "The Person of Christ—a Lutheran Statement," were so approved by the ministers of the conference that it has been decided to publish them in pamphlet form. The afternoon service was given over to the discussion of missions, led by the Rev. Mr. Nordstick, of Utan, who spoke on "The Local Missionary Work of the Church." The conference closed with a sermon last night by the Rev. H. B. Shank, pastor of the Jeffersontown charge at Jeffersontown. The Rev. C. E. Buschman, pastor of Bethany church, presided over the service.

What They Say.

The so-called Beveridge amendment to the Agricultural Appropriation Bill passed without any debate. It was originally an independent bill, and it is claimed that it was not prepared by the Senator whose name it bears. It was necessary to amend the amendment by striking out a repealing clause which was put in with the idea that it might pass as an independent bill. But it had in it certain references which led to the idea that many provisions were taken bodily from some State Bill, and that the whole had never been edited to make it consistent or intelligible.

They say that this amendment went through because the packers had been threatened that if they put forward the Senators whom they own to oppose it the President would cause to be published a report from a commission showing the shocking state of affairs in the packing business. In other words, according to this theory, the packers submitted to a bill which they did not like in order to get rid of a report that they feared. Whether they acted wisely or not, on the theory mentioned, is gravely questioned. All attempts to suppress that which has already attained a partial currency are subject to many disastrous chances. The report spoken of was not published; indeed, it is said that it had never been written, that the nature of it had simply been outlined in a statement. But though the report was withheld, the press was full of statements of what it contained, or would contain if formulated. The most injurious statements offered much detail of what the report would show, if it were ever made. It was a question with many whether the informal statements which thus obtained currency were not more injurious to the packing interests than the facts actually ascertained.

The substance of the report that might be published was said to be that lard is made from hogs that die from cholera; that the meat inspectors are incompetent and overworked; that sanitary conditions at the packing houses are revolting; that preservatives are in common use, and that meat is sold to Americans that is unfit for exportation. These general ideas are re-enforced by much detail. The commission is said to have had the assistance of Dr. Jacques, formerly the head of the Chicago inspection service, who was forced out of office because he insisted that his inspectors should inject kerosene into all condemned meat so as to render it unfit for food, or rather, we suppose, for sale. They found, so it is said, that animals suffering from "lump jaw" were regularly passed. There is no inspection of swine for hogs afflicted with trichinosis, except when intended for export. The microscopic inspection was for the benefit of foreigners alone. When hog meat was found unfit for export it was sold to Americans. Spoiled meats were "doctored" with preservatives, so as to destroy odor and other evidences of unsoundness. Many packing-house products bear false labels.

These are only some of the things which it is said that the report would contain if it were formulated and made public. If no report has actually been written it is admitted that affidavits and other evidence have been accumulated to form a basis of a report. What has been given out may be worse than the report itself would be. Already it is said that the injurious statements have hurt the packing trade to the extent of $100,000,000 per year in foreign commerce. The amendment has no reference to foreign commerce, but what is said of packing conditions is eagerly seized by foreign competitors to discredit American meats, notwithstanding the rigid inspection to which meats for export have heretofore been subjected. There is danger that instead of a suppression of the report some of the packers may in time become eager for its publication. The real facts may possibly be less injurious than the publications founded on individual affidavits and statements more or less ex-parte. Besides, if the packers persist in insisting that the reports shall not be made public, the people will believe that the half has not been told. It is rather late to suppress a report, the supposed contents of which have been sent to the four quarters of the earth.

There is one other matter in connection with "what they say" that merits attention. We are given to understand that the passage of this amendment was only made possible by a threat of exposure. The packers, it is inferred, were willing to let it go to avoid exposure, when it was in their power to defeat it. In other words, we are indirectly informed that a number of violators of the law are so powerful in our national counsels that they are able to say what shall and what shall not be enacted. If this is true, it is more alarming even than the bad conditions alleged to exist in the packing regions. If there is any such power existing among criminals it is highly important that these attorneys be turned out of Congress at the earliest possible moment.

Progress In Kentucky.

We expect great things for our State. One of the chief factors in its development must be a wise system of taxation, based largely on its comparative bearing to the systems of other States. Systems and conditions are rapidly changing in this period of marvelous activity.

The Governor of Delaware has just issued a call for an extra session of the Legislature, and the first-named purpose is for action upon questions of taxation. New York has in the past ten days enacted a law governing taxation upon mortgages, fixing a rate of fifty cents per $100 upon recording, with no annual or subsequent tax. This covers total tax within the State, one-half to go to the State revenue and half to the local or city income. It repeals the former most unsatisfactory annual tax on mortgages and is a wise measure, certain to yield larger returns in public revenue than an unreasonable or excessive taxation. However, it is sure to lead to more active development, both agricultural and municipal, because it makes it easy to obtain loans for improvements at low rates. The borrower pays the tax, of course, and a high tax rate means higher rate of interest. The low rate helps, therefore, those of small means obliged to borrow if they would improve their property.

This method is sure to advance prices of real estate anywhere. New York, recognizing the need of keeping in touch with changing conditions, has further provided for revision of its revenue laws by appointment of a commission composed of five citizens appointed by the Governor and five members each of the State Senate and the House of Representatives.

And New York is not hampered by constitutional restrictions tending to prevent a policy demonstrated to be best for the Commonwealth.

In the light of this action in New York, how unwise clearly is our constitutional requirement which forces an annual tax in Kentucky cities of 2½ to 3 per cent. on mortgages! And this further illustrates the folly of our Kentucky system of inflexible taxation on all classes of property alike.

It is fortunate for the State that the people of Kentucky have adopted an amendment to the Constitution providing for taxation by cities, for municipal purposes only, on certain classes of property, by other system than the so-called uniform ad valorem "general property tax."

This amendment is most important, and it is the only one made to our present State Constitution. Its approval was emphasized by a majority in its favor of nearly 20,000, and it carried in every precinct in the city of Louisville. It affords the only plan by which Louisville and other cities of Kentucky may meet the systems which are attracting industries to other States.

We believe the license system—a system which always prevailed in Louisville before the adoption of the last of our three State Constitutions—to be the most accurate and equitable—i. e., taxation on factories, merchants and banks based on the actual business transacted.

With this basis the taxpayer is called upon to make returns upon an actual fact, which cannot be truthfully evaded, and not upon his own estimate of personal property, of uncertain and fluctuating value. Every owner is his own assessor, and we have in Louisville, estimated, about 4,500 firms, associations and corporations engaged in business, making such returns annually for triple taxation—State, county and city—amounting this year to $2.61 on $100 on gross assets. Could a worse system or more unequal be devised?

Justice Sharswood, of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, in delivering a decision by that court, said as to the question of requiring an equal rate ad valorem, that "practically no more unequal system could be contrived." And Justice Lamar, in a decision rendered by him for the United States Supreme Court, said: "A system which imposes the same tax on every species of property, irrespective of its nature, condition or class, will be destructive of the principle of uniformity and equality in taxation." He added: "This court has repeatedly laid down this doctrine."

Our Court of Appeals has now under consideration the question of the bearing of the amendment to Section 181 of the Constitution upon a revision of our system of taxation, and it is to be hoped that under the decision Louisville and all the cities of Kentucky may be enabled to adopt such methods for their own needed local revenue as they may deem best, not only more equitably to yield such revenue, but to put them in line with progressive cities in other States for their own upbuilding and the upbuilding of Kentucky, placing the State, with its great natural advantages, abreast of the very foremost.

Where Immigrants Shall Land.

The interest which the South is taking in the immigration question is shown in part by a controversy that has sprung up among Southern cities as to the best point for them to land.

Recently a North German-Lloyd steamer landed at Galveston with 600 immigrants. Thereupon some Galveston people insisted that the members of Congress from Texas and others should enter into a vigorous fight in favor of Galveston. On the other side it was urged that Galveston was not central enough, and that New Orleans would be a better point. It was also said that a German steamer would be likely to bring a class of immigrants who would not take kindly to cotton farming. It was urged that what was needed was a line from the Mediterranean, say, one starting from Trieste, and touching at Naples and Palermo. The idea is that such a ship would bring people better suited to work in the cotton fields.

The different cities may be left to fight their own battles on this question, but it would be well for them to take notice that tides of immigration cannot be controlled by newspaper articles. Questions of that sort must be settled by actual conditions. Those who desire laborers must attract them by the ease of getting employment, and by the wages that are offered. When these are satisfactory steps must be taken to bring these facts to the knowledge of immigrants, or those contemplating a change of residence. Those who offer the best terms and make them known most efficiently will get the most immigrants. Lines of steamships will adapt themselves to the demands for transportation.

The Royal Wedding In Spain.

For some time past enthusiasm has been manifested in the ceremonies which will be held to-day in Spain, when the young King Alfonso will claim as his bride the Princess Ena, of England. Preliminary fetes and ceremonies have been in progress for some time in the Spanish Capital and neighboring palaces, and the Spanish people, after a long depression of spirits superinduced by the death of their young King, the father of Alfonso, and the disastrous result of the war with this country, have put on a new life and been aroused to a pitch of old-time enthusiasm and loyalty to the King and his bride that will be to-day.

The event makes a new epoch for Spain, whose status has so often been made to hinge upon its royal alliances, sometimes to its greater power, but oftener to the lowering of its national prestige. The present alliance is notable as being the first between the reigning Powers of Spain and Great Britain since the eventful marriage of Philip II., of Spain, to Mary, Queen of England, and daughter of Henry VIII., near the middle of the sixteenth century. It proved an unhappy match, being followed a year or two later by a separation, severing in time the friendly relations between the two nations and culminating ultimately in war. Spain was then the most powerful nation of Europe and the world. Forming an alliance with France Philip concluded to humble the pride of his adversary, but by the destruction of his great fleet known as the "Invincible Armada" by the combined effect of storms and the navy of England, he lost for Spain the prominence it had held on land and sea and his adversary thence forward has maintained that position.

The next great alliance of Spain was with France over which England triumphed in the wars which culminated in the humbling of both Powers and the conquest of Canada not long preceding the events which brought on the American Revolution. Since then both France and Spain have singly met with humiliation in defeat and the loss of empire—France humbled by Germany in the loss of Alsace and Lorraine, and Spain stripped of her American colonies by revolution and the remnant of them by the United States.

The reigning house of Spain is French by descent from Louis XIV., but its matrimonial alliances have been of late with the houses of Italy and Austria.

It is from one of the latter that King Alfonso XIII., who takes to himself a Queen to-day, owes his birth, May 17, 1886, nearly six months after the death of his father, King Alfonso XII. His mother is Maria Christina, an Austrian Princess, who was for years Queen Regent. Since his investiture with the royal title and prerogative, the stripling King has borne himself modestly, evincing more fondness for innocent diversions than ambitious affairs of State. A year ago he visited France, where he was received with royal honors, and extended his trip to London, where he first met the Princess whom he will to-day make a Queen. Though styled simply the Princess Ena, her full name is Princess Victoria Eugenia Julia Ena. She was born in 1887 and is the daughter of Prince Henry of Battenberg, who died in 1896, and Beatrice, ninth child and youngest daughter of Queen Victoria. She is therefore the niece of King Edward, of England.

Thus it will be seen that the young King of Spain, in addition to having won a bride having many charms of person and character, has been very fortunate in making an eligible alliance from a practical and political standpoint. He adds another to the long list of the royal nephews, by blood or marriage, of King Edward of England, including the Emperors of Germany and Russia. In time such influence may redound greatly to the benefit of Spain in the stability and progress of the country. The good wishes of everybody go out to the young couple.

A Lover's Whim and Justice.

We read in the accounts of the feasts and pageants accompanying the wedding of Alfonso and Ena about an incident which is likely to strike the American mind as a bit strange. A Spanish prisoner was condemned to be executed. His friends besought the Princess to intercede with her royal fiance in the prisoner's behalf. She consented and did so. Out of the fullness of his affection on the eve of his marriage the King granted his bride's request. A half hour before the time set for the execution the prisoner was pardoned. Instead of death, he gained freedom.

The episode is incompatible with American ideas of propriety and justice. We cannot quite grasp the process of reasoning which gives a convicted criminal the title to liberty just because somebody is to be married, even though that somebody be a person in high authority. The pardoning power is abused now and then by American Governors, but it would be a grotesque spectacle for one of them to celebrate his marriage by setting free an offender whom the courts have condemned to death.

It requires circumstances of profound bearing upon the merits of the case to justify in America the pardon of a criminal whom the law has tried and has found deserving of death.

Doubtless the man whom the King of Spain, to humor the whim of his bride, has set free is glad the King is to be married; but how this marriage diminishes his guilt probably is as much of a puzzle to him as it is to the dull minds on this side of the Atlantic.

Dr. McCormack's report as to health conditions in Kentucky is full of valuable suggestion. His charges as to the lack of sanitation in public places are well founded. He expresses some telling truths when he says, as the Courier-Journal has so often urged, that "while our efforts to prevent the introduction and spread of exotic diseases have been in the main satisfactory we have been far less successful in preventing, or even arousing an interest in the prevention of consumption, typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough, dysentery and cholera infantum, diseases of infinitely more importance to the people of Kentucky, because they contribute so largely to our sick and death rate every day in every year, and entail an annual tax upon our resources of hundreds of thousands of dollars. Diseases are relatively important to any people, as they cause sickness and deaths, and, considered in this way, cholera, yellow fever and even smallpox, of which the majority are so afraid, sink into insignificance as compared with the common household plagues above named." And yet one case of yellow fever or cholera in Kentucky would cause the people to take greater preventive precautions than do all the hundreds and thousands of cases of consumption, typhoid fever, etc.

The Secretary of the Treasury, in an address Tuesday at Winchester, on the growth and development of the United States, reviewed the history of the country from the foundation of the Government and traced the progress of our civilization which has resulted in such great physical development and commercial prosperity. The climax of his peroration culminated in the following sentence: "Our factories are increasing faster than our farmers, and we shall soon be unable to consume the bulk of our own products, so at present the South American field especially should be cultivated, and when the Panama canal is finished we should lead in the great Pacific trade." One thing which mars this proud prediction of our future commercial triumph is the indefinite date toward which we must look for the fulfillment of his prophecy. In the present uncertainty which shrouds not only the completion of the canal, but the adoption of a fixed plan for its construction, the remoteness of the period at which we may look for the realization of his prediction detracts largely from the enthusiasm which it would otherwise inspire.

"Exactly as there is no other body of men to whom in the past we have owed so much as to the veterans of the Civil War, so there is no other body of men among all of our citizens of to-day who as a whole deserve quite as well of the country as the officers and enlisted men of the army and navy of the United States. Every man who has served well and faithfully, afloat or ashore, in the service of the United States, has shown that he possesses certain qualities which entitle him in a peculiar degree to the respect of all his fellow-citizens, while every man who is now in the service cannot but feel himself uplifted by the thought that in any time of future crisis it may be that the honor of the whole nation will depend upon his bearing. There rests upon each of you a tremendous burden of responsibility, and therefore to you belongs the proud privilege of bearing that load of responsibility well."—[President Roosevelt's Decoration Day speech.

This is respectfully referred to the member of the Cabinet who not so very long ago intimated to a class of graduates in the Revenue Cutter service that a man might as well be buried as to be in the army.

"Steadily refusing," says a contemporary, "to trade with the people of the Philippines upon such terms as we grant to people living in other parts of the territory of the United States, we shall soon, no doubt, be called upon to send more troops to suppress them." But what does it matter how much it costs us, in principle, money or lives, to continue to the last farthing the tariff subsidies asked by our pet monopolies?

MUST ACQUIT

Husband of Neglecting Wife During Sickness.

WOMAN REFUSED TO HAVE PHYSICIAN ATTEND HER.

COURT OF APPEALS ORDERS WESTRUP'S RELEASE.

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

Frankfort, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—The Court of Appeals to-day reversed judgment of the Campbell Circuit Court in a case in which Arthur Westrup, of Newport, was convicted of involuntary manslaughter, in failing to have a physician attend his wife during an illness from which she died. He was sentenced to jail confinement. The court remanded the case to the court below with instructions to acquit the defendant of the charge. The whole court considered the questions presented on appeal, and Judge Settle delivered the opinion of reversal.

The case attracted wide attention in the section of the State from which it was appealed to the court here. The wife of the defendant, whose home had been at Chicago before coming to Newport, refused, because of reading and belief, and upon advice of a female physician at Chicago, with whom she had been corresponding, to allow a physician to attend her during childbirth. The evidence showed that she was not attended, but that later her husband, over her protest, called in a physician. She died, and the husband was arrested on the charge of involuntary manslaughter. It was proven that he did all that he could, that she would permit, to save her life, but, notwithstanding this evidence, he was sentenced to eight months' confinement in the county jail. The court here directs his dismissal on the charge.

Briefs will be filed Saturday next, together with the answer of Judge Berry, and the court will pass upon the petition. The document was filed by Attorneys C. W. Youngblood, S. C. Bailey and S. E. Anderson, of the Newport bar, representing Monroe, and Attorneys C. L. Raisin, T. L. Michie and Horace Root appeared for Judge Berry.

Valued Land Too High.

Judgment of the Madison Circuit Court in a case of Anse Warner against the Ford Lumber and Manufacturing Company was reversed by the court and the case sent back for further proceedings. The judgment set aside by the reversal was for $21,000, given in a condemnation proceeding in Clark county for a strip of land to be used for ferry purposes. The court here says the land is worth probably from $25 to $100.

The suit grew out of an attempt to establish a public ferry on the Kentucky river, from Ford, Clark county, to Madison county, on the opposite side of the river. The Madison County Court awarded a franchise to one J. C. Richardson, who was favored by the appellee company. The Circuit Court reversed the ruling of the County Court, and gave judgment for Warner. It was then necessary to condemn the ferry landing in Clark county, and upon this land a value of $21,000 was fixed by a jury. The court here indicates the value of the grant and sends the case back for rulings which will bring a jury to its proper value.

County Assessments Fixed.

The State Board of Equalization to-day took final action upon the assessment of property in the counties of Gallatin, Clay, Fayette, Franklin and Garrard. A raise of 30 per cent. on farm land and personalty of Gallatin, made on preliminary hearing, was sustained, no witnesses appearing for the county. A delegation from Garrard succeeded in having stricken off the preliminary raises as to that county. The assessment in Clay, Fayette and Franklin was accepted upon preliminary action, and that action was made final.

State Camp For Troops.

Gov. Beckham to-day announced that the Second and Third regiments of the State Guard will not participate in the regular army maneuvers, to be held this year in Indiana, near Indianapolis, and stated that decision would shortly be made as to the First or Louisville regiment, some of whose officers have indicated a desire to be ordered to attend. The decision as to the Second and Third regiments is made by the Governor upon reports from the officers of those organizations, to whom the question of army maneuvers or State camp was submitted some weeks ago. Both favor holding the State camp of instruction at some point within the State, their officers having had experience several years ago at the West Point maneuvers. One officer of the Second Kentucky says his regiment never received a greater blow than as a result of the West Point camp. He further argues that the State camp of instruction is the only inducement to young men to join the Kentucky guard, it holding forth no other inducement, because of the modest appropriation.

The matter of sending the Louisville regiment to the maneuvers this year will rest largely with its officers, as the expense is about the same as it would be to handle a regiment at a State camp of instruction. The regiment is being equipped and prepared by the Military Department, under Adjutant General Lawrence, and will be ready for the jaunt if it is decided to take it.

STEALEY'S WORK ORDERED FOR BATTLESHIP LIBRARIES.

The Government has placed in the libraries of all of its battleships Mr. Stealey's "Twenty Years in the Press Gallery."

This is not only a high compliment to the author, but a deserved recommendation to a most admirable work.

SMALL FIRE AT HOME OF ATTILLA COX.

Sparks from a stove in the kitchen of the residence of Attilla Cox, at 1512 Third avenue, caused a small fire at 6:35 o'clock last evening. An alarm was sounded and the fire was quickly extinguished by a stream from a small hose. The damage, which was confined to the kitchen, was trivial, and consisted principally of the destruction of a wooden framework holding potted plants.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

THE Philharmonic Society terminated the sixth season of its existence with a successful concert last night at Macauley's Theater. From small beginnings the society has struggled upward until it is now the best amateur orchestra in the South. Its performances during the recent engagement in Nashville convinced the people of that city that it is not necessary to import Eastern orchestras to insure good musical productions.

Those in the audience last night who heard the earlier concerts of the Philharmonic could appreciate the immense improvement in the work of the players. During the year they have practiced under the direction of Mr. Schmidt, who has been untiring in his efforts to maintain a high standard of excellence in the performances.

The programme last night presented few technical difficulties, and made no serious demands upon the orchestra. All the selections were light and pleasing, and the uniform excellence of the performance left little opportunity for distinguishing one feature above another. The prelude to "Carmen" and the "Pizzicato Polka," by Delibes, found more favor with the audience than the other numbers, though the applause was liberal throughout. The best and smoothest work of the orchestra was in the "Evening Song," arranged from Schumann by Mr. Schmidt, and in the "Erotik," by Grieg.

Miss Louise Wilkins, the soloist of the evening, proved a valuable acquisition to the ranks of local singers. Her voice is a phenomenally high soprano, and powerful as well as pure. She sang the difficult aria from "Robert le Diable" with perfect ease and elicited a hearty and spontaneous encore, singing James Rogers' charming song, "At Parting." She deserves to become a favorite with local audiences. As a whole the concert was one of the most enjoyable ever given by the Philharmonic, and will be remembered with pleasure by all who were fortunate enough to be present.

MOTLEY THRONGS IN MADRID STREETS

FREE REIN GIVEN TO POPULAR ENTHUSIASM.

ROYAL WEDDING CONTRACT DULY SIGNED.

FOREIGN ENVOYS RECEIVED.

Madrid, May 30.—All Spain is rejoicing on the eve of the wedding of King Alfonso and Princess Victoria and the capital has not seen such scenes of enthusiasm during the present generation. To-night the whole city is aglow with fireworks and electrical illuminations, while the streets are thronged with dense masses of people. All the central points from the Puerta del Sol to the Prado are literally packed. As the decorations and illuminations take on their most lurid hues it is a motley throng with touches almost of barbaric, swarthy Moors wrapped in flowing robes and with red turbans on their heads. Asturian dancers performing their native jota, gypsies from Cordova and Seville, Salamancan herders in red velvet and tinseled gold, with many representatives of clergy and hordes of blind beggars singing melancholy music. At the corners bands play for street dancers. The municipality has given free rein to the popular rejoicings.

The schools and public institutions have been closed and the whole population has given itself up to celebrating the King's marriage.

The chief events of to-day were the King's reception to the foreign envoys and the signing of the wedding contract. The latter ceremony took place at the Prado Palace in the presence of Premier Moret and the other Cabinet ministers with the solemnity befitting a great State ceremonial affecting the future succession to the throne. The witnesses for Princess Victoria were Sir Maurice Bunsen, the British Ambassador at Madrid; Polo y Bernabe, the Spanish Ambassador at London, who was the Spanish minister to Washington when the war between Spain and the United States broke out; Lord Hugh Cecil, Marquis de Viama, an intimate friend of King Alfonso and Marquis de Villalobar. The witnesses for the King were Premier Moret, Senor Maura, former president of the Council; Gen. Aszarraga, former Prèmier; Gen. Montero Rios, former Premier; the Duke of Sotomayor, chief of the royal palace; the Marquis de LaMina, chief of the royal hunt; Gen. Pacheco, chief of the royal Halberdiers, and the Marquis de Borja, intendant general, these representing the statesmen, the royal household, the army and the nobility.

The marriage contract appears to-night in the Official Gazette. Article 2 gives the bride an annual income of $90,000, and in the event of the King's death $50,000. In Art. 3, Princess Victoria renounces all right of succession to the British throne. The other articles relate to the marriage.

King Alfonso received the special American Embassy at the royal palace at 10:30 oclock this morning, when the autograph letter of President Roosevelt was presented to him. The audience took place in the hall of the Ambassadors and was surrounded by all the impressive formality of court ceremony. Mr. Whiteridge, wearing American evening dress, was accompanied by Lieut. U. S. Grant, U. S. A., and Lieut. Leigh C. Palmer, U. S. N., in full uniform and Minister Collier and the staffs of the special American Embassy and legation.

MAN AND WOMAN HURT IN COLLISION.

Runabout Struck By Car While On Their Way Home From Cemetery.

While returning home from the Eastern cemetery by way of the Baxter avenue gates yesterday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Naugle, of 1702 West Main street, who were in a runabout, had narrow escapes in a collision with a north-bound Walnut street car. Mrs. Naugle sustained injuries which necessitated her removal to her home. The runabout was struck with much force and was completely demolished. The horse was struck by the fender of the car and badly crippled.

Mrs. Naugle was dragged some distance before the car was stopped, it is said, and Dr. F. S. Clark, who attended her found that she was badly bruised about the breast and she probably sustained internal injuries that will prove serious. Dr. Clark attended to her injuries at his office which is near the scene of the accident and then took her home in his automobile. Mr. Naugle received slight bruises about the shoulders, having jumped from the runabout in an effort to prevent the collision.

IMPEACHMENT

Threat Made Against Jeffersonville City Officers.

LICENSE COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS SUCH ACTION.

RESULT OF NEW SALOON LICENSE ORDINANCE.

LIVELY TILT EXPECTED.

Because the Democratic Mayor, City Clerk, City Controller, City Treasurer and City Attorney of Jeffersonville are endeavoring to see that the law is complied with, on an ordinance passed by a Republican City Council, they are threatened with impeachment by the council, and it is expected there will be much excitement at the City Council meeting Monday night.

The License Committee, which is composed of Alvah H. Mahaffey, Charles Strauch and David W. Johnson, met in a secret session Tuesday night and decided to recommend that the five officers or at least a part of them be impeached.

The agreement to recommend the impeachment process is based on the fact that H. E. Heaton, City Controller, who is cashier of the First National Bank, of Jeffersonville, and a highly qualified business man, has refused to obey a resolution of the City Council to give to every saloonkeeper now holding a license a receipt showing he had paid in full to December 28. The ordinance, which was passed over Mayor Burtt's veto, was presented the first night the council as it is now composed, met, which was at a special session.

The ordinance, however, was put through over Mayor Burtt's veto and in brief says that all persons desiring to sell intoxicating liquors must procure a license after certain proceedings are gone through by the payment of a fee of $150 to the City Controller. The last paragraph of the ordinance says: "This ordinance shall be in force and effect from and after its passage and legal publication."

* * *

Takes Effect To-morrow.

After it was pointed out that the saloonkeepers would become liable to again pay $150 the resolution requiring the City Controller to give receipts for something he did not receive, until December 28, was presented. The ordinance goes into effect to-morrow and on this point there is no difference of opinion. Capt. Clegg has been instructed to enforce it and ordered to close all places where a permit under the new ordinance is not found.

While the impeachment threat is particularly aimed at H. E. Eaton, City Controller, it is intended as a club for all the Democratic officials now in office and who do not retire until in September. Some of the most prominent attorneys in Jeffersonville say the Republican Council has begun paving its way for costly litigation on several things, one of which would be the impeachment proceedings that would not get through the courts until after Mayor Burtt and his friends have retired. It is held that under the ordinance the City Controller cannot be held guilty of any wrongdoing until he has violated some provision of the ordinance. This provides than an application for a license must be presented at one meeting of the City Council and then referred to the Committee on Licenses to report back at a future meeting. If there is a favorable recommendation from the committee the Council may then grant a license at its discretion, provided the applicant pays the City Controller a fee of $150.

Those who say they know say the effect of an ordinance cannot be changed by a resolution and it is on this point that the contention now being engaged in has arisen. It is alleged also that the Republican Councilmen are being given legal advice by three men who heretofore have said they were Democrats, but who voted against the ticket at the last city election.

SUES FOR DAMAGES.

Man Wants $500 For Being Arrested On Charge of Driving Horse Too Fast.

Edward Hollarah filed suit for $500 damages against Daniel Schellers in the Clark Circuit Court at Jeffersonville yesterday afternoon, alleging he had been injured by being accused of driving a horse too fast and placed under arrest. In his complaint Hollarah sets forth that he hired a horse and buggy from Schellers, who keeps a livery stable at Sellersburg, to go to Broom Hill, a few miles distant, on May 27, paying $2.50 to Schellers with the privilege of returning on May 28. He asserts that he did not reach his destination.

It is alleged in the complaint that Schellers sent a hired man, "one Ehringer," and the Marshal of Sellersburg to Bennettsville, where the plaintiff was overtaken and accused of "overdriving" the horse, of which the Marshal and Ehringer demanded custody. This demand he refused, and was taken back to Sellersburg, where he was subjected to ridicule by being held up before the public on the charge of overdriving, he asserts.

The plaintiff denies that he overdrove the horse, and alleges that he was forty-five minutes in driving from Sellersburg to Bennettsville, a distance of three miles. The suit was brought through L. A. Douglas, of Jeffersonville. Schellers is a son of John Schellers, who is a member of the Board of Commissioners of Clark county. Hollorah lives near Broom Hill.

SALOONS CLOSED.

Police Orders Obeyed By All In New Albany.

DECORATION DAY HELD TO BE A HOLIDAY.

INDIANA SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS BROEKER CASE.

INVOLVES LIEN ON BIG FARM.

A recent decision made by the Appellate Court of Indiana declared in effect that Memorial Day was a legal holiday on which all places where liquors are sold must be closed the same as other holidays. In accordance with this decision, Capt. William Adams, Chief of Police at New Albany, had the patrolmen notify the proprietors of the saloons of that city Tuesday night that their places must be closed during yesterday or prosecutions would follow. This was the first time such action had been taken on Decoration Day, but the saloonkeepers, although surprised at the order, obeyed it implicitly. Similar action was taken in the other cities of Indiana.

Broeker Case Affirmed.

In the Indiana Supreme Court the decision of the Floyd Circuit Court at New Albany in the case of the Aetna Insurance Company against Broeker and others has been affirmed. This case was tried in the Floyd Circuit Court nearly a year ago and was decided in favor of the defendants. The insurance company took an appeal.

The decision handed down by the higher tribunal was: "A mortgage of the rents and profits of the mortgaged premises, after default, does not of itself give any right to the appointment of a receiver, pending an action to foreclose, and such appointment may be refused without error, where the mortgaged land is ample security for the debt and for all superior liens for which the mortgagee may become liable." The controversy, which at the time was the subject of considerable interest on the part of attorenys and others, was in relation to liens on the noted Broeker farm, situated one mile west of New Albany.

The family consisted originally of nine children. Mrs. Mahala Crecelius Conrad died at the age of eighty-three years; Mrs. Elizabeth Blume, was forty-two years old when she died, and Diana, the youngest, died in infancy. NATIONAL FLAG

Waves From Houses Over Heads of Old Soldiers.

MARCHING TO PAY TRIBUTE TO THOSE WHO FELL.

VETERANS STREW FLOWERS OVER GRAVES OF COMRADES.

PATRIOTIC ADDRESSES MADE.

Memorial day was appropriately observed in New Alabny. The banks, city and county offices and public institutions were closed as well as the business houses. Many of the stores and residences displayed the national colors while the buildings along the streets traversed by the veterans on the march from the headquarters to the cemetery were also decorated. The column was headed by a band and the old warriors stepped off nearly as actively as they did over forty years ago.

At the National cemetery on Ekin avenue, the last resting place of more than 3,000 brave soldiers of the Civil War, an interesting programme was observed. Past Commander D. M. Hammond was master of ceremonies and J. F. Cartwright was chief marshal. The graves were decorated by the soldiers of the Civil and Spanish-American Wars, assisted by the women of the relief corps. The assembly call was given by Arthur Lamppin, and there was a patriotic song by thirty school children. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. George H. Murphy, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, followed by the ceremonies as provided in the G. A. R. burial ritual. After the salute to the dead by Company C, Indiana National Guard, the principal address was delivered by Judge Jerry L. Suddarth, of Crawford county one of the most pleasing and effective orators of Southern Indiana. Taps was sounded and the exercises closed with a benediction by the Rev. W. M. Elliott, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church.

Yesterday morning the graves of soldiers of the Civil War in Fairview cemetery, together with those of the Mexican and Spanish-American Wars, were decorated with flowers by a committee of Sanderson Post, G. A. R., acting with Mrs. Martha Reamer, widow of Capt. Hiram J. Reamer, who was a Mexican War veteran, and who for many years made a practice of decorating the graves of his comrades killed at the battle of Buena Vista. The graves of five soldiers of the Revolutionary War in Fairview were not forgotten but were decorated with flowers by the women of Piankeshaw Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

SIX LOST GRAVES

Recently Located and Decorated With Many Flowers.

Decoration day was observed in Jeffersonville and many of the factories and business houses closed during the day. At noon the remainder followed and during the afternoon business was practically at a standstill, the streets bearing a Sunday-like appearance. There were no public exercises, but during the afternoon the people flocked to New Albany to observe the day. The two Grand Army Posts, the Woman's Relief Corps, the Spanish-American War Veterans and Company M, Indiana National Guards, turning out as organizations.

During the morning the graves in Jeffersonville that contain the bodies of soldiers who fought in the several wars were strewn with flowers and silent prayers were offered at many mounds. In a remote corner of the Eastern cemetery are the graves of six Confederates who froze to death while being taken North as prisoners of war. Although the mounds can barely be traced after forty-two years they were not forgotten and for the first time flowers were placed upon them. The graves were recently located through the efforts of L. C. Orrill, a Federal veteran, and Capt. L. C. Baird, who was in the Spanish-American War.

At the several cemeteries in Jeffersonville there are nearly 200 veterans of the Civil War buried and besides these there are two known graves of soldiers of the Revolutionary War; one of the war of 1812; four of the Mexican War; three of the Spanish-American War and six unknown prisoners of the Confederate army of the Civil War and not one of these was neglected, the decorations being the most complete ever known.

READ AND YOU WILL LEARN

That the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice endorse and recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes, that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula on the bottle wrapper is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous or harmful agents and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful ingredient in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

CONSCIENCE HURT,

So Mrs. Sapp Asks For New Trial of Preacher.

TELLS HOW MINISTER SHOWED PASTORAL AFFECTION.

THE REV. B. F. LAWHERN SUSPENDED FROM CHURCH.

MUST ANSWER TO CONFERENCE

Hawesville, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—The Rev. B. F. Lawhern has been suspended from the pastorate of the Hawesville Methodist church and must answer on trial at Central City, Ky., September 19 before the Methodist conference. The charges were brought against him by Mrs. Joseph Sapp, a member of his church. Some time ago ago Mr. Sapp bored holes in the back of his business house and saw the preacher caressing his wife. He came from his place of hiding with a pistol in his hand, but did not shoot. At an informal investigation at that time, both the preacher and Mrs. Sapp denied the charges made by Mr. Sapp. This trial resulted in the acquittal of the Rev. Mr. Lawhern, and after a few days, the home of the Sapps was re-established.

Presiding Elder Lewis then saw Mrs. Sapp and she told him that her conscience was hurting her, and that she wanted another trial, saying that she made the former statements on the idea that if she had told the truth, it would have ruined her, the preacher and the church. The Rev. Mr. Lewis ordered another trial which resulted in the suspension of Mr. Lawhern and the withdrawal of the names of Mr. and Mrs. Sapp as members of the church. The Investigation Committee was composed of the Rev. J. W. Love, of Lewisport; C. F. Hartford, of Owensboro; W. R. Wagoner, of South Carrollton; the Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Owensboro, and B. M. Currier, of Cloverport. In this trial Mrs. Sapp stated she told the preacher after the former trial that her conscience was hurting her and she wanted another trial, but that the preacher told her that that would never do, as it would ruin the church.

MEET NEXT IN FRANKFORT.

Kentucky Railroad Surgeons Finish Business.

Richmond, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—The annual meeting of the Kentucky State Railroad Surgeons' Associations, which has been in session here for the last two days, came to a close to-night with a banquet at the Masonic Temple. Frankfort was selected as the next meeting place, the date to be fixed later. The election of new officers resulted as follows: Dr. Clarence H. Vaught, of Richmond, president; Dr. R. C. McCord, of Lebanon, Ky., vice president, and Dr. J. B. Kinnaird, of Lancaster, re-elected secretary and treasurer.

A committee of three composed of Dr. E. E. Hume, of Frankfort, Mayor of that city; Dr. H. L. Chase, of Junction City, and Dr. C. G. Daugherty, of Paris, were appointed to draft a new constitution and by-laws. Paris put up a hard fight for the next meeting, but Frankfort was selected, as that place was more centrally located. Dr. Adams, of Maysville, who was taken suddenly ill at last night's reception and had been taken to the infirmary, was able to attend to-day's session and banquet to-night.

SECOND ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE.

Prisoners In Campton Jail Cut Hole In Wall.

Campton, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—The prisoners confined in the jail of this county made an attempt last night to escape from the jail by cutting their way through a brick wall. They had cut a small hole through the wall when the Jailer went to lock them in their cells, when he discovered their attempt to make their escape. Six prisoners are confined in the jail, three charged with murder, two with housebreaking and one with cattle stealing. This is the second attempt of the prisoners to make their escape in the last week. A pistol was slipped to them last Saturday, but the Jailer, getting news of this, searched the jail before an attempt was made to use the weapon, finding it concealed in one of their beds.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—At a special meeting of Church Hill Grange, a resolution was unanimously adopted condemning in the strongest terms the nightly destruction of plant beds in the county as disreputable, dishonest and criminal, and deserving the severest punishment. The jury was out nearly twenty-four hours. Denny and Henry Stagner became involved in a fight when Gillen ran in to separate them. Denny drew a knife with which he cut Gillen's throat from ear to ear.

Locusts Reach Bourbon.

Paris, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—The seventeen-year locust has made its appearance in Bourbon county. Louis Kreiner, of the Citizens' Bank, says he was riding on the Winchester pike near the house of C. M. Clay, Jr., this afternoon, and his attention was attracted by the loud noise made by the insects. Upon investigating he discovered swarms of the destroyers on oak trees in Mr. Clay's woods. He says there must have been millions of them. Mr. Kreiner brought several of the pests with him and submitted them to the authorities for examination. They were pronounced the genuine seventeen-year "Pharaohs," having all the distinguishing marks. Beyond the destruction of oak tree foliage no damage was noted.

Seventh Race—Dr. McCluer, Fonsoluca, Orient.

LATONIA, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—Princess Orna, Tom Hayes' good mare which won several good races at Louisville, this afternoon captured the Decoration Day Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, before a crowd of 12,000 people. The handicap was the feature of the opening day of the spring meeting. Six horses faced the starter. Princess Orna, equal favorite in the betting with McIlvain, jumped to the front at the start, and was never headed, winning handily by a length from McIlvain, which came with a rush at the end and took the place from Coruscate.

While the starting of Jake Holtman was a little off color, the latter official being credited with no less than four bad endeavors, and two bad spills characterized the contests, the racing, on the whole, was of the gilt-edged order.

In both the accidents, one of which occurred during the running of the fifth, when three horses and as many riders got afoul of each other and bit the dust, the other was caused by the same tactics, that of rough riding. The former accident was caused by Tommy Taylor deliberately pulling over in front of County Clerk, when the latter attempted to come through on the rail, and the latter was as deliberate, because Griffith on Floral Artist crossed over in front of Tarp, the heavily-backed second choice, when the latter attempted to go through a hole, which he was entitled to do. Unless the officials take immediate action and severely reprimand these "rough riders" some fatalities will be recorded ere the meeting is very far advanced.

The stellar attraction of the afternoon's card was the running of the Decoration Handicap at one and one-sixteenth mile, and which carried a net valuation to the winner of $1,840, and was won in most impressive manner by T. P. Hayes' good Ornament mare, Princess Orna, with McIlvain second and Coruscate third. Always ruling favorite from "chalk up" to post call the Hayes mare was the medium of a tremendous plunge by the wise paddock contingent, who thought her the one best bet of the day, but so persistently did the Nashville contingent, headed by Frank Bruhns, pound down the price about his candidate, McIlvain, that the favorite's price gradually lengthened out until 13 to 5 could be obtained at post time, while Coruscate's price was always as good as 5 to 1.

After a long delay at the post of some five minutes Starter Holtman released the rubber with three of the six starters turned sideways and the winner off flying. Making the best of his advantage Austin, who had the leg up on the favorite, immediately shot her to the front and opening up a commanding lead of a length and half on McIlvain, which showed more early speed to-day than in any of his previous starts, while Coruscate, which has seemingly regained her former good form, was right at the heels of the latter all the way, while Envoy, which had been kicked two or three times while at the post by the fractious Princess Orna, seemed to sulk after going a half mile.

Rounding the far turn Obert on McIlvain made his challenge, and drawing on almost even terms with the favorite seemed to be coming strong, but Princess Orna was not to be denied. Pinning back her ears when she felt the weight of the lash she came on again, and turning for home regained possession of the lead and in the ensuing drive, which lasted all of the final furlong, she drew away from the Bruhns horse, winning cleverly by a length and a half. The latter was all out at the end and was staggering from the early pace, and just did last long enough to stall off Coruscate's determined challenge. The others were beaten off at the finish. The time, 1:45 2-5, clips one and one-fifth second off the track record, previously made by Prince Silverwings in June, 1905.

Robin Hood Scores.

The Inaugural Dash, which was at five and one-half furlongs, proved a cakewalk for the winner, Robin Hood, which after being favored by an excruciatingly bad start, opened up a winning lead of a couple of lengths and smothering his field from there to the wire won eased up by three lengths. John English, which had been well supported by a wise coterie, was as easily second best. The latter was very sharply cut off when Seder, who had the leg up, was about to make his run and but for which might have been a more serious contender. Tocolaw, which was supposed to be the real contender, received a ride that smelt high to heaven and called for well-merited criticism. Otis, who had the mount, took the Madison horse the overland route for the entire trip, and to say the least this one's performance was a vast reversal over his previous effort over the Churchill Downs course.

* * *

La Veita's Close Call.

The second race brought together a very shifty bunch of youngsters of which La Veita, from the barn of W. M. Hayes, was installed a 6 to 5 favorite, with Mattie Mack a lukewarm second choice at 3 to 1. When the start came Noonan, who had the leg up, immediately hustled the favorite to the front and opening up a commanding lead, just managed to keep her going long enough to win by a short neck from Della Thorpe, which was in very tight quarters all of the first quarter, but which closed with a rush when she got clear sailing and outgamed Mattie Mack for the place. The latter raced to her best form and had no apparent excuses. A lot of wise money asserted itself just at post time on Antola, but after running in a contending position for half a mile seemed to sulk, and refused the issue from there home.

Horses Turned Wrong Way.

Starter Holtman broke it up in the third by leaving three horses turned the wrong way of the track and as many more flat-footed when he released the rubber. Matador, the public choice, was first to show when the start came, and Troxler took no chances but hustling his mount immediately into a commanding lead had plenty in reserve when Windshield, a heavily backed second choice, made his determined challenge in the final furlong. The race of the latter was a spanking performance and but for a trifle of bad racing luck might have been a serious thorn in the side of the winner. Presentation, which had forced the pace throughout, weakened in the run home and was lucky to save the short end from Pinaud, which closed with a belated rattle at the end.

* * *

Another Bad Accident.

The fifth race of the day, although being taken in most impressive manner by the favorite, was nevertheless marred by what looked for several minutes to be a very bad accident, when three of the six starters went down in a heap. Seven Bells, the winner, which made it two straight for Tom Hayes, always ruled favorite in point of sentiment and in the betting. When the start came it found the favorite on his toes with Jay Swing right at his throat latch. Going to the first turn there was a scramble for position in which F. Hildebrand on County Clerk endeavored to come through on the rail and was promptly cut off by Tommy Taylor on Jay Swift. The interference was so sharp that County Clerk fell to his knees and Holdfast, which was running in close contention, fell over him, while Toulon, the only other starter, piled up on top of these. Outside of a bad shaking up, none of the riders or horses were the worse for their experience. Seven Bells after the mishap had very little difficulty in winning, simply tow-roping the other two home by three lengths, with Alvise the same distance in front of Jay Swift, the cause of all the trouble.

* * *

Hot One Goes Over.

The sixth race saw a red-hot one dropped over in Dudley, a 30 to 1 shot, from the barn or Scott Hudson, which, after running in close contention all the way took the measure of the heavily played second choice, Carew, in the final drive. The latter was played as if it were all over but the shouting. Carew flattered his backers by flashing into the lead early in the race, but in the run home he faltered, being passed after a sizzling drive in the last few jumps. Florizel, which was looked upon by many to have been dropped into a real soft spot, annexed the short end.

* * *

Gambrinus Shows Gameness.

The closing race of the day was productive of a real horse race, with the issue always in doubt until the last couple of jumps, when after standing a long stretch drive gamely, Gambrinus, from the barn of William Gerst, forged ahead, winning very impressively by a length and a half from Freebooter, which was half a length in front of Roscoe, which had been the runnerup for the entire distance. The start, which was another terrible endeavor, found three horses turned the wrong way when the rubber was released and Roscoe off flying. Allen, who had the leg up on the latter, endeavored to make a runaway race of it, and turning for home seemed to have accomplished this end, but in the final drive both Gambrinus and Freebooter, which had been running in close contention, grabbed him and outgamed him in the last few jumps.

CHAT OF THE TURF.

A pretty fight between Lyne and Hildebrand is on for the position of senior jockey to the large and powerful stable being raced this year by Harry Payne Whitney. On Saturday Rodgers put up Lyne instead of Hildebrand on Burgomaster. Ever since Hildebrand gave Hamburg Prince a certain sort of a ride at Saratoga two years ago, Rodgers has never cared much for "Hildy." Whitney holds a second call on Lyne this year.

The colors of Barney Schreiber, the Missouri breeder and owner, will be seen in the East this year for the first time in several seasons. Mr. Schreiber's horses have been shipped from Memphis to Buffalo, and will race on the second circuit until later in the season, when it is expected that they will race on the big tracks. Schreiber is not without hope of winning some of the big events, and will try for the Futurity with Jack Atkins, a colt by Sain, out of El Salado, if the youngster keeps up to the notch he has set in his Western races.

Riley Grannan is becoming lucky again. First evidence at hand on Saturday when the elongated plunger flashed his full array of sparklers. Had 'em all out at once. Wonderful character is this same Grannan. Day after day he risks his all in the steadfast belief that some day the "break" will come which will lead him once again to fame and fortune. Not so many years ago Grannan won $60,000 on the dead heat of Henry of Navarre and Domino. He looks to-day as good as ever, but somehow he can't get the "break." He has been looking for it these last ten years. Some philosophers of the ring say he will wait without reward until the end, for it only comes once to the gambler, they say. Grannan is a man who knows but one line of policy in playing race horses. He plays the "class" horse, regardless of their known condition. For instance, he went to Glorifier early last week, when this choice stood at 40 to 1, 15 to 1 and 4 to 1, for he knew that the colt was a real horse of quality on his two-year-old form, which is going back a long way. "I will play class instead of works and figures so long as I am at the game," remarked Riley not long since, and this contention may have its virtue.—[New York Journal.

Favored by the start, the winner opened up a winning lead the first part and was never in danger. John English ran in close pursuit first part; was cut off sharply entering the stretch, when Seder was about to make his run, and was easily second best. Tocolaw closed stoutly. Nonie Lucille stopped as if short.

164—SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs; purse $400; for two-year-old fillies. Start fair. Won driving; place same. Winner, W. M. Hayes' b. f., by Kingston—Semper Cara; trained by W. M. Hayes. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :22 1-5, :48 2-5, :55.

The winner broke well in motion, opened up a commanding lead the first half, but had to be ridden out to the last ounce to stall off the determined challenge of Della Thorpe. The latter, off all tangled up, ran the best race of the party; would have won with an even break. Mattie Mack, badly messed about, closed strong. Antola showed a flash of early speed; probably short. Poster Girl should improve from this.

Troxler got the winner off well in motion and, under a hustling ride, just managed to last long enough to stall off the determined challenge of Windshield. The latter, off well, but pinched off in the race for positions, ran a corking race; well worth remembering. Presentation forced all the early pace, but tired right at the end. Pinaud came from a long way back. Last three left at the post.

166—FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles; $1,500 added; the Decoration Handicap; for three-year-olds and upward. Start bad. Won cleverly; place driving. Winner, T. P. The winner was on her bad behavior to-day, delaying the start fully five minutes, but was off well in motion and, under a hustling ride, outlasted McIlvain in the final drive. The latter kept up closer to-day, forcing all the pace, but hung when the pinch came. Coruscate ran to her best form. Envoy, kicked several times while at the post by Princess Orna, seemed to sulk after going a half mile. Other two always outrun.

167—FIFTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs; purse $400; for two-year-old colts and geldings. Start good. Won easily; place same. Winner, T. P. Hayes & Co.'s ch. c., 2, by Faraday—Notre Dame; trained by T. P. Hayes. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :23 1-5, :48 4-5, :54 4-5.

The winner outbroke his field, and after the interference, had no contention, winning pulled up. Alvise, a real smart looker, easily disposed of Jay Swift in the run home. The latter showed the most early speed, but tired badly in the run home; was probably short. The jam occurred at the first turn, Jay Swift shutting off County Clerk, the latter going down and the others piling up on top of him.

168—SIXTH RACE—One mile; purse $400; for three-year-olds and upward; selling. Start fair. Won driving; place easily. Winner, S. Hudson & Co.'s b. g., 3, by Bassetlaw—Sham; trained by S. Hudson. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :25, :49 3-5, 1:15, 1:41 1-5.

Dudley was much the best. Taylor shuffled him about in the early stages and, saving ground turning for home, won on his own courage. Carew forced the early pace and looked all over the winner turning for home, but hung when forced to a drive. Florizel loomed up dangerously rounding the far turn, but stopped as if a trifle short. St. Volma ran a good even race and should improve over this effort. Floral Artist bumped Tarp rounding the first turn, causing the latter to go down.

169—SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs; purse $400; for three-year-olds and upward; selling. Start bad. Won easily; place same. Winner, Wm. Gerst's b. g., 4, by Sorcerer—Jean; trained by W. McDaniel. Value to winner, $300. Fractional time: :24, :47 4-5, 1:13.

ENGLISH DERBY GOES TO MAHER

American Jockey Wins Third Great Classic At Epsom Downs.

SPEARMINT'S FINE VICTORY.

King Edward, Ambassador Reid and Other Notables See World's Greatest Race.

RIDER RECEIVES AN OVATION.

LONDON, May 30.—Spearmint won the Derby Stakes, of 6,500 sovereigns, for entire colts and fillies foaled in 1903, about one mile and a half, at Epsom to-day.

Mr. Dudgale's Picton was second and the Duke of Westminster's Troutbeck was third. The winner is owned by Sir Tatton Sykes. Twenty horses started.

Derby day as a national institution shows no signs of decaying. Old stagers who have traveled over the dusty road from London to Epsom annually for decades, to-day declared they never before had seen such a rush, while the railways, although they ran scores of specials, were unable to accommodate all the Epsom-bound people. Ideal weather helped to swell the holiday crowds, and the contrasts and cosmopolitanism of throngs composing the road-borne traffic were as marked as ever. The Park Lane millionaire and the costermonger exchanged badinage as the four-horse coaches and costly motor cars jostled the costers' barrows and the tradesmen's carts, flowing in a continuous stream toward the race course. The general din was terrific. To the inharmonious wails of the bugles, cornets, harps, concertinas, violins and mouth organs was added the rattle and throb of motors and the blasts of their horns, incessantly sounding, in futile endeavors to get the costers to draw their donkeys on one side so as to allow the automobiles to hurry on to the goal. The motor busses seen on the road, for the first time, carried full complements.

King Edward and a party of friends came down by special train in time for the first race. Ambassador Reid was another early arrival.

The crowd at the course was believed to be a record one, and the various stands and inclosures were filled with prominent people.

Maher, the American jockey, rode Spearmint. The great race of the day presented a perplexing problem, and the most cocksure experts found themselves at a loss to select the probable winner, with twenty runners, the largest field since Vlodyovcki, five years ago, won the great prize for the late William C. Whitney, a dozen of which were equally fancied by their respective stables. There had not been such an open door for four years. Until yesterday Mr. Purefoy's Lally held the first place in the betting, but yesterday evening Lally was dethroned in favor of Spearmint. This morning Lally resumed first place in the betting, and started a favorite at 4 to 1 against. It took some time to get the horses aligned, but finally they went off to a good start. Troutbeck jumped to the front and led to the mile post, when Picton assumed command, but gave way again to Troutbeck on descending the hill.

A quarter of a mile from home Picton came on with a rush, and again assumed the lead, but shortly afterward Maher, riding a splendid race on Spearmint, challenged the leader, gradually drew up level, forged ahead, and won a great race by a length. Picton was second, Troutbeck was third and Radium was fourth. Two lengths separated the second and third horses. Martin (American) rode Troutbeck.

The betting was 6 to 1 on Spearmint, 100 to 6 on Picton and 33 to 1 on Troutbeck.

This was Maher's third Derby. His previous wins were on Rocksand and Cicero. The jockey, who is a great favorite in England, received an ovation on returning to the scale. King Edward's entry, Nulli Secundus, made a poor showing.

TREMENDOUS CROWD AT RACES

Nearly 50,000 People See Burgomaster Win Belmont Stakes.

Whitney Colt Easily Beats Best Three-Year-Olds In Training In Classic.

GOOD AND PLENTY FIRST.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Before one of the largest crowds ever seen at an Eastern race track, Harry Payne Whitney's Burgomaster, at the prohibitive odds of 2 to 5, easily won the $25,000 Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park to-day, defeating John E. Madden's The Quail by a length and a half, with W. Harry Brown's Accountant third.

The mile and three furlongs was run in the fast time of 2:20, and at no stage of the race was the favorite threatened. The day was ideal for racing, and between 45,000 and 50,000 persons were present.

The field was made up of some of the best three-year-olds in training. The Whitney entry, Burgomaster and Pegasus, was always favorite. Opening at 1 to 2, the two were pounded down to 2 to 5. Accountant was heavily played for the place.

With only a few moments' delay, they were sent away to a good start. Accountant was first to show, but Burgomaster soon headed him, and as they flashed past the quarter post the favorite was leading by a length, Accountant second and The Quail third. This order was maintained to the stretch, where Accountant ran wide. Meanwhile Lyne on Burgomaster sat still, and when straightened out for the run home nothing else could get to him.

Good and Plenty landed the $5,000 Whitney Memorial Steeplechase. Desert Chief, an imported horse from England, took the lead in the first furlong, and showed the way for about a mile and a half, when he fell at a jump on the back stretch while leading by four lengths.

TEBEAU SECURES ANOTHER PITCHER.

George Tebeau has bought another pitcher for the Louisville ball club. The new twirler is William Wolf. His release was purchased last night by wire from the Washington Club of the American League. Transportation was telegraphed to Wolf and he is expected to arrive here to-morrow or by Saturday at the latest. Wolf is a right handed pitcher, and if he is in shape is a fine twirler. He was with the New York Americans last year and the Washington Americans this season. He played for Tebeau's Kansas City club in 1901, when he was a star. He is a brother-in-law of Bill Phillips, formerly with Cincinnati, and is said to be disatisfied with his berth at Washington. Tebeau paid a big price for Wolf's release, as he thinks the Colonel's pitching staff needs strengthening at almost any cost.

AN EVEN BREAK AT COLUMBUS

Colonels Win In Forenoon, But Lose the Afternoon Game.

TEBEAU'S MEN HIT FLAHERTY.

Berger In Rare Form In Second Contest and Should Have Scored Shut-Out.

HALLMAN'S SPLENDID WORK.

Columbus, O., May 30.—[Special.]—Berger and Dunkle were the winning pitchers in the double offering of Memorial Day. Smiling Ed did his part of the winning act in the morning when something more than a dew glistened on the turf at Neil Park, the clouds shedding a tear or two in keeping will the spirit of the day.

Then the skies brightened as the game wore on and when the victory was won for the Louisville team there was promise of a bright afternoon. Dunkle got away with his easily 7 to 1. Twenty-four hundred saw the performance in which Patsy Flaherty, former Colonel, did nothing to make Suter Sullivan pine at not having him now. He was stung freely and his support was mournful. Ed had the happy faculty of keeping his hits scattered and how well he succeeded can be seen in the large collection of bingles made off him and that lonely one run which resulted from all this hitting.

In the afternoon it was different. The sun shone brightly and 9,000 crowded into the park to see a game just the reverse of the morning exhibition. Everybody was on the alert and as fast and pretty a contest as has been seen here this year resulted. The game was played in less than an hour and a half and very few errors marred the exhibition. Berger was in rare form and but for Wrigley's error in the ninth and his pass to Stovall, he would have pitched shut-out ball.

Wrigley's "foozle" can be excused, however, when a look into his record is taken. To-day he, but for the ninth inning, completed his twenty-seventh straight game without an error. This will undoubtedly stand as a season record for an infielder. Berger allowed but two hits up to the ninth inning, when a pair of extra ones were made. Stecher pitched good ball, too, his only slip was permitting five hits to be bunched on him in the second and third innings. This bunching netted enough runs to win. In the second Kihm died enroute. Hinchman singled and Friel followed with a double. Hulswitt, the Louisville boy, hit into a nice bingle over second, scoring both. An error by Quinlan and Pickering's three-bagger to the fence scored the other run in the third.

Louisville was never dangerous until the ninth, when a base on balls and a pair of singles scored their only run.

In the morning game, Columbus scored in the first on a triple by Wrigley, and Hinchman followed with a single. That settled it as far as Columbus went, Dunkle being too handy with his change of pace to permit any further scoring. Louisville made three in the opening round with a single and errors by Hulswitt and hits by Sullivan and Kerwin brought home Hallman and two other runners.

In the third two more scored on one hit, a sacrifice and two errors, Flaherty and Hinchman contributing to the misplay column. Two hits in each the fifth and eighth netted the other two trips across the rubber.

Too much cannot be said in praise of the grand work done to-day by Billy Hallman; his fielding, base-running and hitting was great. His two days of wedded life have not hurt his splendid game in the least, if to-day is a sample. Kerwin was busy, too, in the infield. The hitting of Dunkle must be classed as a feature also. THOUSANDS SEE BICYCLE DERBY.

New York, May 30.—Under a warm sun, tempered by a delightfully cool breeze, and over a perfect course, the eighteenth twenty-five-mile Irvington-Milburn road race, commonly known as the "Cycling Derby" of the East, was started to-day. Thousands of persons lined the course. There were 143 riders entered, including eleven scratch men. W. Raleigh, of Brooklyn, handicap of six and one-half minutes, won the race. Clinton Ayres, of Newark, seven minutes, second. F. Montville, of Newark, was third. The time prize was won by F. W. Eifler, of New York.

Indianapolis, May 30.—The inability of the home team to hit Sudhoff and the ability of the Toledo team to hit Hart freely gave the opening game to-day to the visitors by a score of 9 to 1. Score:

SCHOOL BOYS IN FIERCE FIGHT

High School-Manual Game Breaks Up In Free-For-All Bout.

POLICE FINALLY STOP ROW.

Half a Dozen Students Punch Each Other Without Regard To Ring Rules.

PURPLE TEAM THE WINNER.

High School defeated Manual yesterday afternoon by the score of 4 to 2, thus winning the championship of the city and the cup donated for the team winning the first two successive championships. The game broke up in a free-for-all disgraceful fight, which was stopped only by the arrival of the police.

The game, a very fast one, was marred by Manual's incessant kicking and quibbling, but until the sixth inning was very clean. In this inning, however, an altercation arose between Snyder, of Manual, and Booker, of High School, and from then on Manual appeared to have it in for the lean first baseman, trying to spike him several times.

In the first inning, with two men on bases and two out, Goddard, High School's center fielder, by a timely hit to right scored two runs. Duffy, who secured the other two tallies, scored first on Payne's error and the second time on Crawford's hit.

Duffy, Crawford and P. G. Booker each secured two hits out of four times at bat.

Manual's tallies were made in the second and ninth innings. Boyd, who scored the first one, hit to right, stole second, and scored on Payne's hit. In the ninth, Payne, who got to first on Foley's error, after being advanced to second and third by Bodley and Stiltz, scored on Duff's error.

Warder, Payne and Bond played the best game for Manual, while Crawford, Appel, Duffy, P. G. Booker and B. Booker played well for High School.

Then occurred the most regrettable incident of the whole game. As Bodley Booker touched the sack in the ninth inning, making the last put out, Snyder, of Manual, called to him, it is said, that he had something to say to him. Booker started over to him, and was met by Snyder's fist. This was followed by a general rush from the grand stand to see the fight at close quarters.

While watching the contention Blakemore Wheeler, of High School '03, was struck by Huber, of Manual '02. Another fight immediately arose between the two. This was the start of a general free-for-all, and the two contending factions surged up and down over the whole field, trampling mercilessly over all those unlucky enough to lose their feet. The Manual sympathizers at first had the better of the High School boys, but the fight between Q. D. Vaughan, of High School, '04, and "Rube" Beard, formerly of Manual, in which Vaughan gained a nominal victory, seemed to turn the tide and was quickly followed by several other victories, most noticeable of which was in the fight between Elliott Haynes and "Chubby" Roe, of High School. This sparring match rose over Roe's attempt to break a Louisville Slugger bat over Fred Sheldon's head. Haynes interfered, and immediately became a target for Roe's blows. The fight was ridiculous. On one side was "Chubby," scarcely five feet tall, and on the other Haynes, nearly six. However, unfair as it looked, Roe was always willing, and the fight was lively while it lasted.

Warder, of Manual, cannot be praised too much for the gentlemanly way in which he acted, for he was constantly endeavoring to separate the various groups of fighters.

Just as the "rough house" was finishing Prof. A. P. Halleck appeared on the scene, and his arrival, with the arrival of the police, broke up the fight. The score:

SWEARS MANAGER "FIXED" THE SCALES

Employe of Pacific Athletic Club Makes Grave Charges Regarding Herrera Fiasco.

Talk about the fifty-seven varieties! There were only about 357 different explanations of the cause of Friday night's fiasco, and every man was sure that he alone had the real dope on a bad situation. But yesterday's developments were startling, to say the least, and two things which became known put the matter in a very clear light, writes C. E. Van Loan. In the first place, Charles P. McHugh, an employe of the Pacific Athletic Club, left by McCarey to guard the scales, makes affidavit that Tommy Jacobs is the man who tampered with the weighing machine.

In the second place, A. B. Greenwald, the partner of Tom McCarey, and financial backer of the Pacific Athletic Club, makes a signed statement that Herrera confessed to him shortly before 11 o'clock Friday night that he weighed over 140 pounds, and for that reason would not go on the scales either in public or private.

Now, if Herrera weighed over 140 pounds with his dinner, how much did he weigh at 6 o'clock? This is a conundrum. Not once on Friday night, but a dozen times, Tommy Jacobs made this statement: "I have had a hard time getting this fellow down to the weight. I had to starve him for two days, and he has not had a drink of water since Thursday morning."

Now, either Herrera or Tommy Jacobs is departing from the truth, and this is putting it very mildly.

The club must be censured for one thing. The management allowed Herrera to go along day after day without weighing in the presence of some interested person. The persons who bet their money on fighters and support the game by buying high-priced seats have a right to know what each man weighs. Nelson was willing to give his weight out. I saw him weigh day after day. He made no secret about it, as he was always within a few hours of the allotted poundage.

On the other hand, Herrera absolutely refused to allow anybody to see him on the scales. He would not weigh for the club representatives; he would not weigh for the newspaper men. Always a surly sort of individual, the club did not press him, and where he should have been forced to do the right thing, the Pacific Athletic Club trusted him and allowed him to keep them in the dark as to his real weight.

If Herrera weighed 136 pounds at 6 o'clock on Friday there was a good reason for it. His best fighting weight is nearer 130 pounds. He could not have made his best fight at 140, as the excess baggage would have hindered rather than helped him.

TWO BIG MOVEMENTS FOR UNIVERSITY IN LOUISVILLE

EXTENSIVE PLANS

For Realization of Old University of Louisville.

EFFORT TO RAISE ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

DR. J. C. WILLIS, NEW CHANCELLOR, OPTIMISTIC.

$500,000 NOW PROMISED.

A university for Louisville on a scale extensive enough and of a standard sufficiently high to make it worthy of comparison with other great institutions of learning is the optimistic promise of the newly-elected Chancellor of the University of Louisville, Dr. J. C. Willis, and his associates. The plan under consideration now calls for a reorganization of the University of Louisville and the establishment of an academic department as a new feature. The trustees of the University met April 30 and chose Dr. Willis, of Lexington, as the head of the institution, and Judge Theodore L. Burnett again was elected president of the Board of Trustees.

The Executive Committee has plans under consideration for raising a million dollars to be used as a permanent endowment fund, and a considerable part of the necessary amount has been conditionally promised. An authoritative statement has been made that a millionaire philanthropist has said that he is willing to contribute $500,000 on condition that a like amount is raised in Louisville and elsewhere. The income from this fund and the revenue received from the various sources of tuition and fees as well as from gifts will be used in the promotion of the work in all three departments, namely: the College of Liberal Arts, the Medical College and the Law School. These last two departments as constituted already, rank with the leading schools of similar character throughout the country, and it is the intention to make the classical course of the same standard as that in vogue in Eastern schools, with the qualifications for entrance the same as those of the Association of American Colleges. The charter of the institution only provides for these three distinct schools, but it is believed that a scientific school for research work and a school of technology can be included under the classical course charter.

DR. J. C. WILLIS.

* * *

New Department In 1907.

The new literary department will open in September, 1907. The law and medical colleges will open as usual for their fall term this year. The law and medical schools will be enlarged greatly, and the faculties will be strengthened by the addition of other specialists, but no change will be made in their location. They will continue to occupy University Square, which extends from Eighth to Ninth streets, between Chestnut and Madison streets.

There will be no attempt to do normal work or preparatory school work. Pending the erection of the new buildings the administration offices of the University will be located in the Masonic building, where a suite of rooms are now being arranged for the new Chancellor.

Dr. J. C. Willis, the new head of the University of Louisville, is an alumnus of the University of Wooster, Ohio, a Presbyterian institution of high standard. He is a graduate of the school of arts and of the school of philosophy as well as a graduate physician. He is a man of scholarly attainments. He has lectured on educational subjects in almost every State of the Union. He has a long list of engagements for the present season in Kentucky, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania. He is especially well known in educational circles in this State and has appeared on the platform in more than one hundred counties of the State where he has done much institute work.

He has been in the faculty of Kentucky University for several years and has served that institution as vice president during considerable part of the time. Much of the administrative work of the university has devolved upon him on account of the ill health of President B. A. Jenkins. Dr. Willis occupied the chairs of psychology and of pedagogy. His resignation, to take effect at the end of the school year, has been handed to the Board of Trustees, and as soon as he is released from his present duties he will give his entire time to the administration of the affairs of the University of Louisville.

In reality, the university at present, is constituted of two colleges only, a medical departments of which Dr. J. M. Bodine is the dean, and a law school, of which Judge W. O. Harris is dean. Both of these schools will share in the endowment that is to be provided, though now they are supported solely by their patronage, the fees being used to pay the lecturers for their services as well as to pay other incidental expenses.

In the academic department as projected the degrees of B. A., M. A. and Ph. D. will be conferred and in the scientific department the degrees of B. S., M. S. and Sc. D. will be conferred.

The present trustees of the university are Judge Theodore L. Burnett, David W. Fairleigh, Dr. George W. Griffiths, George Gaulbert, T. L. Jefferson, Oscar Fenley, J. M. Atherton, Dr. John H. Buschemeyer, Louis Ryans, Henry Glover and Wallace Coulter. An Executive Committee has been appointed, composed of T. L. Burnett, president of the Board of Trustees; David W. Fairleigh, George Gaulbert and Judge T. L. Jefferson. This committee will hold monthly meetings and, with the Chancellor, will administer the affairs of the university.

It is said that a suitable site for the university in its proposed form is under consideration.

LINCOLN-DAVIS

Name Accepted For New Methodist University.

PROPOSED TO RAISE FUNDS IN CITY OF LOUISVILLE.

BOARD WILL START SOLICITING WITH $350,000.

SUPPORT BY ENDOWMENT.

Unless the plans for reorganizing the University of Louisville, as announced yesterday, interfere too greatly, there is every prospect that a great educational institution, to be known as the "Lincoln-Davis University," will be founded in Louisville within the near future under the domination of the Methodist church.

According to the plans of those having the matter in charge, the proposed university will rise until its scope will be equal to that of Chicago University, and when it reaches its ultimate growth it is expected that not less than 2,000 students will be affiliated with the institution. The project is being fathered by the Methodist Board of Education of Kentucky, and final favorable action was taken at a meeting of the board held in the Kenyon Building, Tuesday and yesterday.

The project has been under consideration for several months, and in April, C. C. Stoll, treasurer of the board, made a visit to New York, where he held a conference with the Rev. Dr. Wallace Buttrick, secretary, and Fred T. Gates, president, of the General Board of Education, having in charge the allotment of the $10,000,000 donated by John D. Rockefeller for educational purposes. At that time Mr. Stoll outlined in detail to these officers of the great fund the plans and prospects for a large educational institution in Louisville and they fell heartily into the spirit of the project.

They gave Mr. Stoll positive assurance that in the event the people of Louisville give the expected pecuniary aid and that the Kentucky Board of Education is able to arrange its funds in a satisfactory manner, any reasonable endowment needed will be forthcoming from the General Board of Education.

* * *

Louisville Logical Place.

The officers of the General Board viewed with favor the statements that a large educational institution such as contemplated is needed for the South, and they also agreed that Louisville is the logical place for the location of such an institution. While they understood that the proposed university is planned primarily to draw from the youth of Kentucky for its students, and that it is to be under the direct influence, if not the direct domination, of the Methodist Church, they drew no conclusions inimical to the best interests of such a school for those reasons, even going so far as to express satisfaction because the proposed institution is to have denominational control.

Since Mr. Stoll has returned the project has received a great impetus, and the plans were thoroughly considered at the meeting of the board. It was decided that all of the endowment from the estate of Mrs. Joshua F. Speed, made in 1902, and amounting approximately to $275,000, should be considered a nucleus for the general endowment fund for the proposed university, with the exception of possibly 20 per cent., which will be reserved for the maintenance of Big Sandy Valley Seminary, at Paintsville, Ky., and Union College, at Barbourville, Ky., to both of which the financial strength of the board is pledged.

* * *

$350,000 As Starter.

Beside the Speed bequest, the board has other moneys, making its total capital about $350,000. The proposition with which the board expects to go before the people of Louisville in its campaign for further endowments is that the institution shall be a city affair, one in which every citizen shall have a personal interest. To this end it is proposed that it shall be ruled by twenty-one trustees, two-thirds of which shall be named by the Board of Education of the Methodist Church of Kentucky, and one-third by some civic interest, perhaps the Louisville Commercial Club.

In doing this the board expects it to be understood that the university will not be a strictly denominational institution, but that it shall be guided by the Methodist Church. This plan is in accordance with the latest ideas of all the most advanced educators of the country, who are united in the opinion that the most successful institutions of learning are those that have sectarian backing. In furtherance of this plan the projectors have almost definitely decided that there would be no theological course in the curriculum.

Regarding the attitude of the Commercial Club, Mr. Stoll said last night that both Victor H. Engelhard, president, and Robert E. Hughes, secretary of the Commercial Club, had been approached on the subject and that both are heartily in favor of the scheme. The matter has not yet received the formal attention of the Commercial Club, but it likely will be brought before that body in the near future. There is no doubt, Mr. Stoll has been assured, that the Commercial Club will give the plan its indorsement and work hard for its consummation.

The present plans embrace the acquisition of the grounds of the Louisville Industrial School, on Third avenue. It has been decided to move the institution to some country location, where the Massachusetts plan of youth reform may be undertaken. Plans as to how the Industrial School site may be obtained have not taken definite form.

* * *

Institution Needed.

That there is a growing need for such an institution as that planned by the Board of Education, is recognized both by Methodists of the South and by citizens of Louisville. The only other large educational institution in the South connected in any way with Methodism is Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn. It is agreed both by the management of that institution, the General Board of Education in New York and by Methodists and laymen generally that a similar or greater university in Louisville would in no way interfere with the Nashville school, but that rather there is a great field in Kentucky and adjoining States which will never be tapped unless a place is provided in Louisville.

When shown the announcement made yesterday of the probable reorganization of the old University of Louisville, Mr. Stoll said last night that he did not know what effect that might have on the proposition his board has in mind.

* * *

May Be Conflict of Interest.

"It may be that one or the other of the plans will have to be dropped," he said. "There is no doubt that two such institutions of the magnitude the projectors of both are planning would be too much for Louisville, while there is little possibility that both could obtain the necessary resources.

"I shall confer with Judge W. O. Harris, who I understand is one of the leaders in the movement to rejuvenate the old University of Louisville, and I shall endeavor to learn from him whether there is a possibility for us to get together. It may be that we could form a working union so that the interests of neither would suffer vital changes."

In conjunction with the Board of Education of Kentucky, the Methodist Church South will be asked to co-operate in the movement, and the board is just now on the eve, Mr. Stoll said, of taking the subject up with the church. Before the proposition can take final form, however, the indorsement of the Methodist conference of Kentucky must be secured, and this, it is expected, will come about at the meeting of the conference to be held in the coming fall.

In tentatively deciding on the name for the proposed university, the promoters believe that they have made a particularly happy choice. "Lincoln," for Abraham Lincoln, and "Davis," for Jefferson Davis, the great leaders of the North and South, are expected, when the university shall have reached the zenith of its growth, to be the means of providing a closer bond of union between the younger generation of the two sections and, to have the effect of drawing, if there is anything at all in a name, students from all parts of the country, irrespective of creed, party or sectional beliefs.

Attending the meeting which closed yesterday, and at which only a few matters of minor importance were discussed aside from the university project, were the following members of the board: The Rev. Dr. A. Boring, of Dayton, Ky.; the Rev. J. F. Shaw, of Ashland, Ky.; Harold Means, of Ashland, Ky.; the Rev. Burd Hughes; the Rev. Dr. George Morris, of Lexington, Ky.; the Rev. J. D. Walsh, C. B. Nordeman and C. C. Stoll, of Louisville, and the Rev. Dr. Thomas Hanford, of Augusta, Ky.

HOW "MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME" WAS WRITTEN BY FOSTER

Sister Sang Each Verse As Her Brother Wrote It Under Shade of Splendid Trees.

The following account of the writing of "My Old Kentucky Home" was prepared by Mrs. T. A. Sherrard, of New Straitsville, O. Mrs. Sherrard formerly was a resident of Bardstown, Ky., and met Foster at the time of his visit to Judge Rowan. Mrs. Sherrard's account is of particular interest in view of the unveiling of the statue of Foster during Home-coming Week.

"The song was written by Stephen Collins Foster, a resident of Pennsylvania, while he and his sister were on a visit to Judge John Rowan, a short distance east of Bardstown, Ky. One beautiful morning while the slaves were at work in the corn field and the sun was shining with a mighty splendor on the waving grass, first giving it a light red, then changing it to a golden hue, there were seated upon a bench in front of the Rowan homestead, two young people, a brother and a sister.

"High up in the top of a tree was a mocking-bird warbling its sweet notes. Over in a hidden recess of a small brush, the thrush's mellow song could be heard. A number of small negro children were playing not far away. When Foster had finished the first verse of the song his sister took it from his hand and sang in a sweet, mellow voice:

The sun shines bright on the old Kentucky home;
'Tis summer, the darkeys are gay;
The corn top's ripe and the meadows in the bloom,
While the birds make music all the day.

The young folks roll on the little cabin floor,
All merry, all happy, all bright;
By'n by hard times come a-knockin' at the door—
Then; my old Kentucky home, good night.

"On her finishing the first verse the mocking-bird descended to a lower branch. The feathery songster drew his head to one side and appeared to be completely enraptured at the wonderful voice of the young singer. When the last note died away upon the air, her fond brother sang in a deep, bass voice:

Weep no more, my lady; oh, weep no more to-day,
We'll sing one song for the old Kentucky home,
For our old Kentucky home far away.

A few more days for to tote the weary load,
No matter, 'twill never be light;
A few more days till we totter on the road—
Then my old Kentucky home, good night.

"The negroes had laid down their hoes and rakes; the little tots had placed themselves behind the large, sheltering trees, while the old black women were peeping around the corner of the house. The faithful old house dog never took his eyes off the young singers. Everything was still; not even the stirring of the leaves seemed to break the wonderful silence. Again the brother and sister took hold of the remaining notes, and sang in sweet accents:

They hunt no more for the 'possum and the coon
On the meadow, the hill and the shore;
They sing no more by the glimmer of the moon,
On the bench by the old cabin door.

The day goes by like a shadow o'er the heart,
With sorrow where all was delight;
The time has come when the darkies have to part—
Then, my old Kentucky home, good night.

The head must bow and the back will have to bend
Where ever the darkies may go;
A few more days and the trouble all will end
In the fields where the sugar cane grow.

"As the song was finished tears flowed down the old people's cheeks; the children crept from their hiding place behind the trees, their faces wreathed in smiles. The mocking bird and the thrush sought their homes in the thicket, while the old house dog still lay basking in the sun."

Court of Appeals Decisions.

W. N. Cope vs. T. P. Cardwell, Jr.—Filed May 1, 1906—(Not to be reported)—Appeal from Breathitt Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge Paynter, affirming.

First—Elections—Voting for County and Municipal Officers—Ballots—Construction of Statute.—An examination of section 3760 Kentucky Statutes, authorizes the conclusion that where the precinct or precincts contain the same electors as the municipality, one official ballot is all that is necessary, and where county and municipal candidates are to be voted for, they should both be printed on the same ballot.

Second—Same.—It follows, therefore, that appellant, a candidate for police judge of the town of Jackson, was not entitled to have his name printed on a ballot separate from the one containing the names of the candidates of his party for county offices.

W. N. Cope, J. K. Roberts, for appellant; W. W. McGuire, Fleenor & Patton, for appellee.

Bertha D. Lytle vs. Bach and Miller—Filed May 15, 1906—(Not to be reported)—Appeal from Perry Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by John D. Carroll, Commissioner, reversing.

Attorneys at Law—Fees—Liens to secure.—Under Kentucky Statutes, section 107, as construed by this court, attorneys only have a lien upon the money or property which may be recovered in an action instituted by them, and the claim herein sought to be adjudged a lien arising as a fee in resisting a lien upon appellant's property was improperly adjudged a lien upon the property.

Greene & VanWinkle, Wooten & Morgan, for appellant; Kelly Kash, for appellee.

Ed Nicholson vs. Mary Hopper, etc.—Filed May 9, 1906—(Not to be reported)—Appeal from Carlisle Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by John D. Carroll, Commissioner, affirming.

First—Lands—Division Lines—Instructions.—The only question in this case being the true location of a division line, and the case not turning on the question of whether course and distance should give way to marks found on the ground, but on the question of which marks on the ground indicated the true location of the line, an instruction asked by appellant which directed the jury that if they believed from the evidence that in the division of the land between the heirs of William Thomas, a line was marked that divided lots 2 and 3, they should adopt the marked line even though it conflicts with the courses and distances called for in the deed would have been misleading.

Second—Same.—The deeds of both parties call for a straight line from corner to corner, and there was nothing in the evidence that warranted the conclusion that the line was crooked.

Shelbourne & Kane, John W. Lockett, for appellant; J. D. White, Nicholls & Nicholls, for appellee.

Commonwealth vs. Standard Oil Co.—Filed May 16, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Oldham Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge Settle, affirming.

First—Peddling Oil—License.—Sales of oil from a wagon to persons other than retail dealers for re-sale constitute peddling for which a peddler's license must be taken out pursuant to Section 4,115 Ky. Stats.

Second—Same.—In the case at bar the evidence failing to establish the defendant guilty of the offense denounced by the above section, a peremptory instruction to the jury to find him not guilty was properly given.

N. B. Hays, Attorney General; C. H. Morris for appellant; Humphrey, Hines & Humphrey for appellee.

J. D. Sanders vs. Helfrich Lumber and Manufacturing Co.—Filed May 18, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Edmonson Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge O'Rear, affirming in part and reversing in part.

Mortgages—Proof of Agreement as to Lien—Parol Agreement.—The agreement as to the mortgage was never reduced to writing, and the possession of the property remained in the alleged mortgagor. There was not sufficient evidence showing an agreement as to the alleged lien and a judgment decreeing a sale of the property under such circumstances was erroneous.

Milton Clark for appellant; J. S. Lay for appellee.

L., H. and St. L. Ry. Co. vs. I. C. R. R. Co.—Filed May 1, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Jefferson Circuit Court, 1st C. P. division. Opinion of the court by Judge Paynter, affirming.

R. R.—Joint Use of Tracks—Accident Due to Negligence of Watchman—Contract as to Liability in Case of Accident.—Under a contract with appellee, appellant used its tracks for the movement of its trains. At the time of the collision complained of between one of appellant's trains and a street car, the flagman at this point was employed by appellee and the question for determination is which of the parties should sustain the loss occasioned by the accident.

Second—Same.—The watchman was a necessary employe whose employment was the subject of agreement and whose salary was in part paid by appellant. He was acting for it at the time of the accident, and under the clause in the contract of lease making provision for such contingencies showing that each party should be responsible for losses occasioned by an employe acting in its behalf the appellant should sustain the loss in question.

Helm, Bruce & Helm for appellant; Trabue, Doolan & Cox for appellee.

John Reinhardt vs. Mark's Administrator.—Filed May 10, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Jefferson Circuit Court, First Chancery Division. Opinion of the court by Judge Nunn, reversing.

First—Insurance—Pledging Policy as Security for Debt.—In this controversy between appellants and appellee it appears that appellee's decedent owed appellant some $6,000 and about the same time appellant became his surety in bank for $1,500, when Marks, the decedent, assigned his policy of insurance to appellant, the assignment showing it to have been done for value received. Marks paid the $1,500, and continued thereafter for ten years, and until his death, to pay the premiums on the policy, which remained in appellant's hands. The evidence examined and held that the judgment should have been in favor of appellant as it appears that the assignment was to cover all of Marks' indebtedness to him.

Second—Same—The date of the assignment coinciding with neither the bank note, nor the larger debt, it would seem that it was intended to cover both debts, and the fact that Marks, after paying the $1,500 note, continued to pay the premiums, leaving the policy with appellant all the while, is convincing of this theory.

Third—Evidence.—As decendent's brother did not testify to any fact calling for rebuttal evidence, there was nothing for appellant to contradict and his testimony would therefore have been useless.

Fairleigh, Straus & Fairleigh for appellant; Barnett & Barnett, Grubbs & Grubbs for appellee.

L. and N. R. R. Co. vs. Merschell, by etc.—Filed May 18, 1906.—(Not to be reported.) Appeal from Campbell Circuit Court. Opinion of the court by Judge O'Rear, reversing.

Negligence—Instructions.—There being but one issue on this appeal and that is whether there was negligence upon the part of appellant and the record showing there was none, the lower court should have peremptorily instructed the jury to find for appellant.

Benjamin D. Warfield, James C. Wright for appellant; Samuel C. Bailey for appellee.

Francis Joseph In Good Health.

Vienna, May 30.—There is absolutely no foundation for rumors current in this city to-day that Emperor Francis Joseph has resolved to abdicate as the result of ill health. His majesty participated in this morning's military parade and surprised the crowds, who cheered him enthusiastically, by his fine and almost youthful appearance on horseback.

TRIVIAL AMOUNT

COLLECTED BY J. B. SHANLEY BEFORE SUICIDE.

Body Being Held Awaiting Instructions From Relatives.

Howard W. Pitman, superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Louisville, yesterday refused to state the amount of J. B. Shanley's collections for the company on the day preceding his suicide.

"It was a trivial amount," said Mr. Pitman, "and I don't think it could have had anything to do with the suicide. It will require several days before we can arrive at the exact figures, but the company will lose nothing. The National Surety Company will make good the amount of the shortage."

Dr. Harris Kelly, Coroner, and Dr. Edward Miers yesterday morning held an autopsy on the body of Mr. Shanley to determine the exact cause of death. While this cannot be accurately determined without a chemical analysis of the stomach, Dr. Kelly is practically certain that death was due to morphine poisoning, taken with suicidal intent. The body is still at the undertaking establishment of L. D. Bax, 700 East Chestnut street, where it is being held awaiting instructions from the dead man's relatives. Mr. Bax telegraphed to the sister, and also the father of Mr. Shanley, but failed to receive a reply to either message yesterday.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Commissioner's Public Sale!

BOYLE CIRCUIT COURT, KENTUCKY.

W. B. Cecil's Executor, Plaintiff, vs. W. B. Cecil's Devisees, etc., Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment of the Boyle Circuit Court, rendered at its April term, 1906, in the above cause, I will offer for sale to the highest bidder at public auction at the courthouse door in the city of Louisville, Ky., on Monday, June 4, 1906, at 12 o'clock m., or thereabouts, the following real estate, namely:

The undivided one-third interest of W. B. Cecil, deceased, in four lots of land in the town of Parkland, Jefferson county, Kentucky, and described as follows:

FIRST—Lot on south side of Virginia avenue, 200 feet east of 34th street, and fronting 340 feet on said Virginia avenue, and running same width southwardly 200 feet to a twenty-foot alley.

SECOND—Lot on the north side of Orleans avenue, 200 feet east of 34th street, and fronting on said Orleans avenue 340 feet, and running same width northwardly 200 feet to a twenty-foot alley.

THIRD—Lot on south side of Orleans avenue, 200 feet east of 34th street, and fronting on said Orleans avenue 340 feet, and running same width southwardly 200 feet to a twenty-foot alley.

FOURTH—Lot on north side of Forest avenue, 200 feet east of 34th street, and fronting 340 feet on said Forest avenue, and running back northwardly 200 feet to a twenty-foot alley.

Being same property conveyed to W. B. Cecil and others by Crawford and others by deed recorded in Jefferson County Court Clerk's office in Deed Book 374, page 24.

Said property will be offered for sale as follows: First—The one-third interest in each of said four lots will be offered separately, and then said one-third interest in all said four lots will be offered together as a whole, and the bid or bids accepted that realize the most money.

Sale will be made upon a credit of six months with interest from day of sale, and purchaser will be required to execute bond with approved surety, payable to the Commissioner, and having the force and effect of a judgment, and with lien on property as additional security for the payment of same.

The amount to be raised by the sale being the unpaid indebtedness owing by the estate of W. B. Cecil, is about $24,500.00 besides interest.

Given under my hand this May 17, 1906.

Entertainment Prepared For Kentucky's Guests.

AIRSHIP WILL CARRY MESSAGE TO CITY HALL.

WILL TRAVEL OVER CITY BY DIFFERENT ROUTES.

FLORAL PARADE BIG FEATURE.

Less than two weeks remain before the gates of Louisville are to be thrown open for the reception of thousands of Kentucky's returning sons and daughters. The thirty committees in charge of Home-coming Week affairs are rapidly getting everything in shape, but much yet remains to be done, and committee meetings are held daily at the offices of the Commercial Club.

Preparations for Home-coming Week have been on a more extensive scale than for any previous gathering held in Louisville. A series of parades, orations, balls, etc., have been provided, and there will not be an idle moment for the home-comers from the time they arrive until the benediction is pronounced on Till-we-meet-again day.

No feature of the entire programme has attracted as much attention as the Baldwin airship, in which Capt. Thomas Baldwin will make daily flights about the city. An immense aerodrome is being erected in the Male High School Athletic field, at Brook and Breckinridge streets, in which the airship will be exhibited, and from which Capt. Baldwin will start on his daily tours of the city.

* * *

Letter To Mayor.

The first flight will be made Monday, June 11, when, if the weather conditions are favorable, Capt. Baldwin will cut the ship loose from her moorings and, after rising several hundred feet in the air, will head her nose for the City Hall. With him Capt. Baldwin will carry a letter from R. S. Brown, chief executive for Home-coming Week, addressed to Paul C. Barth, Mayor of Louisville. Capt. Baldwin will land on the roof of the City Hall, and will there deliver to Mayor Barth Mr. Brown's letter. In his letter Mr. Brown will congratulate the Mayor on being chief executive of the city which is one of the first to have successful airship flights. Mayor Barth will prepare a reply to Mr. Brown's letter, and will deliver it to Capt. Baldwin, who will then return direct to Brook and Breckinridge streets, where he will deliver the answer to Mr. Brown. The next day a different route will be mapped out, and Capt. Baldwin will probably land on the Todd and Columbia buildings. On another day he will go to Phoenix Hill and return by way of the Confederate monument. On one of the days during Home-coming Week Capt. Baldwin intends to sail to Jeffersonville, and he will also, in order to show his control over the machine, make complete circles around several tall buildings.

* * *

Named City of Louisville.

The airship, which Capt. Baldwin has named the City of Louisville, embraces all the latest ideas of airship construction, and is said to be the most perfect machine yet made. Though Capt. Baldwin weighs 215 pounds, the airship carries him without any difficulty. Machines which have been exhibited heretofore have not made successful flights with men weighing over 150 pounds.

Many new entries have been received for the Floral Parade during the past week, and all doubt as to the success of this part of the programme has been set at rest. Fully 100 entries have been made, and competition of the twenty-five magnificent prizes offered will be keen. Fully twenty floats will be entered by the school children and social organizations of the city, while four-in-hands driven to coaches will make an unusually handsome division. There are now twenty entries to the pony cart division, and over twenty in the one-horse trap division, and over forty automobiles.

* * *

Floral Parade Route.

Mr. Wilson, who was elected chief marshal of the Floral Parade, is now at work selecting a route which will be presented to the Executive Committee for approval. The spectacular part of the parade will be greatly enhanced by the seventy-five aides dressed in white uniforms, and the mounted escort of ten young women in attendance on the queen. Eight of the maids of honor will ride with her on the float which is being built, while others will ride in handsome Victorias.

The floats for the night pageant are rapidly nearing completion, and the members of the committee having this in charge and Peyton N. Clarke, the chairman, are confident that this will surpass any of the previous pageants given by the Satellites of Mercury. Costumes for the 100 maskers who will appear on the floats representing early settlers and citizens of Kentucky of the different periods illustrated have arrived and have been pronounced excellent by Mr. Clarke. One of the best-known society men in Louisville has been chosen to represent Daniel Boone. The pageant will be followed by the grand ball at the Armory and it is expected that fully 3,000 couples will take part in the first waltz following the grand march.

* * *

Soldiers To Be Settlers.

The Daniel Boone day exercises which will consist of the unveiling of Miss Enid Yandell's statue, and the reproduction of the Indian fight at Cherokee Park, are practically arranged by Pendleton C. Beckley. Contract has been let for the erection of stockades and cabins copied from the original stockades and cabins at Boonesboro. The part of the settlers in the action will be taken by Capt. Robert Krieger's company of the First Kentucky Regiment. Capt. Krieger's men have entered into the plan with great enthusiasm, and will make the fight with the red men a thrilling one. Over 100 members of the Improved Order of Red Men have volunteered to take the part of the Indians.

A scenario has been worked out by Mr. Beckley and James B. Camp, who is chairman of the Committee on Reproduction of Indian Fight. Much local color will be introduced and it is safe to say that many spectacular entertainments at greater cost will not surpass the entertainment that the Daniel Boone Day Committee have provided. Special sections of the hillside reserved for spectators will be reserved for the relatives of Daniel Boone.

To Bring Lincoln Cabin.

On Saturday will be a day that due honor will be given to Kentucky's distinguished sons. First and foremost will come the ceremonies incident to the returning to Kentucky of the Lincoln birthplace cabin. Capt. Neville S. Bullitt and four sergeants of the First Regiment will leave this afternoon for New York to guard the cabin on its return trip.

It is expected that the cabin will leave New York June 5 and arrive in Louisville about June 10. It will be erected in Central Park where the ceremonies will be held. The speeches of the day will be made by Henry Watterson and Adlai E. Stevenson. Before these speeches, there will be a reception in charge of the Greater Kentucky Day Committee of which E. J. McDermott is chairman, at which the distinguished guests in attendance will be introduced to those who care to meet them.

Throughout the week there will be many orations. Every day there will be a number of set speeches in addition to the many other entertainments planned. Outside of the regular programme of events, there will be the big spectacular production of Feast and Furies at Jockey Club Park, and also Robinson's Pike Shows which will be at Center and Walnut streets.

With this wealth of entertainment provided, there will be something for the visitors to see and do every moment from their arrival until the time comes for departure.

TO MAKE SURVEYS

GOVERNMENT AGENT SMITH GOES TO LEXINGTON.

He and His Assistants Will Gather Information There For Preparing Valuable Maps.

Lexington, Ky., May 30.—[Special.]—L. Scott Smith, of the United States Geological Survey, has arrived here for an indefinite stay. Mr. Smith is a Government topographer in charge of field work, and is just now directing topographic surveys for the Government in this region. Preliminary surveys are made by the assistants in the field. These are submitted to Mr. Smith's inspection, and are then put accurately into maps. These maps show in lines the contours of elevations, each elevation being reckoned in heights of twenty feet. All houses, churches, schoolhouses, fords, streams, bridges and roads are located and marked with exactness. The maps are drawn on a scale of one inch to the mile, and are sufficient in detail to afford an accurate basis for use in the making of larger maps, for study by any person intending the purchase of lands and other valuable uses. Army or civil engineers could lay out engineering plans with one of these maps without being on the ground.

T. O. Sallee, of Harrodsburg, civil engineer, is the field assistant for the Government. He is now engaged in plating off the Bluegrass quadrangle, as the section is denoted in this vicinity. It comprises a part of Woodford county, part of Fayette and part of Scott.

H. M. Wilson, geographer of United States Geological Survey, has charge of the Eastern division, including Kentucky in his branch of the work. This follows the topographical surveys and concerns itself with the geological features of the country. Maps are made carefully indicating these. The topographical and geological surveys are made by men under direction of the United States Geological Survey, but the State Geologist, C. J. Norwood, is conferred with and the field of works is determined largely by his suggestion.

DREAM FORETOLD HUSBAND'S DEATH IN WRECK.

Mrs. Hattie S. Black Saw Disaster During Sleep On Night Before.

Barbourville, Ky., May 30.—Mrs. Hattie S. Black, widow of John C. Black, who was killed in the Louisville wreck, had a premonition of the death of her husband Saturday night, as was learned yesterday when she arrived from Williamsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Black had been visiting at Williamsburg, and the night before Mr. Black left on the ill-fated train his wife dreamed that a wreck had occurred just outside of Louisville, in which her husband was killed and that her uncle, W. W. Sawyers, had brought the news to her. She informed her husband of her dream the next day, but he made light of it. She also told of the dream to the Rev. and Mrs. Hicks, with whom she was stopping.

The morning of the wreck W. W. Sawyers, accompanied by Mrs. Black's mother, Mrs. A. M. Decker, went to Williamsburg to break the news, which had been kept from the young wife. The remarkable coincidence has caused a great deal of comment. Mrs. Black is the daughter of A. M. Decker, a member of the State Board of Education of the Methodist Church and a prominent business man of this city.

The funeral services occurred this morning at 10:30 o'clock and were the occasion of a great outpouring of people, as Mr. Black was of one of the most prominent families of this section of the State. The interment was at the city cemetery.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MONETARY.

Wednesday Evening, May 30.—The banks were closed to-day on account of Decoration day, and no business was transacted in financial circles. Brokers' offices were generally closed. Some of the brokers were at their offices in the morning, but after looking over the mails set about to observe the holiday. Exchanges in all the leading cities were closed, and as a consequence there are no telegraphic reports.

The average yield of forty-two industrial preferred stocks traded in on the New York Stock Exchange is, at to-day's market prices, 5.653 per cent., and on fifty-four industrial common stocks 2.657 per cent. Exactly one-half of the common list make disbursements to shareholders, so that the average yield by the twenty-seven dividend-payers is 5.314 per cent. The average market price of the preferred stocks analyzed is 88.62, and of the common issues 70.648, the total price of the forty-two former being 3,722, yielding 237.45 per cent., and of the fifty-four latter 3,815, yielding 143.48 per cent. A study of what are popularly known as "gilt-edged" British securities shows that, at the current level of prices, not one yields more than 4 per cent., whilst the average is approximately 3½ per cent. The unprecedentedly high price of commodities, combined in certain directions with perhaps artificially regulated supply, has been instrumental in swelling the earnings of industrial corporations and, consequently, in sending up the market value of industrial stocks, especially the common issues. An average of 70½ for industrial common stocks must be regarded as high when compared with 88½ for preferred securities which pay fully twice as much in dividends. Moreover, the very big yields on certain common stocks are not indicative solely of prosperity, but rather of lack of confidence in the permanency of such payments.

The report of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for the month of April continues to sustain the records of increase of the previously reported months, and the present fiscal year promises returns more gratifying than any ever shown by the company. The increases for the month of April and for the ten months follow:

APRIL.

	Increase.	Per Cent.
Gross	$581,190	10.15
Operating expenses	133,695	3.39
Net earnings	$447,504	24.88

TEN MONTHS.

	Increase.	Per Cent.
Gross	$7,920,491	14.12
Operating expenses	4,001,649	10.88
Net earnings	$3,918,842	20.28

The earnings for the entire fiscal year of 1905 were only $3,687,788 more than in the ten months thus far reported. It is, therefore, obvious that should the rest of the fiscal year sustain the record already made, the complete gross returns for the fiscal year ended June 30 next would be in the neighborhood of $75,000,000. With a continuance of the present rate of increase in the net earnings for the remaining two months of the fiscal year the results on June 30 next would be as follows:

Available for dividends in year ended June 30, 1905	$13,673,996
Increase in net to June 30, 1906	4,602,610
Total available for dividends June 30, 1906	$18,276,606
Preferred dividends (4 per cent.)	2,400,000
Balance available for common dividends	$15,876,606
Common dividend (5 per cent.)	6,213,603
Surplus	$9,663,003
App'ns, dep'n., add'ns., etc., less sundry adj'mts. (same as 1905)	3,858,622
Balance to profit and loss	$5,804,381

In the above-given compilation the earnings on the common stock were equal to 12.77 per cent., as compared with 9.07 per cent. in the previous year. After allowing for all dividends and for liberal extraordinary improvements, additions and betterments, etc., on the basis of those of 1905, there will still be left an amount equal to 4.67 per cent. on the entire $124,272,000 common stock of the company.

According to one of the company's officials, the current year of the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company, which ends May 31, will be the largest and most prosperous in its history. For some few months all of the company's plants have been operated at capacity and the capacity of a number of them is now booked ahead at least six months. The year ending May 31 last was the best previous one in the company's history, the profits amounting to $1,234,401. From this amount were paid preferred dividends aggregating $750,000, leaving earnings for the $12,500,000 of common stock of $484,401, which is equal to 4½ per cent. Since March, 1905, the company has been paying dividends at the annual rate of 7 per cent. on its preferred stock, and since December, 1905, at the annual rate of 4 per cent. on its common stock. As to increased dividends on common, a man close to the company says he does not look for any increase in the near future, as he believes the company's directors will prefer to act in a conservative manner in the matter, paying a smaller rate and building up a larger surplus. In this way a continuance of dividend paying on both classes of stock at present rates would seem to be practically assured, if the prosperity of the country continues.

COTTON ACREAGE ESTIMATES.

Estimates of the acreage planted in cotton this year have thus far been compiled by seven experts, mostly New York cotton commission houses, based on some 25,000 replies from farmers, merchants and bankers throughout the South. The first and highest estimate was made by A. Norden & Co., which reaches 31,000,000 acres. Theodore H. Price was more conservative, conceding an area of 27,252,000. Although the latter is the lowest, it comes nearer the average, which figures 28,192,954 acres. Following is the list of estimates:

A. Norden & Co.	31,000,000
J. S. Bache & Co.	28,093,680
Latham, Alexander & Co.	27,900,000
Sanger & Ettelson	27,887,000
Southern Cotton Association	27,756,000
Miss Giles	27,462,000
Theodore H. Price	27,252,000

Sanger & Ettelson and J. S. Bache & Co. included condition in their report, the former making it 82.4 per cent. and the latter 83 per cent., against an average condition of 84.4 per cent. indicated by the June crop reports made by the Government for the past ten years.

THE IRON MARKET.

Cleveland, O., May 30.—The Iron Trade Review to-morrow will say:

"Conditions in the iron and steel business continue thoroughly sound, although the buying in some lines shows diminution, as might be expected after the great activity which has prevailed for many months. The crop conditions are favorable, and it is very probable that prosperity will be unbroken for many months.

"The shipments of ore from the Lake Superior ranges for the present month are very heavy, in spite of the loss of ten days on account of the strike. It is understood that the United States Steel Corporation expects to ship 10,000,000 tons from its Mesaba properties alone. Shippers are finding that while the handling facilities at the lower lake docks have been greatly improved in recent years, there is a shortage of cars on the ranges, and the capacity of the upper lake docks is not sufficient to handle the immense tonnage which the mines can produce.

"The market for steel-making irons continues to be very strong. During the week a Cleveland interest has sold 10,000 tons of Bessemer for third quarter delivery, and a number of sales of basic have been made. The corporation has purchased all Bessemer obtainable. The demand for foundry grades is not so strong as that for basic and Bessemer, and sales are freely made at $16@16.25 valley for No. 3 foundry. In the East some large sales have been made; in New York a fair tonnage has been disposed of, and in the South one lot of 5,000 tons and several of 1,000 tons each have been purchased, but reports of sales are not numerous. An inquiry for 10,000 tons by an Ohio pipe interest has not been placed because prices were not considered satisfactory.

"The sheet market is in excellent condition, with both new business and specifications heavy, and there is a general belief that an advance from $2 to $4 a ton will be announced shortly."

FOREIGN FINANCIAL.

London, May 30.—Money was scarcer to-day and the demand was increased by the payment for $5,000,000 of Japanese exchequer bonds. Discounts were steady. Trading on the Stock Exchange was dull and business restricted owing to the New York and Jewish holidays, and the absence of members at the Epsom races. Consols were maintained and home rails started an upward movement on good investment purchases. Americans in the absence of the lead of New York were inclined to dullness. Prices opened at over parity, and after moderate transactions and slight changes closed steady. The speculative position was reduced during the account owing to the transfer of a portion of it to the continent. Foreigners generally were steady. Russians hardened. Japanese Imperial 6s of 1904 were quoted at 101¼. Quotations: Consols for money 89 11-16; do for the account (July) 90; Anaconda 13⅜; Atchison 92⅝; do preferred 106¼; Baltimore and Ohio 111; Canadian Pacific 164⅝; Chesapeake and Ohio 60½; Chicago Great Western 19⅝; Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul 175; De Beers 17⅝; Denver and Rio Grande 44¾; do preferred 90; Erie 48; do 1st preferred 82¼; do 2d preferred 73¾; Illinois Central 173½; Louisville and Nashville 151½; Missouri, Kansas and Texas 35¼; New York Central 143½; Norfolk and Western 92¾; do preferred 94; Ontario and Western 53¼; Pennsylvania 69; Rand Mines 6¼; Reading 73; do 1st preferred 47; do 2d preferred 49; Southern Railway 39⅝; do preferred 103; Southern Pacific 67¼; Union Pacific 153⅞; do preferred 98; United States Steel 42; do preferred 109; Wabash 2⅝; do preferred 50½. Bar silver quiet at 31d per ounce. Money 3½@4 per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 3⅝ per cent. The rate of discount in the open market for three-months' bills is 3½@3 9-16 per cent. India Council bills were allotted to-day at 1s 4d.

Paris, May 30.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm throughout on the receipt of better news from Russia. Russian Imperial 4s were quoted at 81.80 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 490. Three per cent. rentes 98f 75c for the account. Exchange on London 25f 20c for checks.

Berlin, May 30.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was dull. Exchange on London 20 marks 51 pfgs for checks. Discount rates: Short bills 4½ per cent.; three-months' bills 3⅝ per cent.

St. Petersburg, May 30.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were steadier and improved on covering purchases. Imperial 4s closed at 75 and 5s at 88¼.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Louisville.

(Reported by the Louisville Live Stock Exchange, Bourbon Stock Yards.)

Louisville, May 30.—Cattle—Receipts of cattle to-day 160 head; for the three days this week 1,647. While the fresh supply of cattle on sale was comparatively light to-day, the demand also was limited, and the market generally considered exceedingly quiet from start to finish. Hardly as many local buyers here as usual, on account of this being a legal holiday. The few choice handy-weight butcher cattle here were disposed of at about steady figures, being in stronger favor than any other class, but the common and medium kinds (and especially grassy cattle) exceedingly dull and draggy; many thought prices 10@15c lower than Monday on the latter class. Feeders and stockers practically unchanged, while choice milch cows reported about steady as to values; the common and medium grades practically unsalable, and prices anywhere from $2.50 to $5 per head lower than last week. Too many coming at present. Bulls and canners steady, likewise feeling on heavy shipping cattle. Pens fairly well cleared, but the market closed easy.

Calves—Receipts of calves 177 head; for the three days 388. The market was a shade stronger; bulk of best $5.25@5.75; something extra a shade higher; common, heavy calves very dull.

Hogs—Receipts of hogs to-day 3,237 head; for the week so far 8,263. A much better feeling existed in the hog department to-day, a good demand prevailing for all grades, although heavies and mediums suffered a 5c decline as compared to yesterday's quotations; otherwise steady; best, 120 pounds and up, $6.40; 90 to 120-pound pigs $6.10; light pigs $5.50; roughs $3.50@5.75. Market closed steady, with pens well cleared.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts of sheep and lambs to-day 2,180 head; for the three days 10,769. No change noticeable in condition of sheep market; best $5.25; common, trashy sheep rather slow; a good demand prevailed for choice spring lambs and prices steady to strong. We quote best $7.50; seconds $6@6.50; culls $5@6. Demand for choice stock ewes continued unabated and not enough here to satisfy requirements of trade; best $4.25@4.50; something extra a shade better.

(Reported by the Central Live Stock Exchange, Central Stock Yards.)

Louisville, May 30.—Cattle—Receipts liberal to-day. There was a fair attendance of buyers here to-day, and the market ruled about steady on all grades from start to finish. The choice lightweight butcher cattle were more eagerly sought after than any other class, while the common, half-fat grassy stuff is very hard to sell at satisfactory prices. There is very little doing in the stocker and feeder trade; the good grades are selling at about steady prices, but the common, roughish kinds are not wanted. Bulls and canners about steady. No heavy shipping cattle on sale; feeling steady on that class. The choice milch cows and good forward springers are easily disposed of, but the thin small cows are hard to sell. At the close the pens are well cleared and the prospects are for a steady market the remainder of the week.

Calves—Receipts light; market unchanged; best veals $5@5.50; something extra a shade higher; common veals slow sellers.

Hogs—Receipts 847 head; market active and 5c higher; we quote best, 120 pounds and up $6.50; heavy pigs $6.35; light pigs $5.75; roughs $4.75@5.80. Everything on sale was sold at these prices and not half enough hogs coming to supply the demand. The market closed steady.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts light; market unchanged; the best fat sheep are selling readily from $5 to $5.25; fair to good sheep $3.50@4.50; common $2.50@3; best lambs $7.50; fair to good lambs $6@6.50; tail-ends $4.50@5. A fair demand for choice stock ewes from $4 to $4.50, and very few coming.

RETAINS POSITION.

THE REV. HENRY H. SWEETS DECLINES CALL TO WASHINGTON.

Will Continue As Secretary of Ministerial Relief of Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Henry H. Sweets has announced that he will remain in his present position as secretary of Ministerial Relief and Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. Great pressure was brought to bear on the Rev. Mr. Sweets when he was in Washington a few weeks ago to induce him to accept the pastorate of the Central Presbyterian church of that city, from which the Rev. Dr. A. W. Pitzer had recently resigned on account of age and ill health. Despite the arguments of both officers and members, the Rev. Mr. Sweets remained steadfast in his determination to continue in his present work, to which he believes he has a divine call.

The work has been successful in the first year of the three-year period for which he was elected. It was due to his efforts that Q. T. Inman, of Atlanta, was induced to offer a contribution of $100,000 to the endowment fund on the condition that $125,000 additional be raised during the three years. Although less than one-third of the time has elapsed, more than one-third of the requisite sum has been secured.

The endowment fund is only $68,000 at present, but the secretary and trustees feel assured that the entire amount will be raised before the expiration of the three years, which will give a fund of nearly $300,000, the income of which is to be used in the support of aged and infirm ministers and for the relief of the needy widows and orphans of deceased ministers of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

REACH COMPROMISE.

PECULIAR DAMAGE SUIT IS STOPPED WHEN ON TRIAL.

George Brabandt's Action Against Railway Company For Alleged Assault By Conductor.

Trial of the suit for $15,000 damages brought by George Brabandt against the Louisvile Railway Company was dropped in Judge Field's court yesterday after the case had been about half concluded, the plaintiff and defendant having reached a compromise.

Brabandt was driving in front of a Frankfort avenue car and, it was charged by the Louisville Railway Company, that he had refused to turn off the track and had abused the motorman and conductor when they called to him. The conductor, it is alleged, then got off his car and attacked Brabandt with the iron bar used for turning switches. Two of Brabandt's ribs were broken and he was hurt about the head. The Louisville Railway Company denied responsibility for the action of the conductor, asserting that he had ceased to act in his capacity as its agent but that he attacked Brabandt in his personal capacity because of the curses and abuse which, it is alleged, the plaintiff had heaped upon him. Brabandt admitted that he had cursed the conductor once, but only in reply to abuse addressed to him. The terms of the settlement were withheld.

JUDGE W. G. DEARING SPEAKS ON "A TRUE HERO."

MEDALS AND PRIZES AWARDED TO WINNERS.

ANNUAL ATHLETIC CONTESTS.

Concluding the ceremonies of the week, the commencement exercises of Kentucky Military Institute were held yesterday afternoon and last night, the "hop" being the final feature in the school lives of the young men who were graduated yesterday from the institution.

Yesterday's exercises were held in the gymnasium and a large gathering of visitors and relatives of the young cadets was present. The Rev. C. Humphreys opened the exercises with prayer, after which the welcome address of the new cadets to the old was made by Cadet A. Miller Keisker. The young man addressed the alumni present and in a well-prepared speech welcomed them back to their alma mater.

The principal address of the occasion was made by Judge W. G. Dearing, of the class of 1879, who spoke on the subject: "A True Hero." The full text of Judge Dearing's speech follows:

Whether a gloomy or happy thought, it is nevertheless a fact, that of the numberless myriads of people who have lived and died upon this earth, the names of only a few have escaped the remorseless hand of everlasting oblivion.

Call the roll of fame, and how few answer, and even some of these, so far as they are individually concerned, mourn that this is even so. Many men attain the satisfaction of ambition, and when they make their exit from the scene of action realize vividly:

"And things are not what they seem."

Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon reached a height of worldly renown seldom ever attained by men, but in so doing they made mountains of dead men and filled valleys and lands with the tears of heart-broken orphans and wailing widows. Was the end reached worth the sacrifice? In the accounts they will be compelled to give in the presence of eternal judgment, it seems to me they could never excuse or even palliate the atrocious murders and wholesale slaughter of thousands of men, under the dignified name of military conquest.

The greatness of a majority of the heroes of the past is the resultant of brute force and intellectuality. To be able to command a great mass of men, with preconceived plans, into skillful execution, does show a superiority over the average man which leads to preferment and possibly to a deified hero.

In times when brute force commanded, this worship of military heroes may be proper and right, but in this period of the world's history and especially since the promulgation of the doctrines of the humble Nazarene, force and power should be dethroned, and in their places be installed justice and ready obedience to its command.

If the object of life is merely to carve one's name upon the tablets of fame, then certainly life is a failure, as but few are permanent enough to escape the destructive influence of a day. Now, we seldom hear mentioned the names of such illustrious Senators as Benton, Hale, Wilson and Beck, and indeed they were giants of intellectual strength, and did well their part.

To be a truly great hero, it is not necessary to be the succesful leader of a mighty battle. He can be such in the humbler walks of life; he may wear the garland in legislative halls; he may accomplish it at the inventor's desk or the mechanic's bench.

Great and heroic deeds inspire us in whatever sphere they may be. They may lose their luster because of the humble actor, but the aroma and fragrance of beauty still remain.

There are more heroes in the common walks of life than we at first imagine. We find self-sacrifice in the hovel, we find magnanimity in the hut, and we find generosity and hospitality in the log cabin. We find much in all grades and departments of life to love and admire.

* * *

Heroine of Truest Type.

The widowed mother who toils and struggles in honest labor to raise and educate her children, that they may become useful men and women, is a heroine of the truest type, and she deserves to be ranked along with Hannibal. Her self-sacrifice may be unsung and unwritten by men, but in the presence of God, her crown will be resplendant.

Mrs. Edwards, a lonely country woman, living near Cumberland Gap, believing in and loving the cause of the Union, braved alone the dangers of a dark night, riding through dense forests and over mountain tops, to inform Gen. George Morgan that the Confederate army was marching, and would soon assault and capture his army.

This information enabled Gen. Morgan to withdraw his army and artillery, and thus prevented certain capture. That humble woman deserves as rich a reward as if she had fought and won a big victory.

The man who does his full duty as he sees and believes it, is a true hero. On many a battlefield in our late Civil War, we had acts of bravery, devotion to duty, and examples of self-sacrifice, that will live and be remembered with devotion and pride as long as we as a people exist. The individual soldier acted as heroically as the General.

The proud and brave acts of either side are our common heritage. Our hearts fill with pride when we speak of that gallant charge of the soldiers of Pickett's brigade against Round Top on the famous battlefield of Gettysburg, and it was repulsed by the magnificent defense of the Federal artillerymen and soldiers. Each soldier did his duty, and no more could anyone do.

The true hero not only follows beaten paths, but blazes out new ones. He is not content to be a drone, to sit idly by and let the world move on. He becomes an actor. He does something. Like your able superintendent, he was not content to see his boys closed in small rooms from the bleak days of December, through the boisterous days of March, but conceived the idea of taking them to the balmy clime of Florida during this time.

The idea was new; it was progressive. Doubtless each boy returned benefited and improved. Any common man may follow a beaten track; it takes a hero to blaze a new one. Over in the distant mountain is hidden wealth untold. A man conceives how he can build a railroad and become the possessor of immense wealth. He does build it; he is now rich; he is really a hero. By the proper use of his intellectual faculties he has caused nature to yield to his demands.

We live in an age of great possibilities—perhaps the greatest the world has ever known. He who wills can do. The greatest acts are yet to be performed, and perhaps the greatest heroes are yet unborn.

"The sweetest song has not been sung,
Nor has the loudest bell been rung;
The brightest jewel still lies deep,
The fairest rose is yet asleep;
The greatest ship has never sailed,
The highest mountains are unscaled;
The largest house of brick and beam
Is but the vision of a dream;
The swiftest locomotive, too,
Has yet to show what it can do;
The world's great plans have not been heard,
And peace to-day is but a word.
Think, then, ye men of little worth,
Who say there's naught to do on earth."

* * *

The Importance of Duty.

If we will but do our duty to the fullest measure, to the extent of the abilities given us by our Creator, then we will have acted well our part, we can feel that we should be numbered among the list of unknown yet true heroes, and with this we should be content.

"To-morrow you leave your Alma Mater to conquer and to be conquered. Your life's work has just begun. You may think you have worked hard here, but when you come into contact with the keen edge of the world you will find that to parry the blows you must be prepared, and if possible be the aggressor. If you fail, cry not, for the world will miss you no more than when you put your fingers into the great waters of the deep, and take them away. The atoms roll together the same as if they had never been there.

"You are prepared for the contest by competent and sincere teachers in this great institution of learning, whose history is a part of the history of our State, and directed by a superintendent, one of the ablest educators of our country. So profit by their experience; act well your part, and when life's journey is over and the battle fought you will leave the proud heritage of being brave, upright and noble men. No more should any man ask."

Degrees and Medals.

Following Judge Dearing's address, which was greeted with prolonged cheers from the 132 assembled cadets and officers and visitors, was the conferring of degrees, Dr. Bailey officiating in the place of Gen. Lafayette Hewitt, president of the board of visitors, who was unable to be present. Following this was the presentation of the certificates and the awarding of alumni medals.

First of these came the Col. W. B. Haldeman medal for proficiency in English. Col. Haldeman made the presentation in person, the fortunate cadet being Sergt. C. Wilson. Col. Haldeman, in making his presentation address, explained to the winner that the badge was not to be regarded for its intrinsic value, but rather as a constant reminder of one year's hard and consistent work that had brought success.

The Col. Biscoe Hindman medal, awarded to the cadet having the best general average for the year in all studies, was given to Cadet R. C. Willoughby, while the Dr. W. H. Netherland medal, for excellence in physiology, fell to Cadet Davis. The presentation of both these medals were made by Col. C. W. Fowler, in the absence of the donors.

Other honors awarded were for the winning of the declamatory contest, to Cadet O'Hair; oratorical contest, to Cadet Nash; Weismann medal to captain of best drilled company, to Capt. Poage, of Co. A.; best soldier, old boys, to Sergt. Winchester; new boys, to Cadet Berry; Major Kidd medal for best work in commercial department, to Corporal Brattin.

Awards to distinguished cadets, those having a general average of over 95 per cent. in their studies, were made to R. C. Willoughby, R. C. Nash, R. W. McBrayer, W. L. Trimble and C. M. Wilson. In addition to these, awards of second distinguished cadets were made to fifteen others. Badges of honor were awarded to seventeen cadets who have over 300 credits. The award for having the best kept room for the year went to Cadets Brattin, Martin and Duffy, who are roommates. Commissions were announced, giving ranks as follows: First Lieut. Blackburn, First Lieut. Aldridge, Capt. Bentley, Capt. Green, Major Ewing, Major Cowell, Major Masher and Capt. Seger.

Winners In Athletics.

Following the regular exercises, the announcement of the winners in the various athletic contests was made. Athletic medals were awarded by Major McGowan to Sergt. Nelson, for best athlete and to Capt. Green for second best. The medal for the best tennis player went to Corporal Chappell. In the tennis tournament, held yesterday morning, Corporal Chappell won first place after a hot contest over twenty-five opponents. In the doubles Corporal Chappell and Cadet Woodruff were the winners. Both are in the junior class.

As a conclusion of their cadet days, the young soldiers marched from the gymnasium to quarters, reappearing a moment later for full dress parade. The large crowd followed the companies to the field and watched with interest the various maneuvers, which were ended with "retreat," and the last bugle call.

LIMB WASTED WITH ECZEMA

Obliged to Lie With Limbs Higher Than Head—Suffered Untold Agonies and Could Not Walk—Doctor Said It Was the Worst Case he Ever Saw.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA

"I received your letter asking for information about using the Cuticura Remedies. I used them for eczema. The doctor said it was the worst case he ever saw. It was on both limbs, from the knees to the ankles. We tried everything the doctors knew of, but the Cuticura Remedies did the most good. I was obliged to lie with my limbs higher than my head, for the pain was so terrible I could not walk. I suffered untold agonies. One limb wasted away a great deal smaller than the other, there was so much discharge from it. I found the Cuticura Remedies very soothing, and I still keep them in the house. I am very thankful to say that I am cured, and you can publish this statement if you wish. I found the Cuticura Remedies all that you say they are. I hope that you may be spared many years to make the Cuticura Remedies for the benefit of persons suffering from the torture of skin diseases, such as I had. CURED OF CHAPPED HANDS

"I have used the Cuticura Soap for chapped hands, which I had been troubled with for about three years. I suffered intense pain and itching. I used nearly two cakes of the Cuticura Soap, and my hands were completely cured and have never troubled me since. I also took the Cuticura Resolvent for the blood at the same time. I can recommend the Cuticura Remedies to others suffering the same. Chas. Young, Plattsville, Ontario, Canada, Sept. 29, 1905."

SUICIDE UNDER DIFFICULTIES

Man In Jail Uses Shirt For Rope.

Body In Cramped Position Under Low Shelf.

Gave Wrong Name When Charged With Forgery.

"DRINK AND RACES" CAUSE.

Goaded by remorse and unable to bear the disgrace attached to his imprisonment, a man who gave his name as John L. Foster, but later said it was not correct, committed suicide in his cell at the Jefferson county jail early yesterday morning. His body, still warm, was found hanging to the arm of a wall shelf, which is only about four feet from the floor, at 5 o'clock. Death resulted from strangulation, although there was little evidence of a struggle. The dead man's feet were drawn up under him in such a position that Michael Fitzgerald, who discovered the body, at first thought the man was engaged in prayer. He had accomplished his purpose by removing his red striped shirt, tieing it tightly about his neck, and knotting the sleeves to the iron arm of the wall shelf.

Following the discovery of the body by Fitzgerald, Patrick Beaman and Charles Linemen, guards, were notified. They hastily entered the cell and cut the body down. It was carried into the corridor of the tier of cells and Dr. Samuel H. Garvin, jail physician, was summoned. In the meantime every effort possible to restore life if there remained a spark in the body was made. Upon the arrival of Dr. Garvin, he announced that the man was dead.

Charged With Forgery.

When he first arrived in Louisville about one month ago, the man who was known at the jail as John L. Foster, registered at the Arlington hotel, Twelfth and Main streets, as J. C. Anderson, of New Albany. He was fairly well dressed, paid his board in advance, and had the appearance of being prosperous. He was arrested early Tuesday morning by Patrolman McGrath on the charge of forgery. It is alleged that he forged the names of J. E. Pearson, R. R. Gleason, Best & Co., and John C. Lewis to checks ranging from $1 to $3. These checks, it is alleged, were honored by John Sanderman, who conducts a saloon at First and Market streets; W. H. Miller, 321 Twelfth street; Tony Rickets, Sixth and Chestnut streets; H. J. Veeneman, Third avenue and Breckinridge street, and the Sweetheart Gum Company.

According to Fitzgerald, the man known as Foster, appeared to be despondent, following the calling of his case in Police Court Tuesday morning, when it was continued until Friday. Upon his return to jail, he asked several of his fellow prisoners what was the penalty for his alleged offense.

Said He Gave Wrong Name.

He confided to a number of them that his name was not Foster, but that he had been registered under that name in order to protect his relatives. Later in the day he appeared to take a brighter view of his incarceration and gave no intimation of an intention to commit suicide.

L. D. Bax, who has the body at his undertaking establishment, 700 East Chestnut street, spent all of yesterday in an effort to learn the true identity of the man. Several persons viewed the body. To those with whom he had dealings, the man told different stories, it is alleged. To one man he stated that he was a widower, and that his father-in-law was a wealthy contractor of Pittsburg, Pa. To others, he said that his home was in Philadelphia, and that he had two children in the Masonic Home at that place. He told several of the prisoners at the Jefferson county jail that he was a widower, and that he lived in Jersey City, N. J. He attributed his downfall to drinking and playing the races.

Patrolman McGrath, who arrested the man, said yesterday that he had nothing on his person at that time to throw light on his true identity. His linen and clothing bear no mark to indicate where they were purchased. He was about forty years of age, five feet three inches tall, and weighed 200 pounds. He was slightly bald, had brown eyes, and was smooth shaven.

POISON CAUSES DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN.

Juliette Dear Succumbs In the City Hospital.

Juliette Dear, who was also known as Alice Stein, twenty-five years old, died at the City Hospital yesterday afternoon as the result of carbolic acid poisoning. She was found unconscious at 418 Tenth street by another woman early yesterday morning. The bottle that had contained the poison was at her side. She never regained consciousness after her admission to the hospital. It was said that she had quarreled with a man shortly before she took the poison.

Dr. Harris Kelly, the coroner, ordered the removal of the body to the undertaking establishment of L. D. Bax who succeeded in locating some of the woman's relatives. She has two brothers who are newspaper men. One of them is said to be with the New York Herald and the other with the Chicago American. Mr. Bax communicated with the brother in New York by telegraph and he is expected to come to Louisville to take charge of the body.

The young woman, it is said, was born in Louisville. She had lived at the Tenth-street house only about two weeks. Her parents have been dead a number of years according to information secured by Mr. Bax.

The jury was out just two minutes.

Why Shouldn't a Man who likes music get all the pleasure and enjoyment he can, by having in his home a piano that he can play himself, so that he can have just the particular kind of music he likes best and have it whenever he wants it?

YOU SAY: Because he hasn't the time and patience to learn to play the piano.

WE SAY: He doesn't have to learn to play the piano. Not this one—the Farrand-Cecilian Piano—for he (or anyone else) can play it—play any music desired—Classical, Operatic, Dance Music, Rag Time or Popular—and play it with expression and feeling too, even though he knows nothing about music or piano playing.

Sounds strange, but it's all true, nevertheless.

The Farrand-Cecilian is a high-grade upright piano with a brilliant, clear, sweet tone, and with the mechanism of the metal action Cecilian Piano Player built inside the case.

You can play this piano with the fingers, just the same as you would any ordinary instrument, or you can play it with the mechanism of the Cecilian Player, which is built into it, so it is equally available for the wife and daughter, who have spent years of patient study and practice in learning how to play the piano, and for the man who doesn't know a blessed thing about music.

Wouldn't such a piano—a piano that all in the family could play—be used far more than the piano you have now?

We want you to come in and see and try this piano for yourself. It is a wonderful instrument, and you must see it to appreciate its many merits.

The price is $675.00. Easy payments if you like. Your old piano will be accepted for all it is worth, as a part payment.
